WOE, CANADA

I notice all sorts of fun little surprises in your magazine. I noticed in MAD #504 that you probably don't like Canadians, because in "Bieber Vs..." you say that between Bieber and Bebop, it's a tie, but the reason is that Bebop is half-human/half-warthog, and Bieber is Canadian! If you want me to subscribe, then STOP making fun of Canadian things! If you don't, you will hear from me again! I MEAN IT!

Sarah Flesher • Edmonton, Canada

Flesher and Bone — Wait a minute! If we don't make fun of Canadian things, what's left for us to make fun of?!?! Oh yeah — EVERYTHING OF IMPORTANCE! Somehow, we think we'll get by without mocking poutine, curling and the Winnipeg Jets. And just for the record, Bieber is still fair game — he belongs to the world now! —Ed.

P.S. — We're retroactively declaring Bebop the winner.

COMICALLY INEPT

It's official — The Simpsons has run out of ideas! How else can you explain the fact that the plot in Simpsons Comics #203 was all about Bart starting his own strangely-familiar humor magazine? Even more damning — the issue features a MAD-esque cover and back cover, as well as MAD-centric pages throughout! Worst. Comic book. Ever.

TALES FROM THE QUIP

I guess I'll start this letter like everyone else. I love MAD. Yes, I am one of those 10-year-olds that read MAD, even though it's not that appropriate for 10-year-olds. I am one of those funny kids at school and sometimes I don't have any jokes. So I just try to remember MAD. Like, for example, I hate Lord of the Rings, so I told my friends, "I am so bored of the rings!" As you probably remember, your spoof was "Bored of the Rings."

Noah Perelmutter • Winter Park, FL

Gotta Noah When to Hold 'Em — So let us get this straight — thanks to MAD, you have a zinger ready...but only if someone mentions Lord of the Rings? Why not also use it if someone is eating onion rings...or showing off their jewelry...or has a phone that keeps ringing? As long as one of those four things happens, you'll be the life of the party. Sure, it'll be a terrible, terrible party, but you can't have everything! —Ed.

AMERICA THE DISPUTABLE

The July issue of Reader's Digest featured the cover story "Best of America — 50 More Reasons to Love Our Country!" This is clearly an obnoxious rebuttal to our "The 50 Worst Things About America" piece from MAD #515 — so we're going to offer a few counter-rebuttals of our own towards Reader's Digest: 1) laughter is NOT the best medicine (that would be Robitussin Mucus Relief), 2) it does NOT pay to increase your word power (as magazine editors, we make slightly less than the average street performer) and 3) there hasn't been any real-life humor in uniform since the invasion of Iraq! Take that, Reader's Digest!

THINGS THAT GO SPLOINK IN THE NIGHT

I have been a fan for a long time. I started reading your magazine when I was about 16. I recently started receiving your magazine again, and I'm sharing them with my children. But something strange happened last night. My children were cleaning out an old end table and came across an old issue of MAD. The strange thing is, this wasn't one of my old ones. It couldn't have been mine, as it is older than me! I have NO idea where it came from! So is our home haunted by the ghost of MAD? I'm kinda creeped out now...

Carisa Luongo • Endicott, NY

Take the Luongo Way Home — With any luck, it's not a haunting, but just a disgusting infestation — like silverfish or field mice. However, on the off-chance that your home IS haunted, our advice is to get a priest in there. Maybe a rabbi, too. Oh — and a forklift operator! And when they all walk in, hopefully it will be the start of a fantastic joke that gets the stink of MAD's terrible humor out of your lovely home once and for all! —Ed.

CELEBRITY SNAPS

While at the San Diego Comic-Con, MAD Art Director Sam Viviano and Associate Art Director Ryan Flanders spied none other than Game of Thrones scribe George R.R. Martin eating breakfast right next to them! After rehearsing their Dothraki, they screwed up the courage to approach him for this Celebrity Snap! He was a great sport, even turning his famous hat sideways "Alfred E. Neuman-style." Thanks, George! Now stop goofing around and wrap up that heptalogy!

FRATERNAL AFFAIRS

I have a dilemma. My little brother has recently discovered my stash of MAD magazines. Shortly after discovering them, he borrowed a few magazines to read. He borrowed a few more and it escalated to the point where he has most of my magazines hidden in various locations around his room. I was wondering if you "Usual Gang of Idiots" had any advice as to how I could get them back. I could really use some help, because I'm nearing the end of my collection!

John Gauge • Petaluma, CA

Gauge Against the Machine — We're no stranger to this problem — much like the Civil War, MAD has long pitted brother against brother! But you've come to the right place! One solution would be to conspicuously sit around the house reading copies of Cat Fancy and Modern Orthodontist — then let your brother "discover" your stash of those back issues. Soon he'll be hooked on them and you'll have your MADs all to yourself! However, that seems needlessly complicated, when you could restore order to your household if you each just got your own subscription to MAD! Why, you can just call 1-800-4-MADMAG or visit madmagazine.com and end this sibling rivalry (and line our pockets) once and for all. Do it for the sake of your family! —Ed.

A VISIT FROM THE 'TOON SQUAD

Many eagle-eyed readers sent us a recent installment of "Mutts," in which a mischievous squirrel (is there any other kind?) drops an acorn on Alfred's head. And while we're not sure why he was standing under that tree, we do know that this casual cartoon-character-on-Alfred violence cannot be tolerated. Because if we let this sort of thing go on, it will only be a matter of time before Mark Trail ties Alfred in a sack full of rattlesnakes and kicks him down a ravine. That's right, Trail — we've got our eye on you!

GOING FROM GRAD TO WORSE

Your magazine is awesome and I have a subscription. I have a question. If all of the artists at MAD were in categories from their high school yearbooks' superlatives, what would they be in?

Ryan Piazza • Westminster, MD

Piazza Hut — Your letter makes the huge assumption that any of our contributors ever graduated from high school, but a few have actually managed the feat, including:

Anton Emdin — Most Likely to be Pummeled by Event Staff

Paul Coker — Most Symmetrical Nostrils

Teresa Burns Parkhurst — Most Likely to Receive a Restraining Order from Angela Lansbury

Jason Yungbluth — Fanciest Spats

In related news, John Caldwell is currently studying again for his GED. Everyone cross their fingers for our boy Johnny! —Ed.

ENVELOPE OF THE MONTH

Luke Ellison of Toledo, OH sent in this amazingly prescient Envelope of the Month. Somehow, he was able to predict that William and Kate would have a baby MONTHS before he was even born!

NUMBER TWO'S COMPANY

This past Tuesday, my 4-year-old grandson requested some "privacy" in the bathroom. I left him alone with the door closed. After 10 minutes passed, I called to him but received no answer, so I decided to check on him. When I opened the door, he was sitting on the toilet, with MAD opened on his lap. He looked at me, folded it back up and stowed it away on the magazine shelf in front of him. We didn't say anything about it. I've been laughing about it ever since. He doesn't know how to read yet, but something about the cover of the issue must have intrigued him. And the lure of reading on the toilet must have been too strong for him to resist.

Mary Dryfoos • Poughkeepsie, NY

High & Dryfoos — We know exactly what you mean — we also love reading MAD on the toilet! And if you think reading MAD on the toilet is great, you should try writing it on the toilet! In fact, we're on the can right now! It's amazing how light and convenient laptops are these days! Sure, we may end up voiding a warranty or two, but we think you'll agree, the final products speak for themselves. —Ed.

ALFRED E. NEUMAN LOOK-A-LIKE

Our grandson, Burton Bugbee (everyone calls him "B") is eight years old. He recently noticed the uncanny countenance on the cover of MAD and knew he could do better. Behold the heartthrob of the next generation – Alfred B. Neuman!

Thomas Dougherty •
Clarence Center, NY

Dougherty Laundry — We've been running this feature for quite some time now and we have to tell you that, as far as ANY Alfred Look-A-Like becoming "the heartthrob of the next generation" ...well, that's just not in the cards.

Maybe you should just focus on him NOT becoming "the laughingstock of Clarence Center, NY"! —Ed.

