LETTERS and TOMATOES

A KICK IN THE CLASS

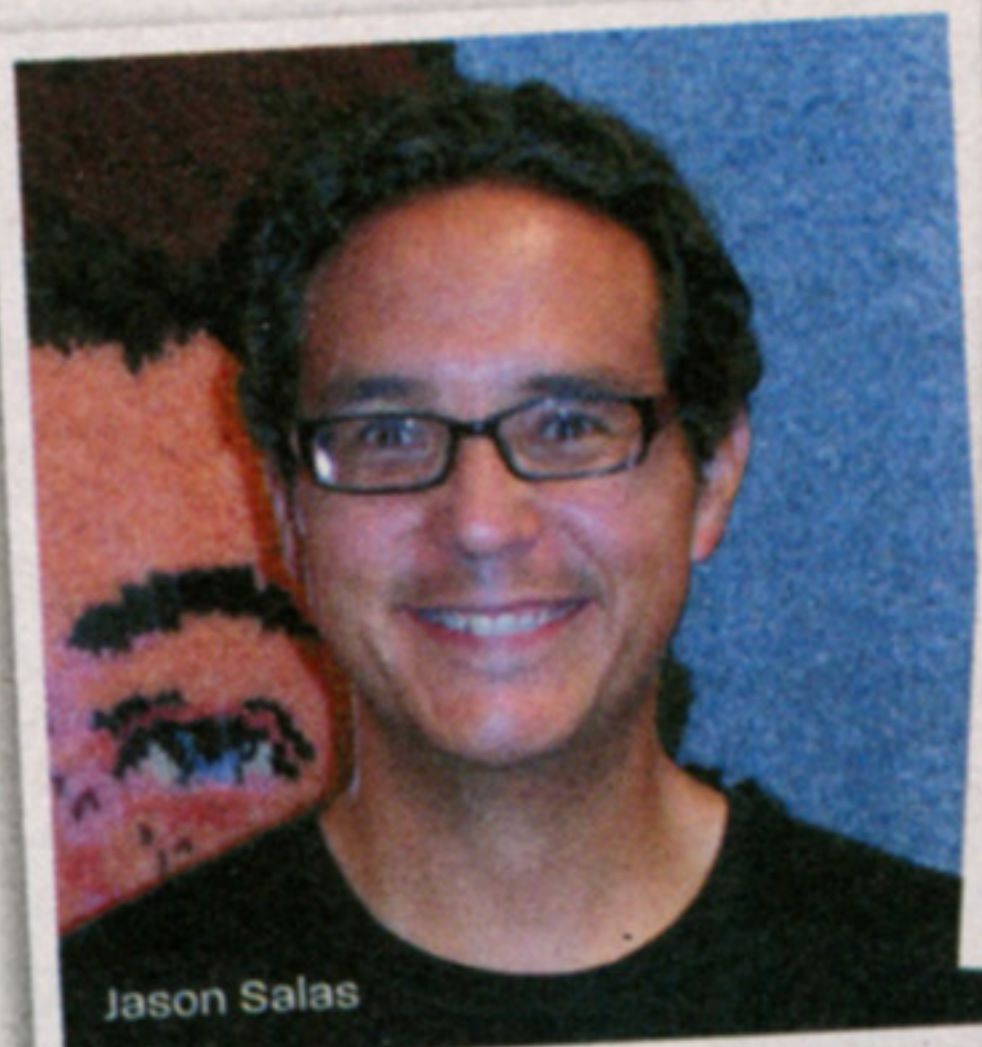

On one hot January day, my sixth grade music teacher, Ms. Burt, says that we can bring any magazine to school that can keep us quiet. (Why would you have to be quiet in music class?!) So I thought, why not bring a MAD Magazine. And while I'm reading, my music teacher grabs it and says, "MAD Magazine is stupid and has nothing to do with music." So here I am, begging you to print this letter, and prove my stupid music teacher wrong.

Joshua Lacey • Chicago, IL

Lacey in the Sky with Diamonds — Your letter had a huge effect on the entire MAD staff. After hearing what you had gone through, we knew we had to do SOMETHING to right Ms. Burt's egregious wrong! Which is why in this very issue there's a parody of the Glee poster! Now, if Ms. Burt gives you any trouble you can say, "Sure, MAD may be stupid, but it definitely has something to do with music! Ha-cha!" You don't have to say the "Ha-cha" part, but we find that it's a nice little capper! —Ed.

EMPLOYEES OF THE MONTHS

Here at MAD, we always try to encourage young talent and nurture their burgeoning careers. And if that happens to result in cheap labor for us, then so be it! A huge thanks to our wonderful Editorial interns, Jason Salas and Jason Katzenstein, and our equally wonderful Art Interns, Michelle Dwyer and Bob Machuga! We're sure they'll go on to even bigger and better things — because, let's face it, after a MAD internship, there's really nowhere to go but up!