SNAP MISJUDGMENTS

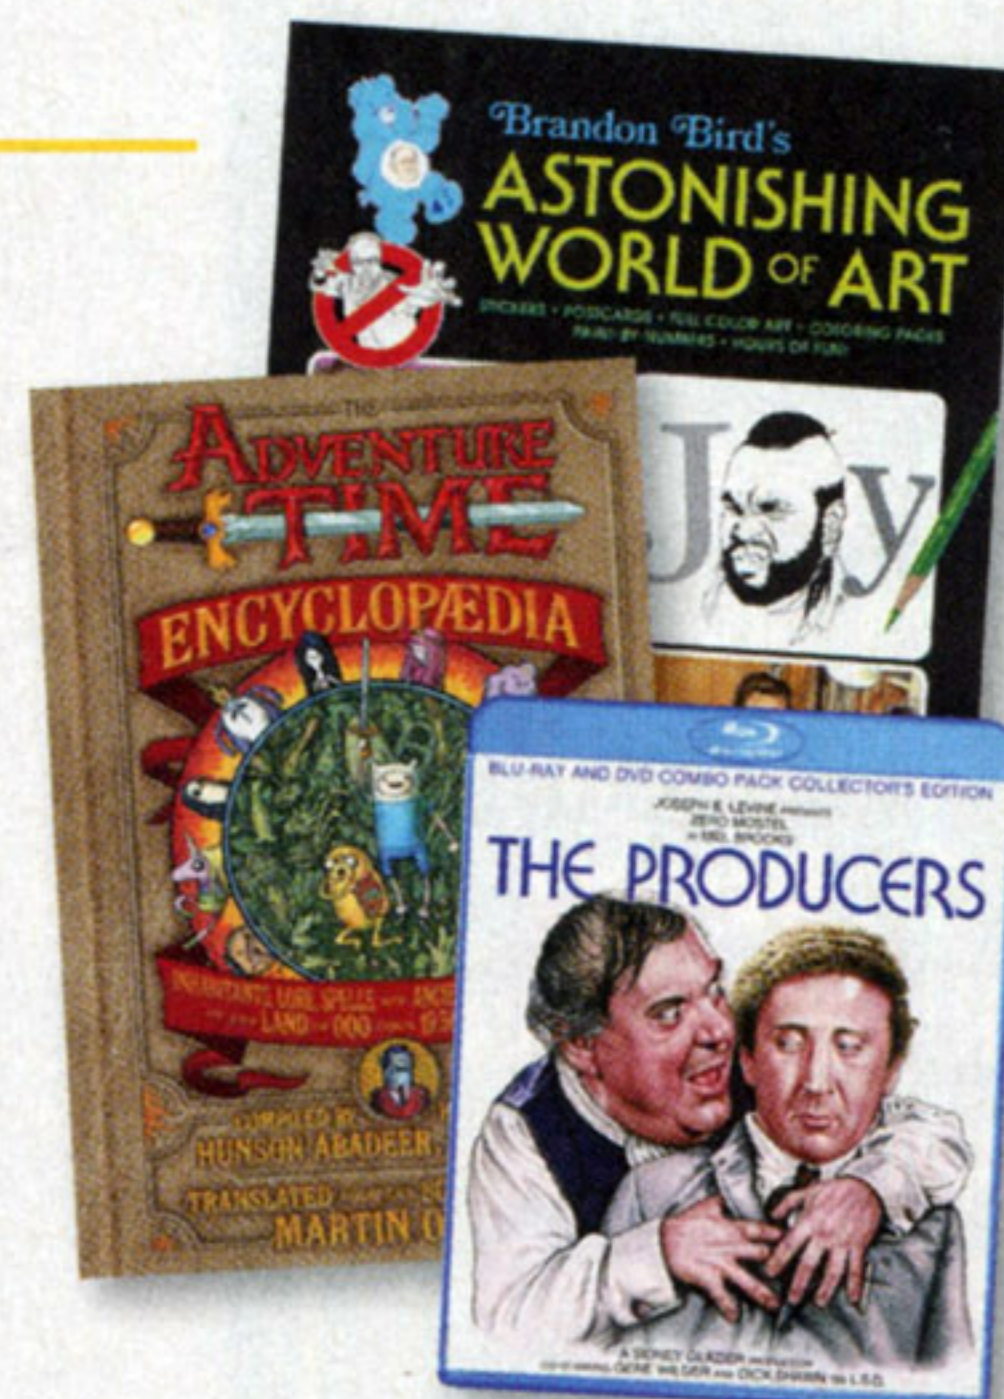

I was hoping to turn the trip of a lifetime into a free year of MAD magazine. Oh, how my plan failed miserably. Between a layover in Los Angeles and spending 10 days on the Hawaiian island of Maui, I figured the odds were good I'd bump into someone famous, get their picture holding a MAD magazine, then sit back and feel pretty smug about my free one-year subscription. Our closest brush with fame happened to be some bimbo from The Real Housewives of Orange County, who was staying at our hotel and was in the pool with her kids. I contemplated whether it was worth asking her to oblige. However, I was afraid she'd suck all the intelligence out of me if I got anywhere near her, so I wisely refrained. On the last day of our stay, my daughter spilled lemonade on the cover of my magazine. That's the last time I go to Maui.

Jef Rietsma • Kalamazoo, MI

Two Wrongs Don't Make a Rietsma — We've heard some hard luck stories over the years, but yours really takes the poi! Not only did you have to vacation in a tropical paradise, but you ALSO didn't encounter a celebrity of free-subscription stature?!? That is some rough luck, friend! But at least some people benefitted from your terrible, terrible fortune. You've sworn to never return to Maui — so it sounds like an entire island owes us a hearty thanks! Oh, and not for nothing, but if you can afford a 10-day Hawaiian vacation, maybe you can swing the $19.99 for a year of MAD. Eh, moneybags? —Ed.

READER ALERT

We really envy you if you had your letter printed in this issue. Because, sweet pajama pants, do we have some goodies for all y'all! You'll be receiving a Blu-ray/DVD combo set of The Producers: Collector's Edition (with a cover by MAD's own Drew Friedman!), courtesy of our chums at Shout! A Fishy Problem

Tommy works at the fish market and loves to play jokes on the customers. This time he mixed up the signs on the fish barrels. Now the carp barrel, the catfish barrel and the catfish-and-carp barrel are all mislabeled and need to be sorted out. Tommy will let you choose only one fish, but it can be from the barrel of your choice. Will this one fish help you solve the problem?

ANSWER: Yes. Choose a fish from any barrel and shove it straight up Tommy's butt. A catfish or carp in the crap-hole should get the little twerp to fix the signs and discourage him from playing any more moronic jokes!

The Speedy 7 REASONS THEY SHOULD ALLOW WOMEN TO BECOME PRIESTS

- 1 Homilies would be less fire and brimstone and more Oprah and Dr. Phil.
- 2 Then there would be, like, women making up holy rules that affect, um, women.
- 3 Now there would be someone listening when you confessed.

- 4 Then little girls could aspire to a career that puts them above the law, too.
- 5 Altar boys wouldn't mind the molestation as much.
- 6 High heels go way better with gowns than flats. Duh!
- 7 It would take some of the pressure off the remaining 16 male priests left on earth.

In Crepulonian, the phrase for "thank you" is basically the same for "may your mother burn in Hell," so be sure to put the accent on the last syllable

FUN FACTS ABOUT MARS

The Red Planet is actually more of a mauve, according to experts (in the field of interior design, that is)

Swedish astronauts landed on Mars in 1998, but an embarrassed American news media hushed it up

The Curiosity rover was named in a 2010 contest among schoolchildren. Runners-up were Fartknocker, Crustbutt, and Buttinsky 2

In 2004, the rover Spirit confirmed Elton John's theory that Mars ain't the kind of place to raise your kids. In fact it's cold as hell, and there's no one there to raise them if you did

Experts predict colonization of Mars by 2100, and violent regional hatreds by 2101

Unlike our own planet, Mars actually is flat, so if you sailed a ship to the edge, it would fall off, assuming it had water

Using sophisticated equipment, The Jet Propulsion Laboratory was able to spot nearly 100 errors in the 1990 smash hit Total Recall

The planet's surface is approximately 70% rocks, 20% dirt and 10% dust, leading NASA to conclude that the whole exploration thing may not have been such a great idea after all

The Speedier 7 THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW ABOUT THE JURY SYSTEM

- 1 The short film "How to be a Good Juror" that they show in the jury-pool room was directed by none other than Oscar-winner Ang Lee.
- 2 Convicted felons are not allowed to serve on juries, so if you want to stop getting those pesky jury duty notices in the mail, you have a variety of options.
- 3 Many jurisdictions mandate that the foreman be chosen via rock-paper-scissors.
- 4 Potential jurors who claim a racial or ethical bias that would prevent them from being impartial may be asked to tell an offensive joke to prove their claim.
- 5 If a jury awards the plaintiff a huge cash settlement, each member is entitled to a cut as a finder's fee.
- 6 Workplaces cannot penalize employees who are chosen to serve, but there's no law preventing them from making fun of a person who couldn't get out of jury duty.
- 7 Wine-tasting panels are modeled directly on the jury system, including the ability to recommend the death penalty.

Every Sunday, Showtime airs an exciting CIA thriller that we can't get enough of! Action! Adventure! Explosions! Well, sometimes. 'Cause for every exciting minute, there are twice as many weepy domestic stories with melodrama that would make a soap opera writer blush. That's when our favorite show becomes...

HO-HUM LAND

WRITER: DAVID SHAYNE ARTIST: TOM RICHMOND

I'm Marine Sergeant Ridiculous Broody! After getting shot down in the Middle East I was held captive by Al Qaeda for eight years where I was surrounded by unyielding, dogmatic psychos! Now I'm a member of the U.S. House of Representatives! I guess some things never change!

I have mixed feelings about losing eight years of my life! On the one hand, I missed watching my kids grow up and my wife slept with my best friend. On the other hand, I missed out on most of Keeping Up With the Kardashians! Overall, I'd say I was the lucky one!

I'm Scarrie Mathison. I'm the only one in the entire CIA who believes that Sgt. Broody is now a terrorist! I'm also a paranoid, bipolar, pill-popping boozier! I don't understand WHY I can't get anyone to believe me!

Even though I want to prove Broody is a vicious terrorist and destroy him, I'm also falling in love and want to run away with him! I'm not just bipolar — apparently, I'm SCHIZOPHRENIC, too!

I'm Slaw Berenson! I'm not only the CIA's go-to man on Middle Eastern terrorists, I'm also a master of trade-craft! Especially disguise! See this beard? I'm undercover as late-career Robin Williams!

I'm also Scarrie's mentor! She disappoints me time after time, yet I never lose faith in her and come back for more! I'm the CIA equivalent of a New York Jets fan!

I'm CIA Director David Testes! I'm a lifelong bureaucrat who's singularly focused on advancing my career no matter what! I'll kiss butt, hog credit and try to convince the unknowing public that my shoddy work is actually high-quality! If the CIA doesn't work out I can always get a job in Hollywood!

I'm Squint! Scarrie and Slaw think I'm working with them as a CIA interrogator at the safehouse, but they don't know my dark secrets: 1) I'm actually a cold-blooded black-ops assassin, 2) I'm working behind their backs with Director Testes and 3) I ate the LAST DANISH from the safehouse break room! Told you I was cold-blooded!

I'm Aboob Brassiere, the terrorist mastermind determined to bring your country to its knees! I'm evil incarnate! I've brainwashed a Manchurian Candidate congressman and murdered several U.S. officials. And my most heinous act of all? I'm the guy who taught Donald Trump how to use Twitter!

Yes, Broody came to us as an enemy, but I took him in and comforted him! Now he's like a son to me! And him killing the vice president would be the ultimate Father's Day gift! After all, how many ties does a terrorist need?!