MAKE A DUMB WISH FOUNDATION™

I want to make a Dumb Wish for the Make a Dumb Wish Foundation™. My dumb wish is for an Xbox 360 (or at least a year's subscription to MAD). Anyway, I'm just so sick of hearing how great a friggin' Xbox is at school. Everyone at my lunch table talks about how great it is, all the new games, the online games. Oh, how I hate being left out of the conversations.

Dylan Lews • Montross, VA

Dyl, Baby, Dyl — We hope you're a student and not a teacher, because that would be really sad. Unfortunately, we can't give you an Xbox (we're still using our old ColecoVision, ourselves). It doesn't matter, though — even if we did give you an Xbox, we get the feeling that your "friends" would just find another way to leave you out of their conversations. Now, if you'll excuse us, we have to finish our game of "Burgertime." —Ed.

WALK ON THE WILDE SIDE

I am thirteen and although I don't subscribe (my parents would never pay for a magazine like MAD), I have been reading them for many years and am proud to say I have read all the copies of MAD in my library. The librarians keep their copies in a small box in the back. Anyways, a couple of weeks ago while I was waiting for a science project to print (it eventually printed backwards and upside down) I noticed that the librarians had put up a quote from Oscar Wilde that says "It is what you read when you don't have to that determines what you will be when you can't help it." So, what I am wondering is, what does this say about me and all other MAD readers?

Julianna Harwood • Yarmouth, ME

Harwood Floors — We think Oscar Wilde himself said it best when he said, "It's what you read when you don't have intelligence that is kept in a small box in the back of the library." —Ed.

SOMETHING IN THE AREOLA

None of my friends will read MAD. I showed my friends MAD #500, but the only thing they looked at was "The MAD Guide to Man Boobs." After that, they refused to read any other part in any other magazine! But here's the worst part: they won't BUY it! Ahhhhhhh! Sad, huh? Well, MAD, all I'm asking you is to put this letter in your magazine so my friends will see it's awesome and they should buy it.

Nathan Fenske • Monaga, CA

Thank You for Being a Fenske — It sounds like you KNOW what your friends enjoy — man boobs — so why not give it to them? If that's all that they're interested in reading about, there are plenty of magazines that focus on that topic. The best ones on the newsstand are Gentlemen Jugs, Him-Lumps Monthly, Mountainous Manscapes Digest and, of course, U.S. News & World Report! —Ed.

JAILHOUSE MOCK

I am currently incarcerated and it's driving me mad, because every month I buy a MAD Magazine and every month, I get beat up for it. The other inmates always joke or threaten to make me an Alfred E. Neuman look-a-like if I don't give it up. Good thing we don't have cameras in here or they might be tempted to do just that and send in the picture.

Robert John Corrigan • Hamilton, ON

Corrigan Trail — Sounds like you just need to start reading a magazine that won't get you beaten up! We suggest Gentlemen Jugs, Him-Lumps Monthly, Mountainous Manscapes Digest and, of course, U.S. News & World Report! —Ed.

WAIT TRAINING

My name is Kyle and I am a sixth grader in Cheshire, Connecticut. I enjoy reading MAD Magazine. I read every issue all the time. The reason I am writing this is because I have a question, and that question is, why isn't MAD a monthly magazine? MAD is my favorite magazine. I enjoy reading your magazine. I read MAD over and over, but it gets boring after I read it over and over. It would be awesome if you guys could make MAD a monthly magazine.

Kyle Vellucci • Cheshire, CT

The magazine gets boring after you read it over and over?!? Consider yourself lucky! Your letter got boring the FIRST time we read it! As for your question — it's kind of YOUR fault. The average MAD reader takes 2-3 months just to read a single issue one time — so slow down, Einstein! —Ed.

DUMB IS THE LONELIEST NUMBER

I recently came across stacks of my old MAD magazines from the early '80s, and I couldn't resist reading through them. In many of Dave Berg's Lighter Sides, he often depicted someone wearing a shirt with the number "53" on it. Can anyone explain what the significance of the number 53 was?

Mike Devine • Pittsburgh, PA

Deviney-Meeny-Miney-Moe — That's an excellent question! For years, scholars and numerologists have debated the meaning of Dave Berg's number 53. After much speculation and research, here are the prevailing theories:

- It represents the number of hitchhikers Dave mowed down during an ill-fated 1972 roadtrip
- It's Dave's jersey number during his championship season with the '85 Chicago Bears
- It was the number of corn farms Dave personally kept in business through his corncob pipe consumption
- It's for 1953, the year MAD started (actually, MAD started in 1952, but we never had the heart to tell Dave that)
- It was Michael Jordan's number...plus 30, which was also an important number to Dave...but we're damned if we know why.

In truth, we're not really sure what the significance of 53 is, but we bet Glenn Beck could fill a whole chalkboard trying to explain it. —Ed.