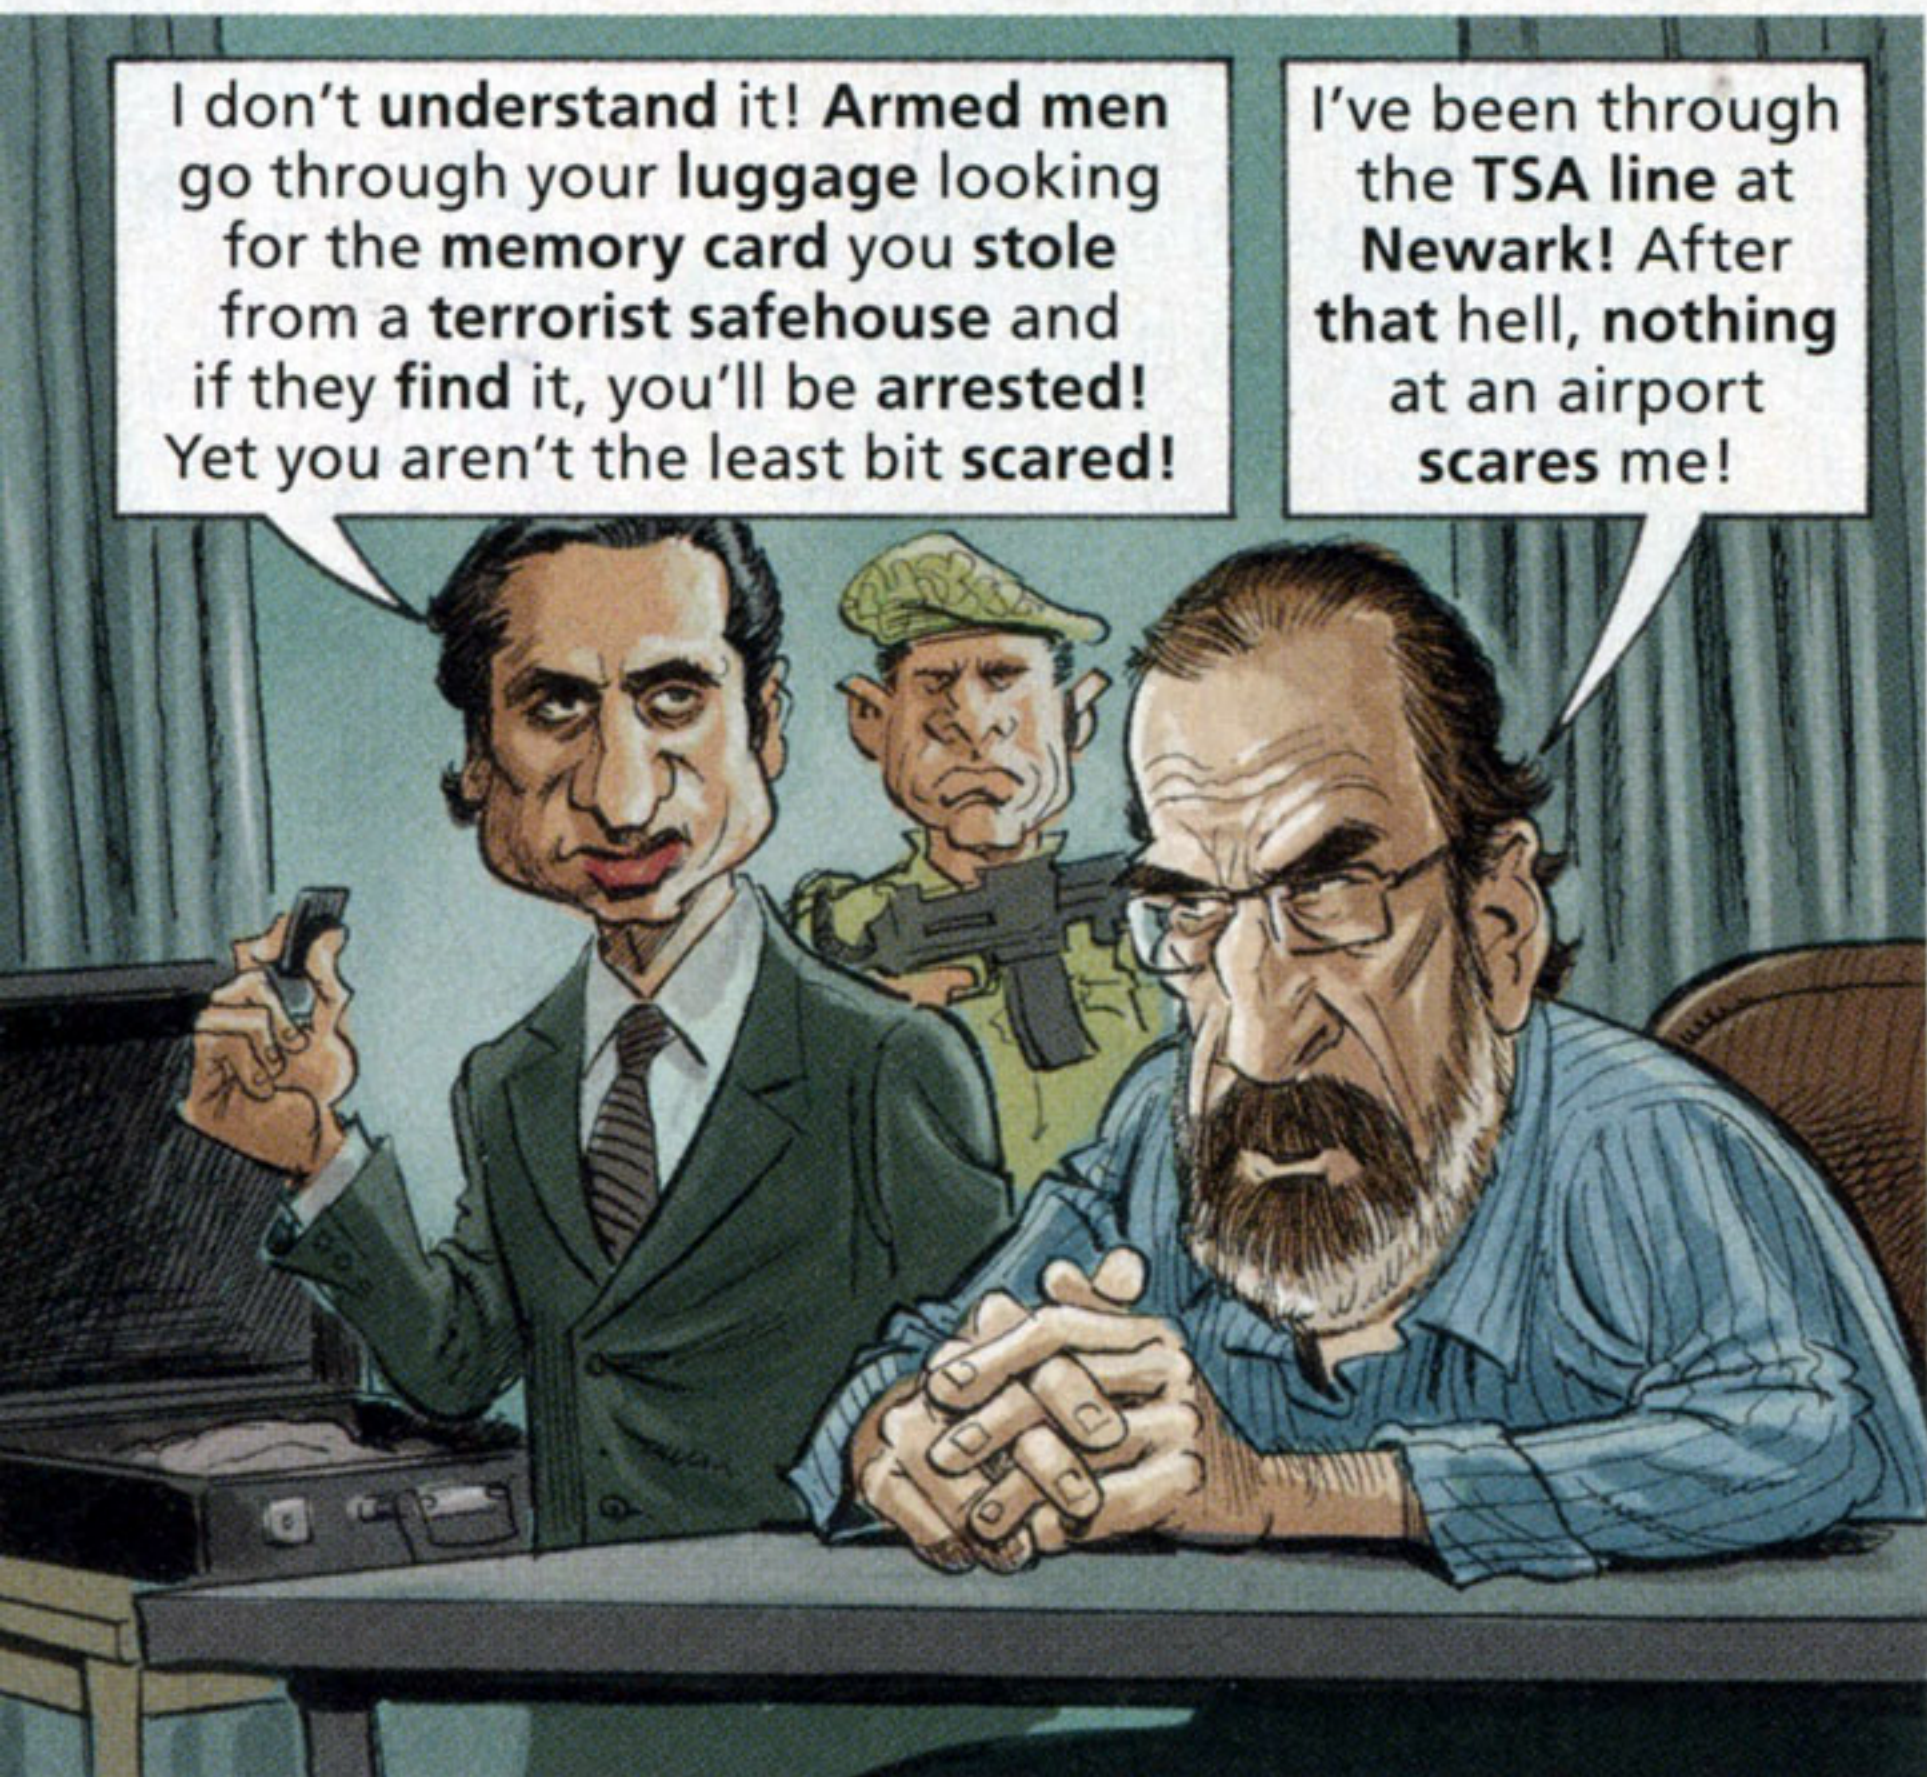

I'm Mess! In his eight years in captivity my husband Broody was beaten, tortured and brainwashed by terrorists! Meanwhile, I was a single mother back at home in the suburbs, trying to raise a son who just plays video games all day and a smart-ass teenage daughter who has precisely two emotions: sulky and EXTRA-sulky! My point? Broody's right! He was the lucky one!

I'm Muck! When my best friend Broody was shot down, I swore that I'd take care of everything! I take care of watching the kids! I take care of the chores around the house! And I take care of his wife — four or five times a night, if you get my meaning!

After Broody got home, Mess and I knew we shouldn't sleep together anymore! Don't get me wrong, we still do! We just know we shouldn't!

Former CIA Director General David Petraeus here! I hate this show! How dare they depict a CIA agent ruining their career after getting caught having an illicit affair...
...without paying me for my life story!

Former VP Dick Cheney here! People have criticized the second season of this show for not being realistic! I agree! They have a morally corrupt vice president with a bad heart who commits war crimes! Okay, that part is realistic! But him not getting away with it? I REFUSE to buy that!

Despite my kicking a known terrorist in the nuts in Beirut, they won't let me back in the agency, and STILL no one believes me about Broody! Well, only one thing to do — swallow a bunch of pills and booze! Or, as Lindsay Lohan calls it: breakfast!

My name is Sgt. Ridiculous Broody! By now you've heard many things about me! And you may have a few questions: how did I do this? WHY did I do this? And how does a guy who looks like Ronald McDonald's stepbrother have such a smoking hot wife?!

Slaw! I was right! Broody IS a terrorist! I was RIGHT! Isn't that great?