THE BIG EASEL

I am possibly your second youngest fan! Me, 11, and my sister, 9, love your magazine! So much, that I spent months trying to make the perfect letter and/or envelope! See ya later.

Claudia Gay • Howard, GA

Claudia With a Chance of Meatballs — We always love hearing from our young fans and we love your artwork! One question, though — why'd you send us this awesome wax and yarn sculpture of David Caruso?

THESE BOOBS WERE MADE FOR GAWKIN'

I love your magazine and I want to recommend you do the "Man Boobs" thing again.

Ben Zuccarelli • Alphretta, GA

Ben There, Done That — By any chance, are you friends with Nathan Fenske? —Ed.

MAD FAN OF THE MONTH

I finally was able to find a camera (you know, one of those things that take pictures in full color) and took a nice picture of my HUGE MAD Magazine collection. So here goes — enjoy it!

Frederick Hamra • Montreal, QC

Stop...Hamra Time — Thanks for sharing. You should also check out "Alfred's" amazing work in Quigley Down Under and Three Men and a Little Lady. That said, we hope you're also able to find a bus (you know, one of those huge vehicles that you can throw yourself in front of). —Ed.

LETTERS and TOMATOES

ENVELOPE OF THE MONTH

I have read MAD since I was a little girl. My mother was the first one who introduced me to MAD and all its craziness. Unfortunately, she suddenly passed away on July 1, 2009. She had the greatest personality and MAD was a major part of her crazy, sarcastic, open-minded and easy-going ways. If you publish this letter, many people she affected in her short 44 years on this earth will read this letter in MAD and smile. Thank you for continuing to have great MAD ideas and I dedicate my envelope of MAD art to my mother Toni and to you.

Jill Marie Tillman Webster • Conway, SC

THIS IS VINYL CRAP

The website sleeveface.com, features images of people holding records in front of their faces, attempting to match the cover image. We don't know who sent in this one featuring the 1959 album, "Musically MAD," but judging from the black suit and silky tie, we're guessing it's Michael Bublé! We like this look a lot better for him!

READER ALERT

Everyone who had their letters printed are in for a whole world of awesome! You'll be receiving Flight of the Conchords: The Complete Collection courtesy of our friends at HBO Home Entertainment, a Personal Concealment Soda Can from our pals at Graham Tool Co, Inc. August 1, 2010

Who decided that dogs would be the animals that we used to help the blind? Like, did the other animals get to audition? Was there a failed experiment with seeing-eye ferrets and seeing-eye cows?

August 2, 2010

My dad's been listening to this Bob Dylan album in the car. He says it's great music, but I think it's kind of weird. There's this one song that begins, "How many roads must a man walk down before you call him a man?" That's a trick question, right? Because you're already calling him a man in the question.

August 4, 2010

Arrrrrrrrgh. I came inside from our porch tonight and discovered that I was covered with mosquito bites. Stupid mosquitoes. I've been thinking about it, and I think I've got a great solution to prevent mosquito bites. They bite us in order to drink our blood, right? Well, why not fill up a hummingbird feeder with blood, and let the mosquitoes drink it from there? That way, they get all the blood they want, and none of us get bitten.

I told my mom about my brilliant idea. She said it was the most disgusting thing she'd ever heard. "But we wouldn't get bitten by mosquitoes!" I said. And she said, "You also could just put on the insect-repellent like I kept telling you to."

It sucks to be a brilliant inventor and have nobody else realize it.

August 6, 2010

If you think about it, firemen shouldn't be called "firemen". "Firemen" is what we should call arsonists. Firemen should be called "anti-firemen". I don't know why no one has ever pointed this out to them.

August 9, 2010

Glee is an OK show, but just once, when everyone in the school starts singing, I'd like to see some kid in the background going, "What the hell is going on? Did you all rehearse when I was out sick or something? Seriously — this is really creepy. Can you cut it out?"

August 10, 2010

Tonight at dinner, my mom asked me, "What are you doing next Saturday?" And without thinking, I said, "I don't know. Nothing." And she said, "Great! You can help me out with the baby shower!"

I have to learn to always think before answering my mom's questions. She's super-tricky sometimes.

Anyway, I guess my mom's agreed to have a baby shower for her friend Julie from her book club. I'm not sure I've ever even met Julie — whenever my mom's book club comes over, my dad usually takes me to the movies, so that neither of us have to be around for it. But now both of us are going to be stuck helping out with the baby shower. I asked my dad what a baby shower was and he said it's a party where women open up one box after another with tiny outfits in them and say how cute they are. I asked how long they usually take, and he said, "Around five hours." I said, "You're kidding." He said, "Nope."

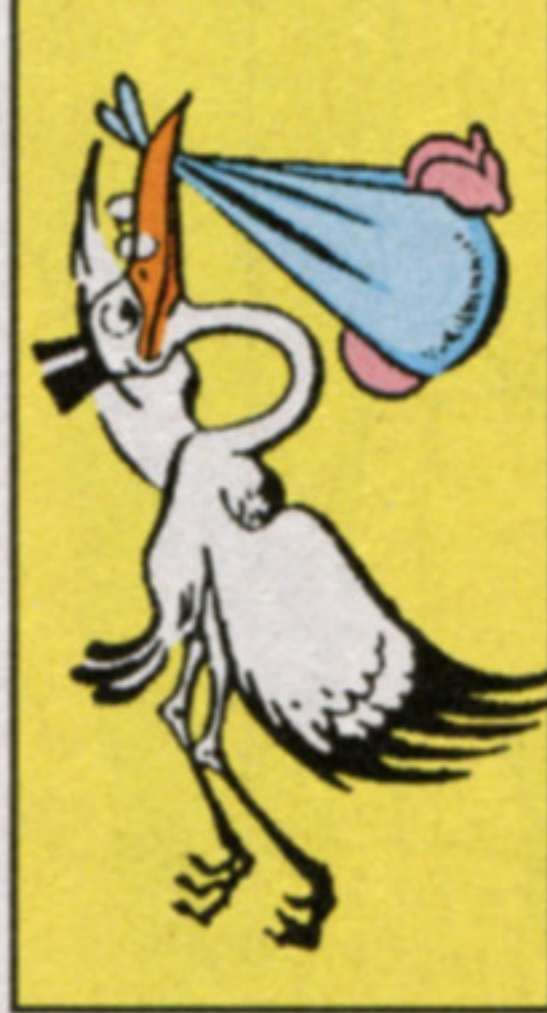

We're screwed.

August 12, 2010

Today, we went to the party store to get plates and streamers for the baby shower. I'd never been in the party store before. I'd always thought it would be kind of a fun place, what with the word "party" right in the name, but all the workers there looked really depressed, like there'd been some horrible accident the day before where one of their coworkers had drowned in a vat of confetti.

All the baby shower decorations had pictures like this on them:

My kid sister Sophie asked why, and I told her it was because storks used to sneak into maternity wards and steal babies; we put these pictures on maternity stuff in order to commemorate all the babies that were eaten by birds, in the days before stork-proofing. I don't think she believed me.

August 15, 2010

I'm halfway through my summer reading assignment, Lord of the Flies. It's about a bunch of kids stranded on a deserted island who start killing each other. I think it's supposed to be sad, but it's kind of like the best episode of Survivor ever.

August 21, 2010

Good news! I just got out of helping out at my mom's baby shower! It had just started, and guests were still arriving, and my mom sent me out to offer everyone sandwiches. And when I was serving them, I said, "Congratulations, Julie! I bet you can't wait for the baby to get here!" And the woman I was serving said, "I'm not Julie." And I said, "Sorry. I just assumed, 'cause you're pregnant." And she said, "No, I'm not."

And then my mom came over and said, "Thanks, Tad. I'll handle everything from here." And she sent me to my room for the rest of the party.

So, for future reference: saying one of her friends looks pregnant = sure-fire way to get out of helping out at my mom's parties. I'm going to have to remember that.

Everyone hates going to the doctor! After all, there's nothing worse than getting poked, prodded, manhandled and weighed! Except having to wait to get poked, prodded manhandled and weighed! And, aside from paging through a few patient-contaminated copies of Reader's Digest, there's nothing you can do to pass the time! Until now! Here's MAD's prescription for...

9 WAYS TO PASS THE TIME IN YOUR DOCTOR'S WAITING ROOM

WRITER AND ARTIST: TERESA BURNS PARKHURST

1 Try to diagnose each other

I would say it's most likely Leprosy or shingles.

Yeah, but that doesn't explain the chronic gas. I bet it's ass cancer with a touch of poison ivy.

You just too fat.

2 Start taking bets on who gets called next

Mr. Diefendorf?

Yes! I win!

Son of a snitch - I thought for sure it'd be that fat immigrant across the room.

3 Spitball up the reception window

Payment is expected at time of service.

4 Bring Monopoly and see how many games you can finish

Her! You landed on my Boardwalk with a hotel! I win again!!

Is it Tuesday yet?

5 Make up a game with the medical pamphlets

Nice bluff, but I know you're holding a "Living With Hemophilia!"

6 Tailgate parties

If you're here to see Dr. Littenger you might as well park it and have a beverage 'cause you ain't going nowhere for a good hour!

Boy, am I ever going to have a fruitful urine sample!

FERD MEDICAL CENTER

7 Play "I'm Going on a Picnic" using medical terminology

I'm going on a picnic and in my basket I'll bring Acid Reflux, Benign tumors, Colitis, Disease, and E, Let's see... Erectile dysfunction!

8 Make forts

We should ask the receptionist if she'll give us some flashlights!

Totally!

9 Make a conga line

C'mon! You can sweat that Hepatitis right out of you!