It is...although it also means you endured a humiliating, career-ending nervous breakdown and institutionalization all for NOTHING!

Jeez, Slaw, your CIA codename should be "Buzzkill"!

Scarrie, did you come up to my hotel room to have sex with me?

Funny you should mention sex, 'cause you're totally SCREWED!

Sgt. Ridiculous Broody, you're a traitor to your country! Bag him and take him away for a brutal interrogation, boys!

Please let this be role play... please let this be role play... please let this be role play...

Broody wouldn't tell us Aboob Brassiere's next plan, so I took a stab at it... literally!

Now get in there and interrogate Broody!

Wait, are we doing good cop/bad cop?

No, insane cop/insane-er cop!

When's the last time you told the truth? Telling the truth can feel so good! I'll go first: I want you to leave your wife and kids for me!

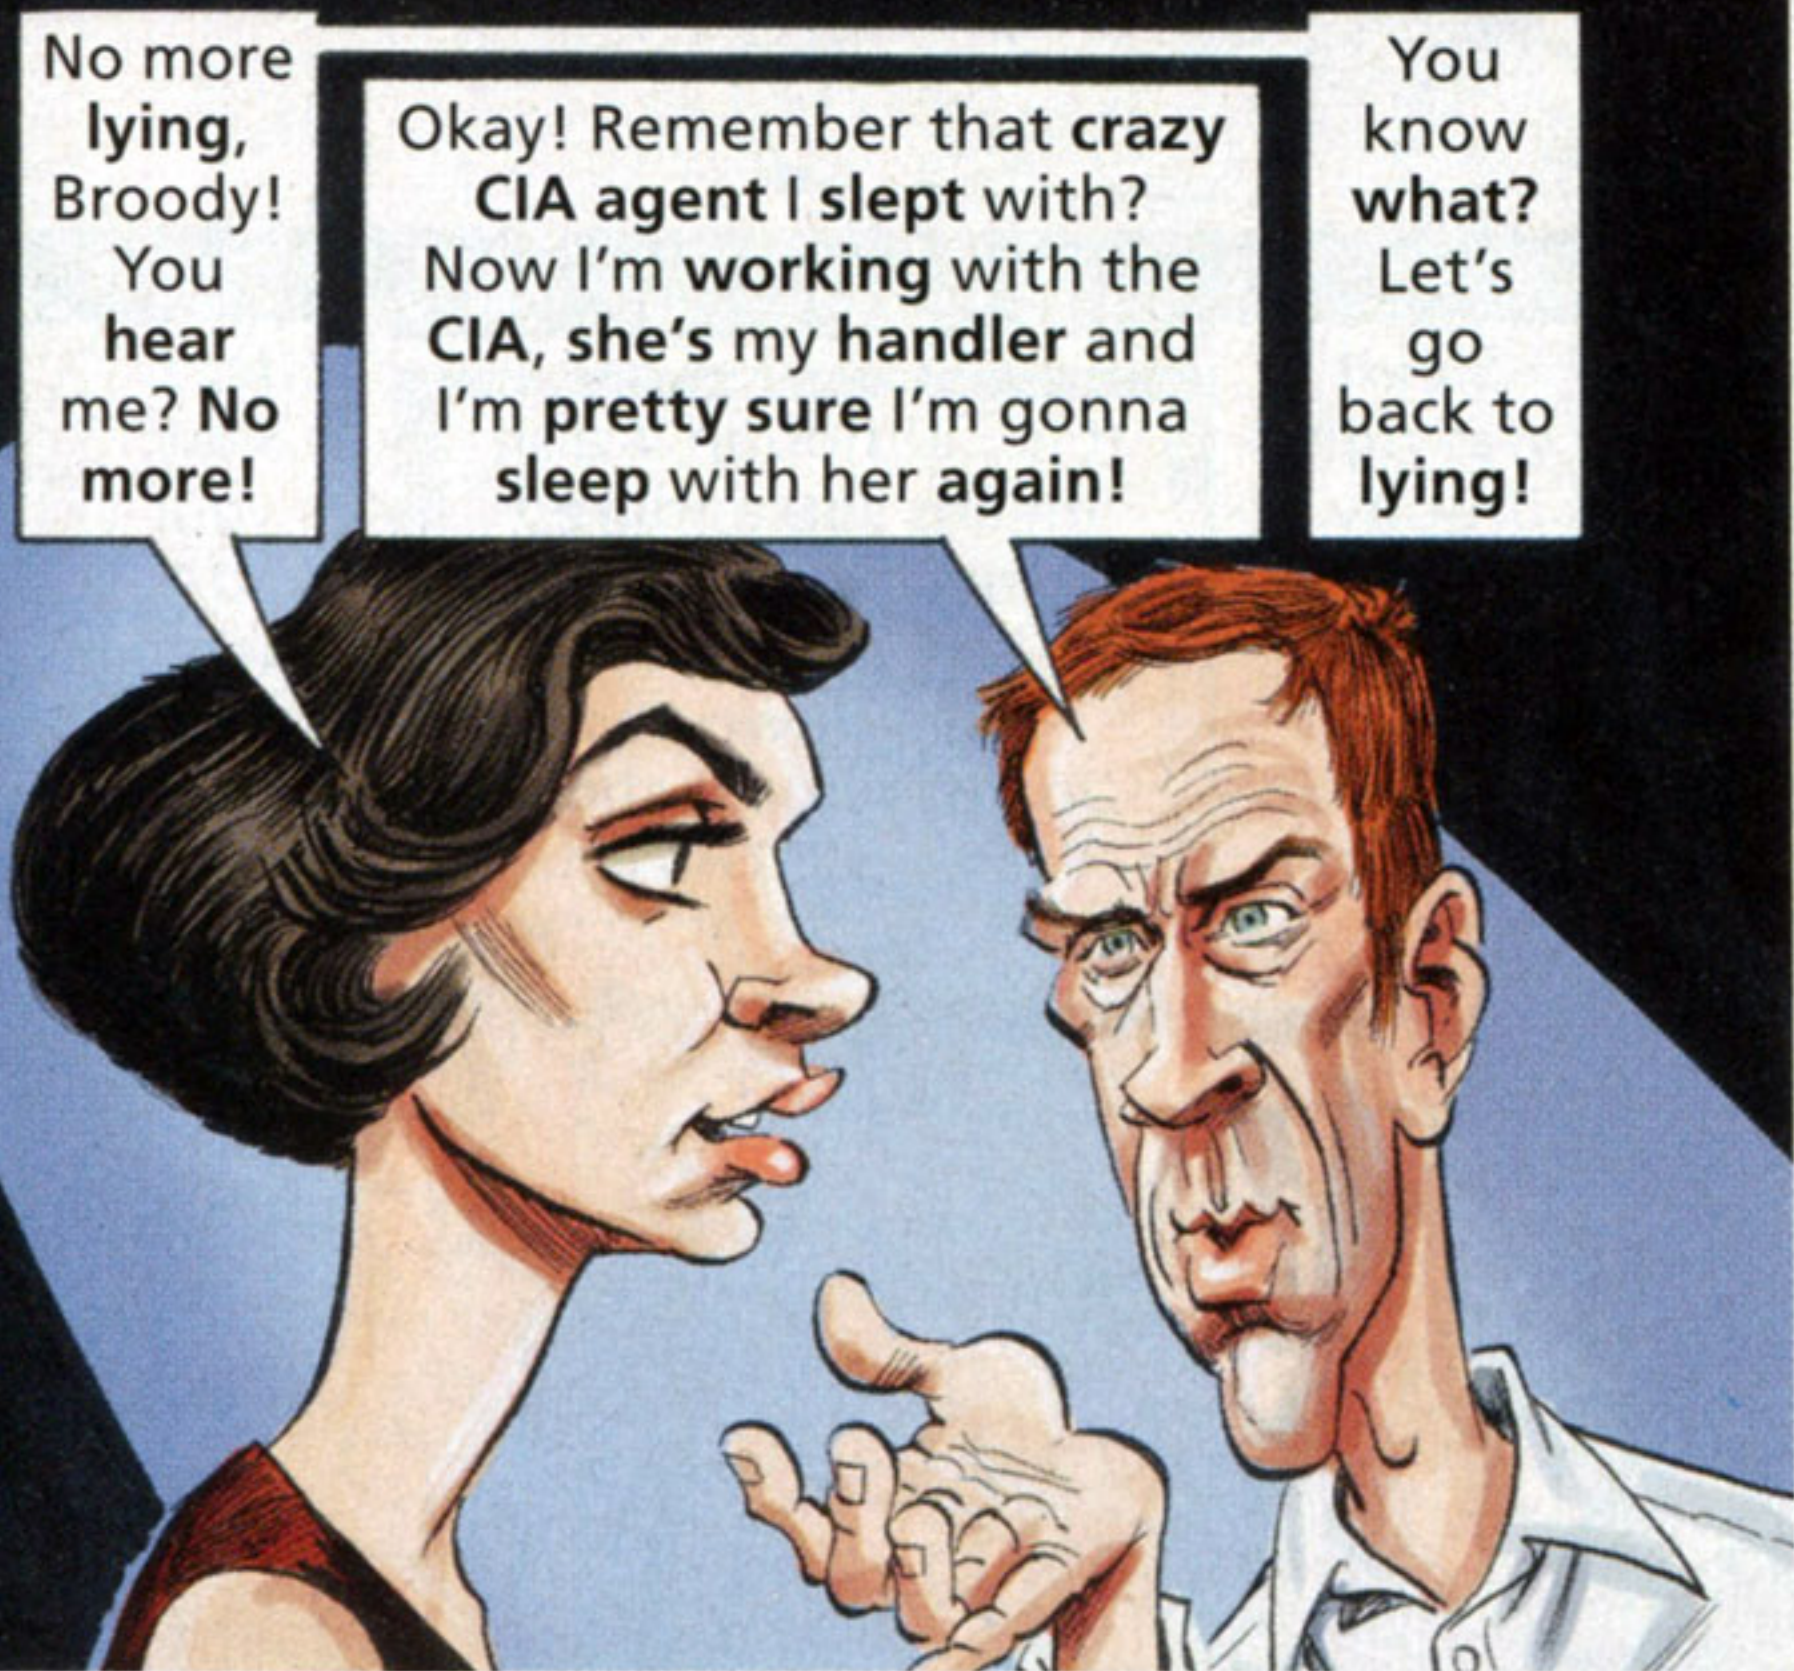

Now my turn to tell the truth: YOU'RE FRIGGIN' NUTS!

Broody, if you don't help the CIA bring down Aboob Brassiere we'll tell the world your dark secret! I know what you do in your garage!

NO! You mustn't tell anyone about that! I'm a U.S. Congressman! Nobody can know that I like to wrap myself in a Snuggie, listen to Taylor Swift and have a good cry!

Um, I was talking about praying to Allah and helping Al Qaeda, but that works, too!