I'm just like Robert Pattinson — if his mom drank during pregnancy!

Aar! The door knob's in my back!

Vampires love rednecks! Get it? Ooh, tough crowd!

Back off! I already gave at the Red Cross blood drive!

THE VAMPIRE STRIKES BACK DEPT.

Thank God I got this gig so I don't have to be in another one of those lousy X-Men movies!

MAD'S
OH-SO NEGATIVE

TRUE BLOOD OUTTAKES

Be careful with them, fang boy, unless you want silicone squirting all over the place!

If Crest Whitening Strips helped me remove pesky blood stains, imagine what they can do for you!

Think of me as Marley, from Marley & Me, if he had become a demon zombie dog after he died!

Half naked, being passed around by a group of men — I feel just like Lindsay Lohan!

Jeez, these Louisiana summers are brutal!

Vampires, okay! Werewolves, okay! But no F*$%ing Irish!

Yeah, I had a jelly donut. Why do you ask?

Can't... get... Bieber... song... out... of... head...

Gulf of Mexico Oil Spill Response.

(We're talking about this ad. What did you think we meant?)

Since the small mishap on the TransOcean Deepwater Horizon drilling rig first occurred in April, we have been committed to doing everything possible within our means to stop the catastrophic flow of bad news. And of course, the oil.

5,000 barrels of oil a day might seem like a lot. But compared to all the water in the Gulf, 19,000 barrels a day isn't that much. It's still mostly water there! And while cleaning up 25,000 barrels a day is not a simple task, we're bringing in more equipment to clean up the 45,000 to 60,000 barrels of oil that's leaking out daily. (Accurate estimates may vary.)

Rest assured that far in advance of this terrible catastrophe, BP executives had carefully considered every single operational and safety procedure available BEFORE choosing the cheapest and riskiest ways to proceed with offshore drilling. Protecting the environment was at the top of our list (when that list is viewed from the bottom up).

Our initial emergency response plan — to utilize all available fish, shellfish and aquatic birds to completely drench themselves with oil and then swim and fly it out of the Gulf did not work as well as planned. And resulted in quite a large number of dead fish, shellfish and aquatic birds. That's why BP has started working tirelessly with the U.S. Coast Guard and federal, state and local government agencies — actually, with anyone that will help us spread the blame, finger-pointing and anger as quickly as petroleum spreads unabated throughout the Gulf.

This is an enormous team effort involving more than 2,500 BP personnel — and even though 2,430 of them work in public relations and spin control, the other 70 have a heck of a lot of experience regarding oil spills, having worked for years in local BP service stations with pushbrooms and oily rags.

BP will honor all legitimate claims. We will do this by allowing any fishermen whose livelihoods have been ruined by our drilling mishap to keep all the oil they can scrape off of their boats, docks, nets and other equipment. With the price of gas what it is today, that's a pretty penny! You're welcome.

We will continue to do everything possible to keep everyone informed — simply typing "Gulf of Mexico Oil Spill" in Google, for instance, will direct you to a selection of BP-bought web pages that report exclusively on our noble and courageous efforts to clean up the water, without wasting a single page describing our sketchy safety record, employee deaths, environmental violations or obscene profits.

Remember, BP has dedicated $500 million to cover the long-term impact on marine life and coastal waters. Even if the cleanup costs are in the billions of dollars, we're STILL committed to spending $500 million.

Drummer From '90s Band Farts Into Fist

The drummer from that one band (you know, they had that song on the Benny & Joon soundtrack, remember?) was caught as he was leaving a Ventura Blvd. pawnshop pulling the "hand grenade" — farting into his closed fist, then bringing up the fresh catch for a close-up snifferoo.

Now that's what we call a hot item!

Snooki Really "Cares"!

Here's a picture we dug up of Jersey Shore bone-smuggler Snooki — right next to a picture of a Care Bear! When you put them next to each other like that, they sorta look the same! You're so damn welcome!

That Care Bear probably doesn't have Stage 4 Chlamydia, though.

It seems like every few months, the Post Office releases a new "special" collection of stamps, all in a lame attempt to get people excited about mailing things. In fairness, there have been some pretty decent collections, like The Simpsons and Star Wars — but there have also been a bunch that were so terrible, they never saw the light of day. Be glad you never had to sully your outgoing mail with any of these...

*All day, over the airwaves, verbal poo.
Maybe we'd find the right track, if they'd STFU!*

The taxpayer-funded medical coverage she's getting proves that universal health care works!

But how'd she get here? Our borders truly are broken!

Look, she's got a cute little fuzzy dog. Speaking of which, cap and trade is a liberal sellout that will bankrupt us!

Maybe it's my Grade III concussion talking, but that didn't make sense.

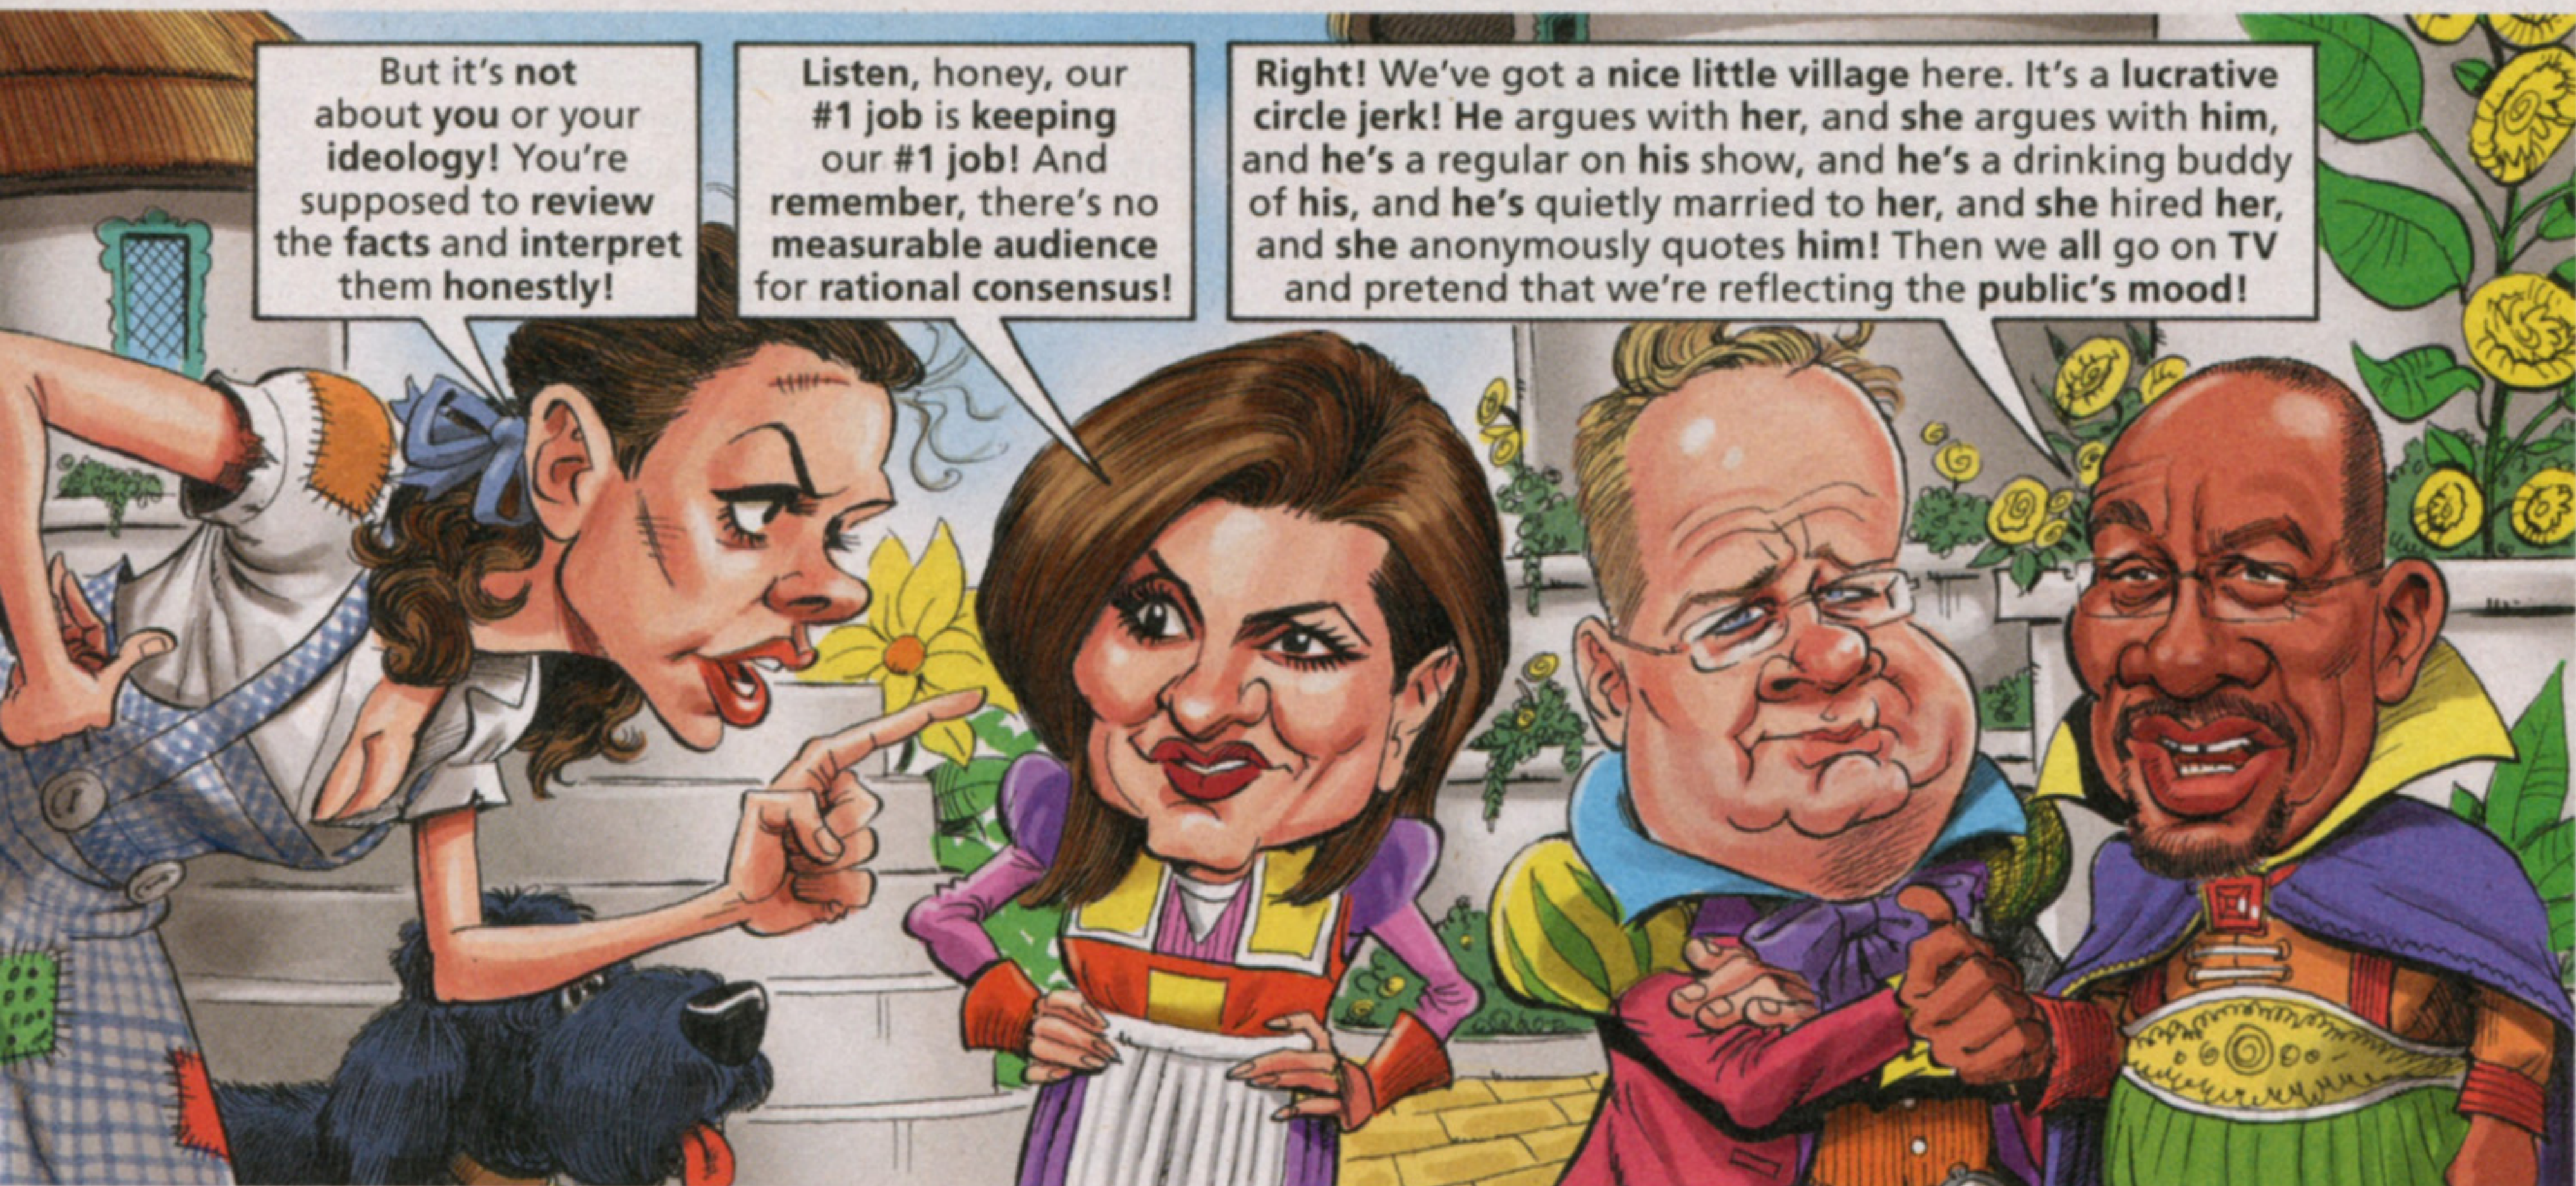

It doesn't have to make sense! What we say just needs to be emphatic! And repeated! If you repeatedly repeat with repeated repetition, the repeating leads to repeat TV appearances repeatedly!