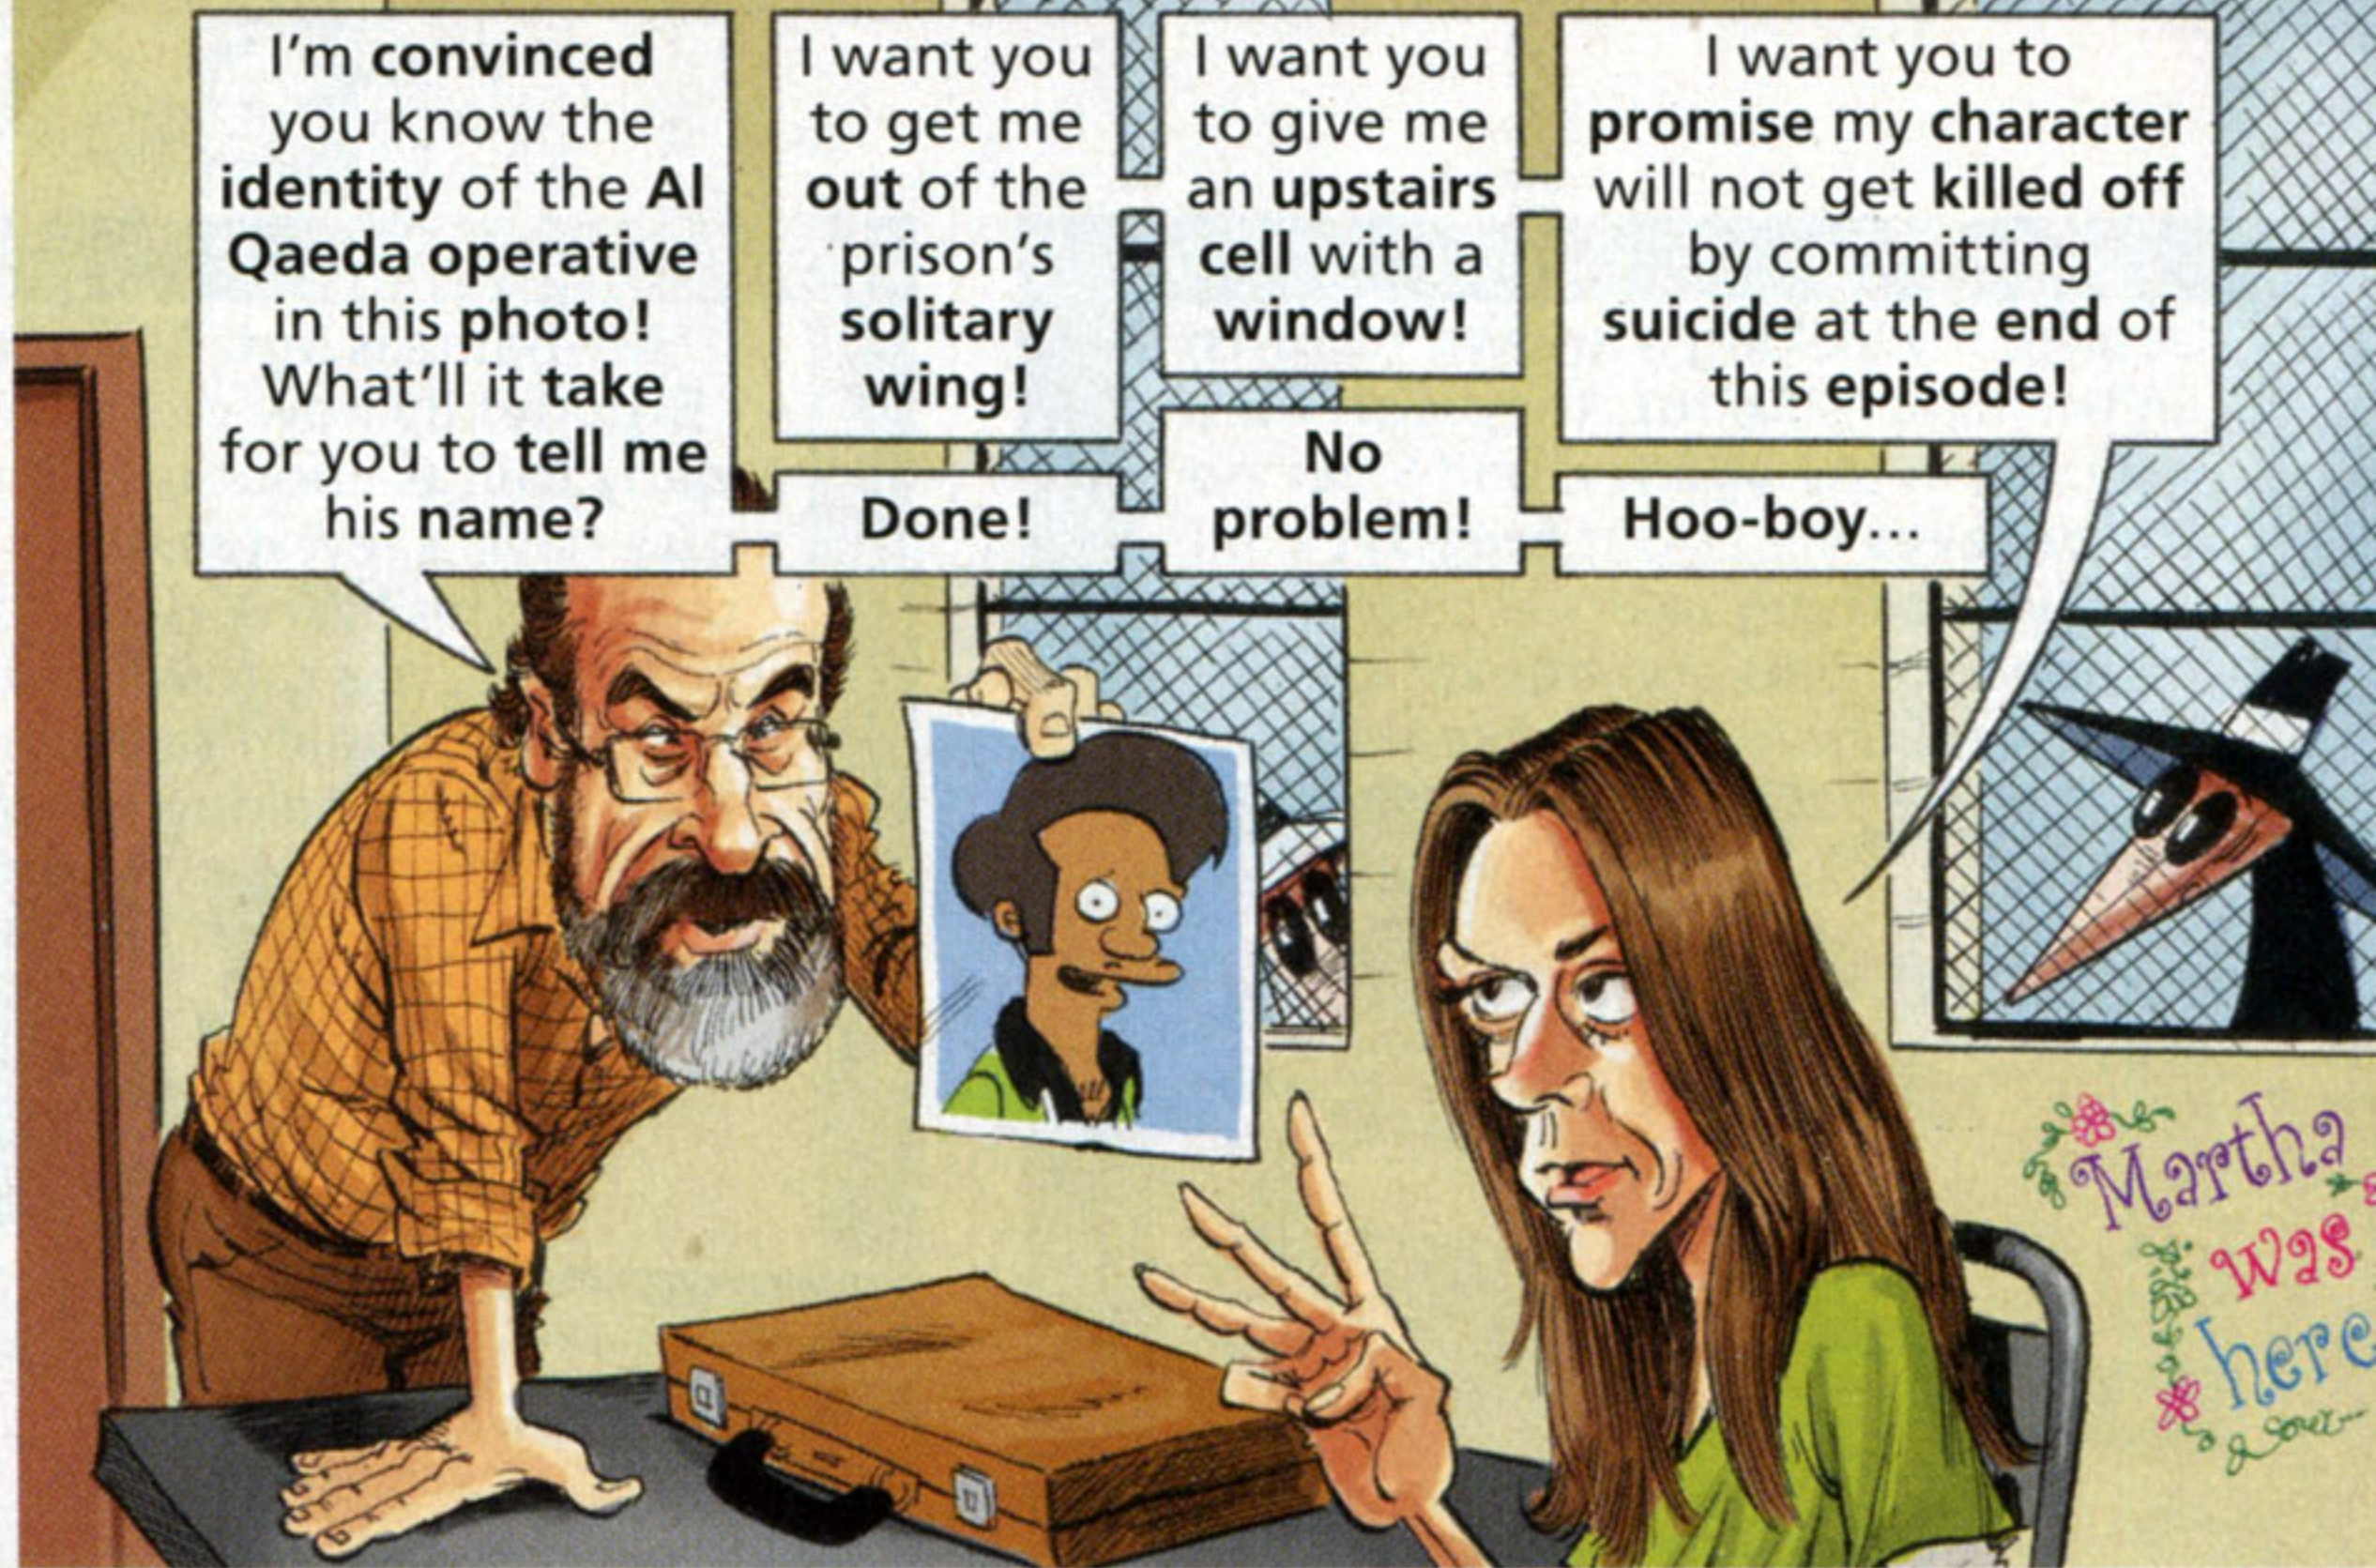

No more lying, Broody! You hear me? No more!

Okay! Remember that crazy CIA agent I slept with? Now I'm working with the CIA, she's my handler and I'm pretty sure I'm gonna sleep with her again!

You know what? Let's go back to lying!

I'm convinced you know the identity of the Al Qaeda operative in this photo! What'll it take for you to tell me his name?

I want you to get me out of the prison's solitary wing!