But it's not about you or your ideology! You're supposed to review the facts and interpret them honestly!

Listen, honey, our #1 job is keeping our #1 job! And remember, there's no measurable audience for rational consensus!

Right! We've got a nice little village here. It's a lucrative circle jerk! He argues with her, and she argues with him, and he's a regular on his show, and he's a drinking buddy of his, and he's quietly married to her, and she hired her, and she anonymously quotes him! Then we all go on TV and pretend that we're reflecting the public's mood!

Hooray! It's the Witless Witch of the North!

Stop coddlin' that illegal alien! She's been here five minutes and she's already associating with radical liberals! She'll probably pal around with that socialist wizard next! But not if I blow her head off with a fireball, roast the skin off her bones, and use what's left of her skeleton to clean the barrel of my gun!

Hey, that's violent rhetoric!

As usual, my inspirational message has been misinterpreted by the lame-stream media! Try to get this right: I said "if"!

I hate flying off so quickly...not counting from my Governor's job! But I hate makin' appearances without getting a speaking fee! Don't worry, my pretty, we'll meet again! Hey! I really CAN see Russia from up here!

DRILL BABY, DRILL

That's exactly the kind of idiotic talk that's ruining our country! I'm not going home until I can meet someone who's above petty politics. Isn't there a common path we can all walk together as Americans?

Follow the right-wing red road!

Follow the right-wing red road!

Swallow, swallow, swallow the party line whole!

My God! This is like being trapped in some horrible combination of The McLaughlin Report and Glee! You can't agree on anything!

There's only one man who can rise above this gridlock! He's very post-partisan, but very mysterious. Some say he's black, some say he's white. Some say he came from a small Pacific island! Others say he's from the deepest jungles of Africa! The only thing we know for sure is that he can't bowl for s#!*!

You've got to see the Wizard, the worshipful Wizard of O! The snappy chap that just can't be flapped, unflappable head to toe! Day in and day out we remain devout, the Wizard of O we never doubt...

Because, because, because, BE-CAUSE!

Um... because why?

No reason. Just because.

Why? Why? Why a brick road?
It's diabolically simple! Ovens.
Bricks are baked in ovens!
Ever visit a Nazi death camp?
Ovens! And if the socialist fascist Klingon agenda takes over, we might all be cooking
pizza for Chairman Mao!

I'm the only one talking about this.
You've got the Wicked Witch, she's green. The Emerald City? Green. So
I'm wondering, what else is green?
And it hits me. Kermit the Frog!
Little, lovable Kermit, who works for the Children's Television Workshop.
That's right...child labor!

When Barack Hussein Obama
Miscalculates the drama,
It fills my heart with pain.
He's just a lightweight bumbling,
Our democracy is crumbling
'Cause he doesn't have a brain!

There are sinister connections
Since the '08 elections,
Though they may seem arcane.
I'm a true visionary!
He's a commie dingleberry!
'Cause he doesn't have a brain!

Each link will make you think
And act accordingly.
If you want to fight the huge conspiracy,
Here's what to do: keep watching me!

Now you have all of the pieces
And must accept my thesis
Or else I am insane.
But I've nev-er felt better,
Booga booga veeblefetzter.
If he only had a brain!

I'm no closer to getting past the partisan dogma,
and now I'm saddled
with two jerks and a joke! Could anything else go wrong?

You betcha! I told you I'd be back, but I never said you were gonna like it. I hunt moose! I shoot wolves from the sky!
I even killed a war hero's Presidential campaign in just eight weeks! Frying one itsy-bitsy undecided voter will be a breeze!

Sob! Dorothy's gonna die!
This is the fourth saddest thing I've ever heard of, after the Holocaust, 9/11, and Frosted Mini-Chex! No, wait, is when those communist Band-Aids get stuck to your leg hair! Boo hoo hoo hooo!!!

Oh, dear!
You're
crying all over that expensive dress she didn't pay for!

Yaaaaghhh!
I'm melting!
I'm mel-l-l-ltinggg! Nevertheless, I STILL say global warming is a hoax!

SILENCE! I am the great and powerful O! I changed
U.S. politics forever! I made history in our time! And I even pulled down 52% of the vote in Virginia! Boo-ya!

Please, omnipotent
sir, we've destroyed
the Witless Witch!
And in return, we'd
each like one favor!

No can do! After the bank bailouts, the car company takeovers and
the unfunded health care mandate, I'm kinda tapped out on favors!

You were supposed to be
this giant,
transformative head of state! But you're just another
cheap backroom politician!

To Americans who worry about their children's futures, my message is this: I hear you! I'm really good at hearing, but not good at doing! I make Avatar look like something that lived up to its hype!