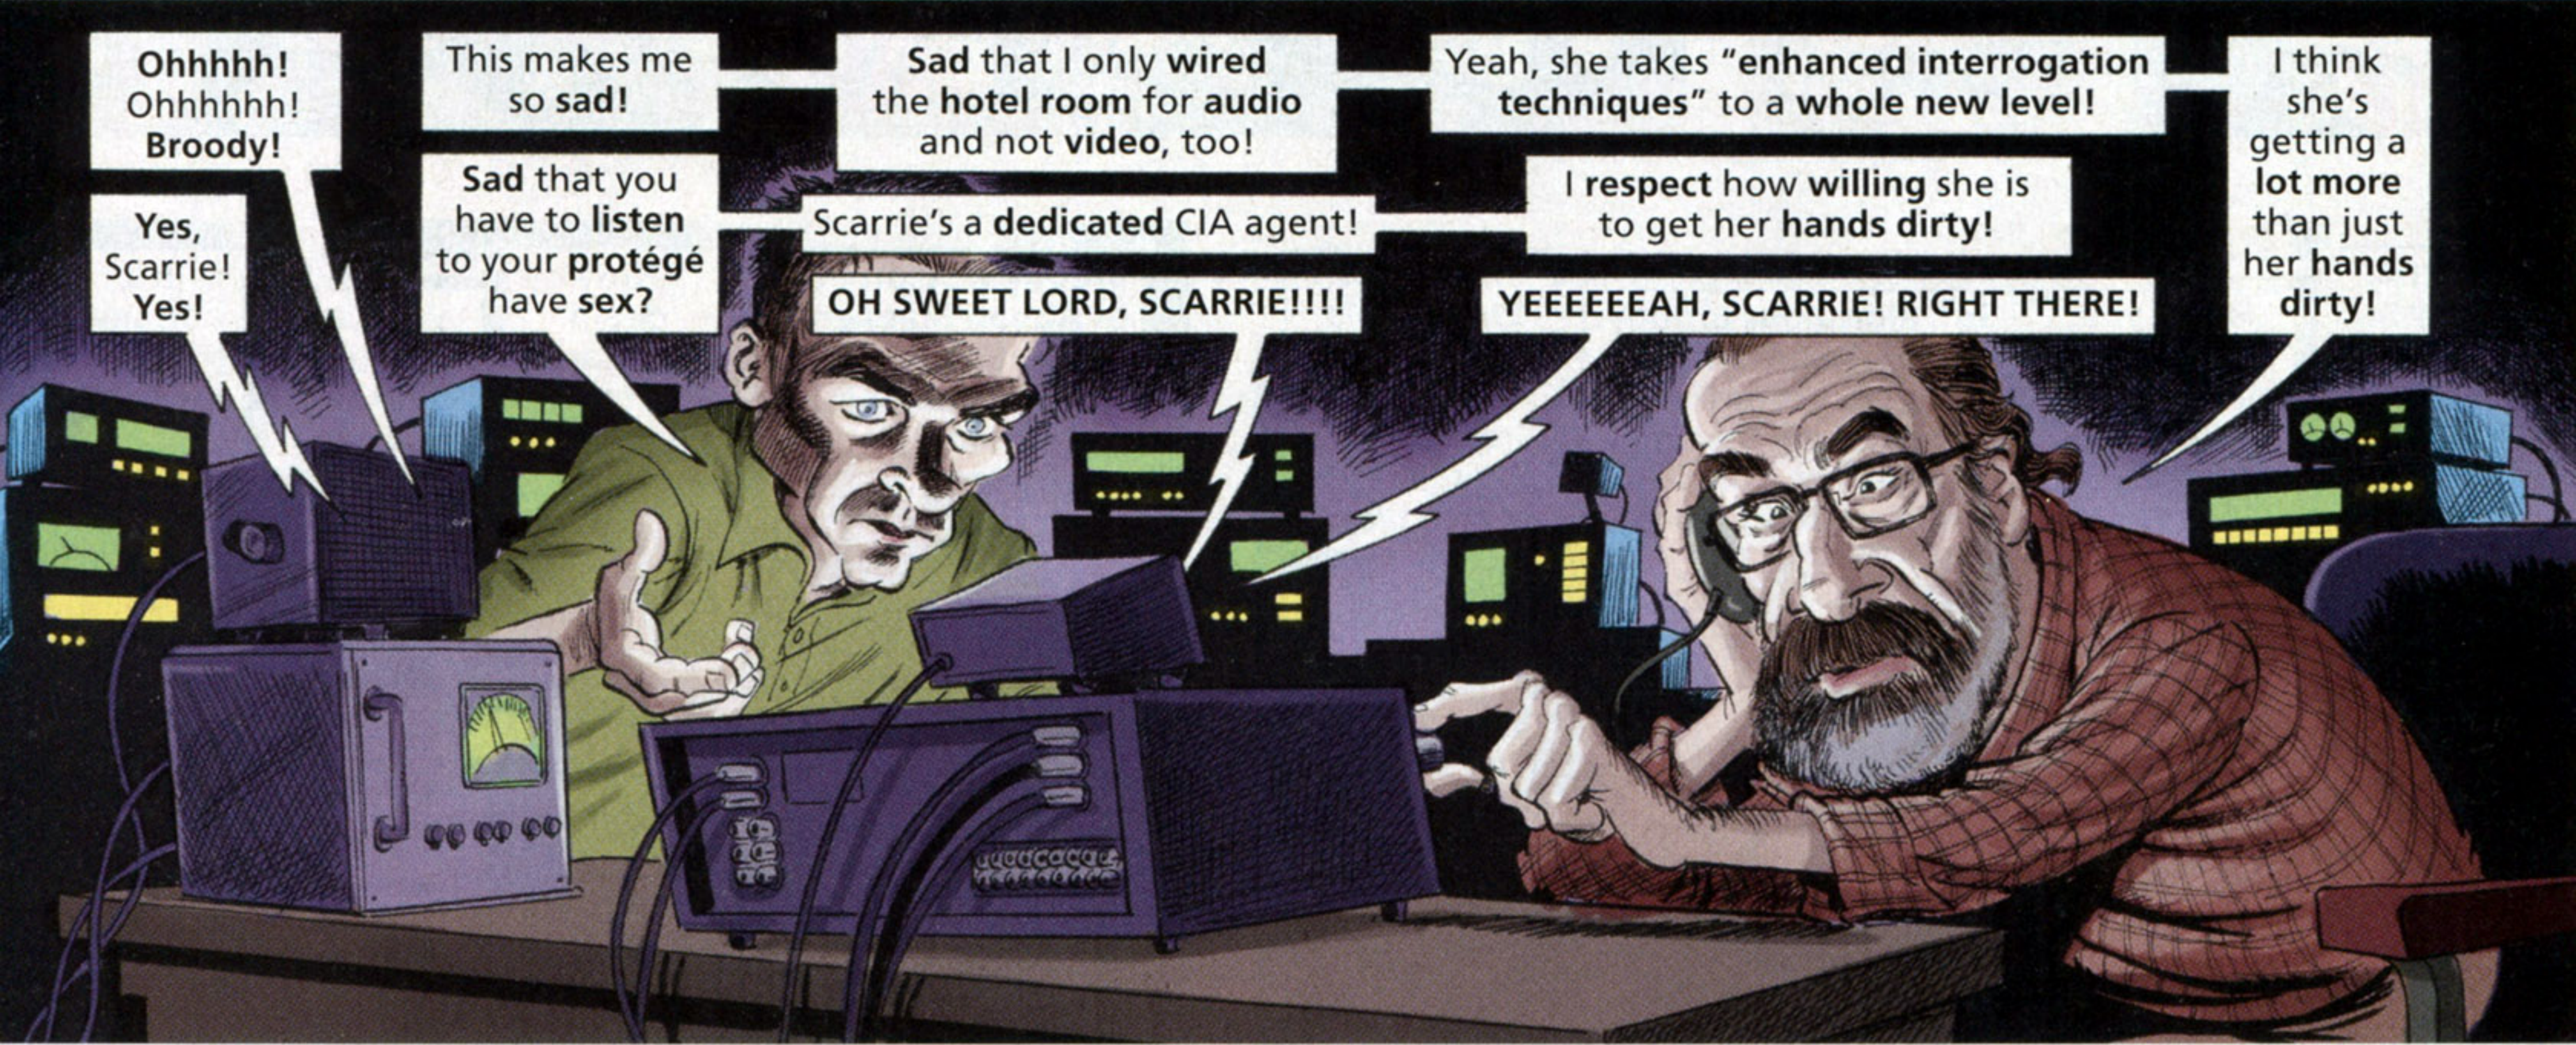

I want you to give me an upstairs cell with a window!

I want you to promise my character will not get killed off by committing suicide at the end of this episode!

Done!

No problem!

Hoo-boy...

Ohhhhh! Ohhhhhh! Broody!

Yes, Scarrie! Yes!

This makes me so sad!

Sad that you have to listen to your protégé have sex?

Sad that I only wired the hotel room for audio and not video, too!

Scarrie's a dedicated CIA agent!

OH SWEET LORD, SCARRIE!!!!

Yeah, she takes "enhanced interrogation techniques" to a whole new level!

I respect how willing she is to get her hands dirty!

YEEEEEEAH, SCARRIE! RIGHT THERE!

I think she's getting a lot more than just her hands dirty!

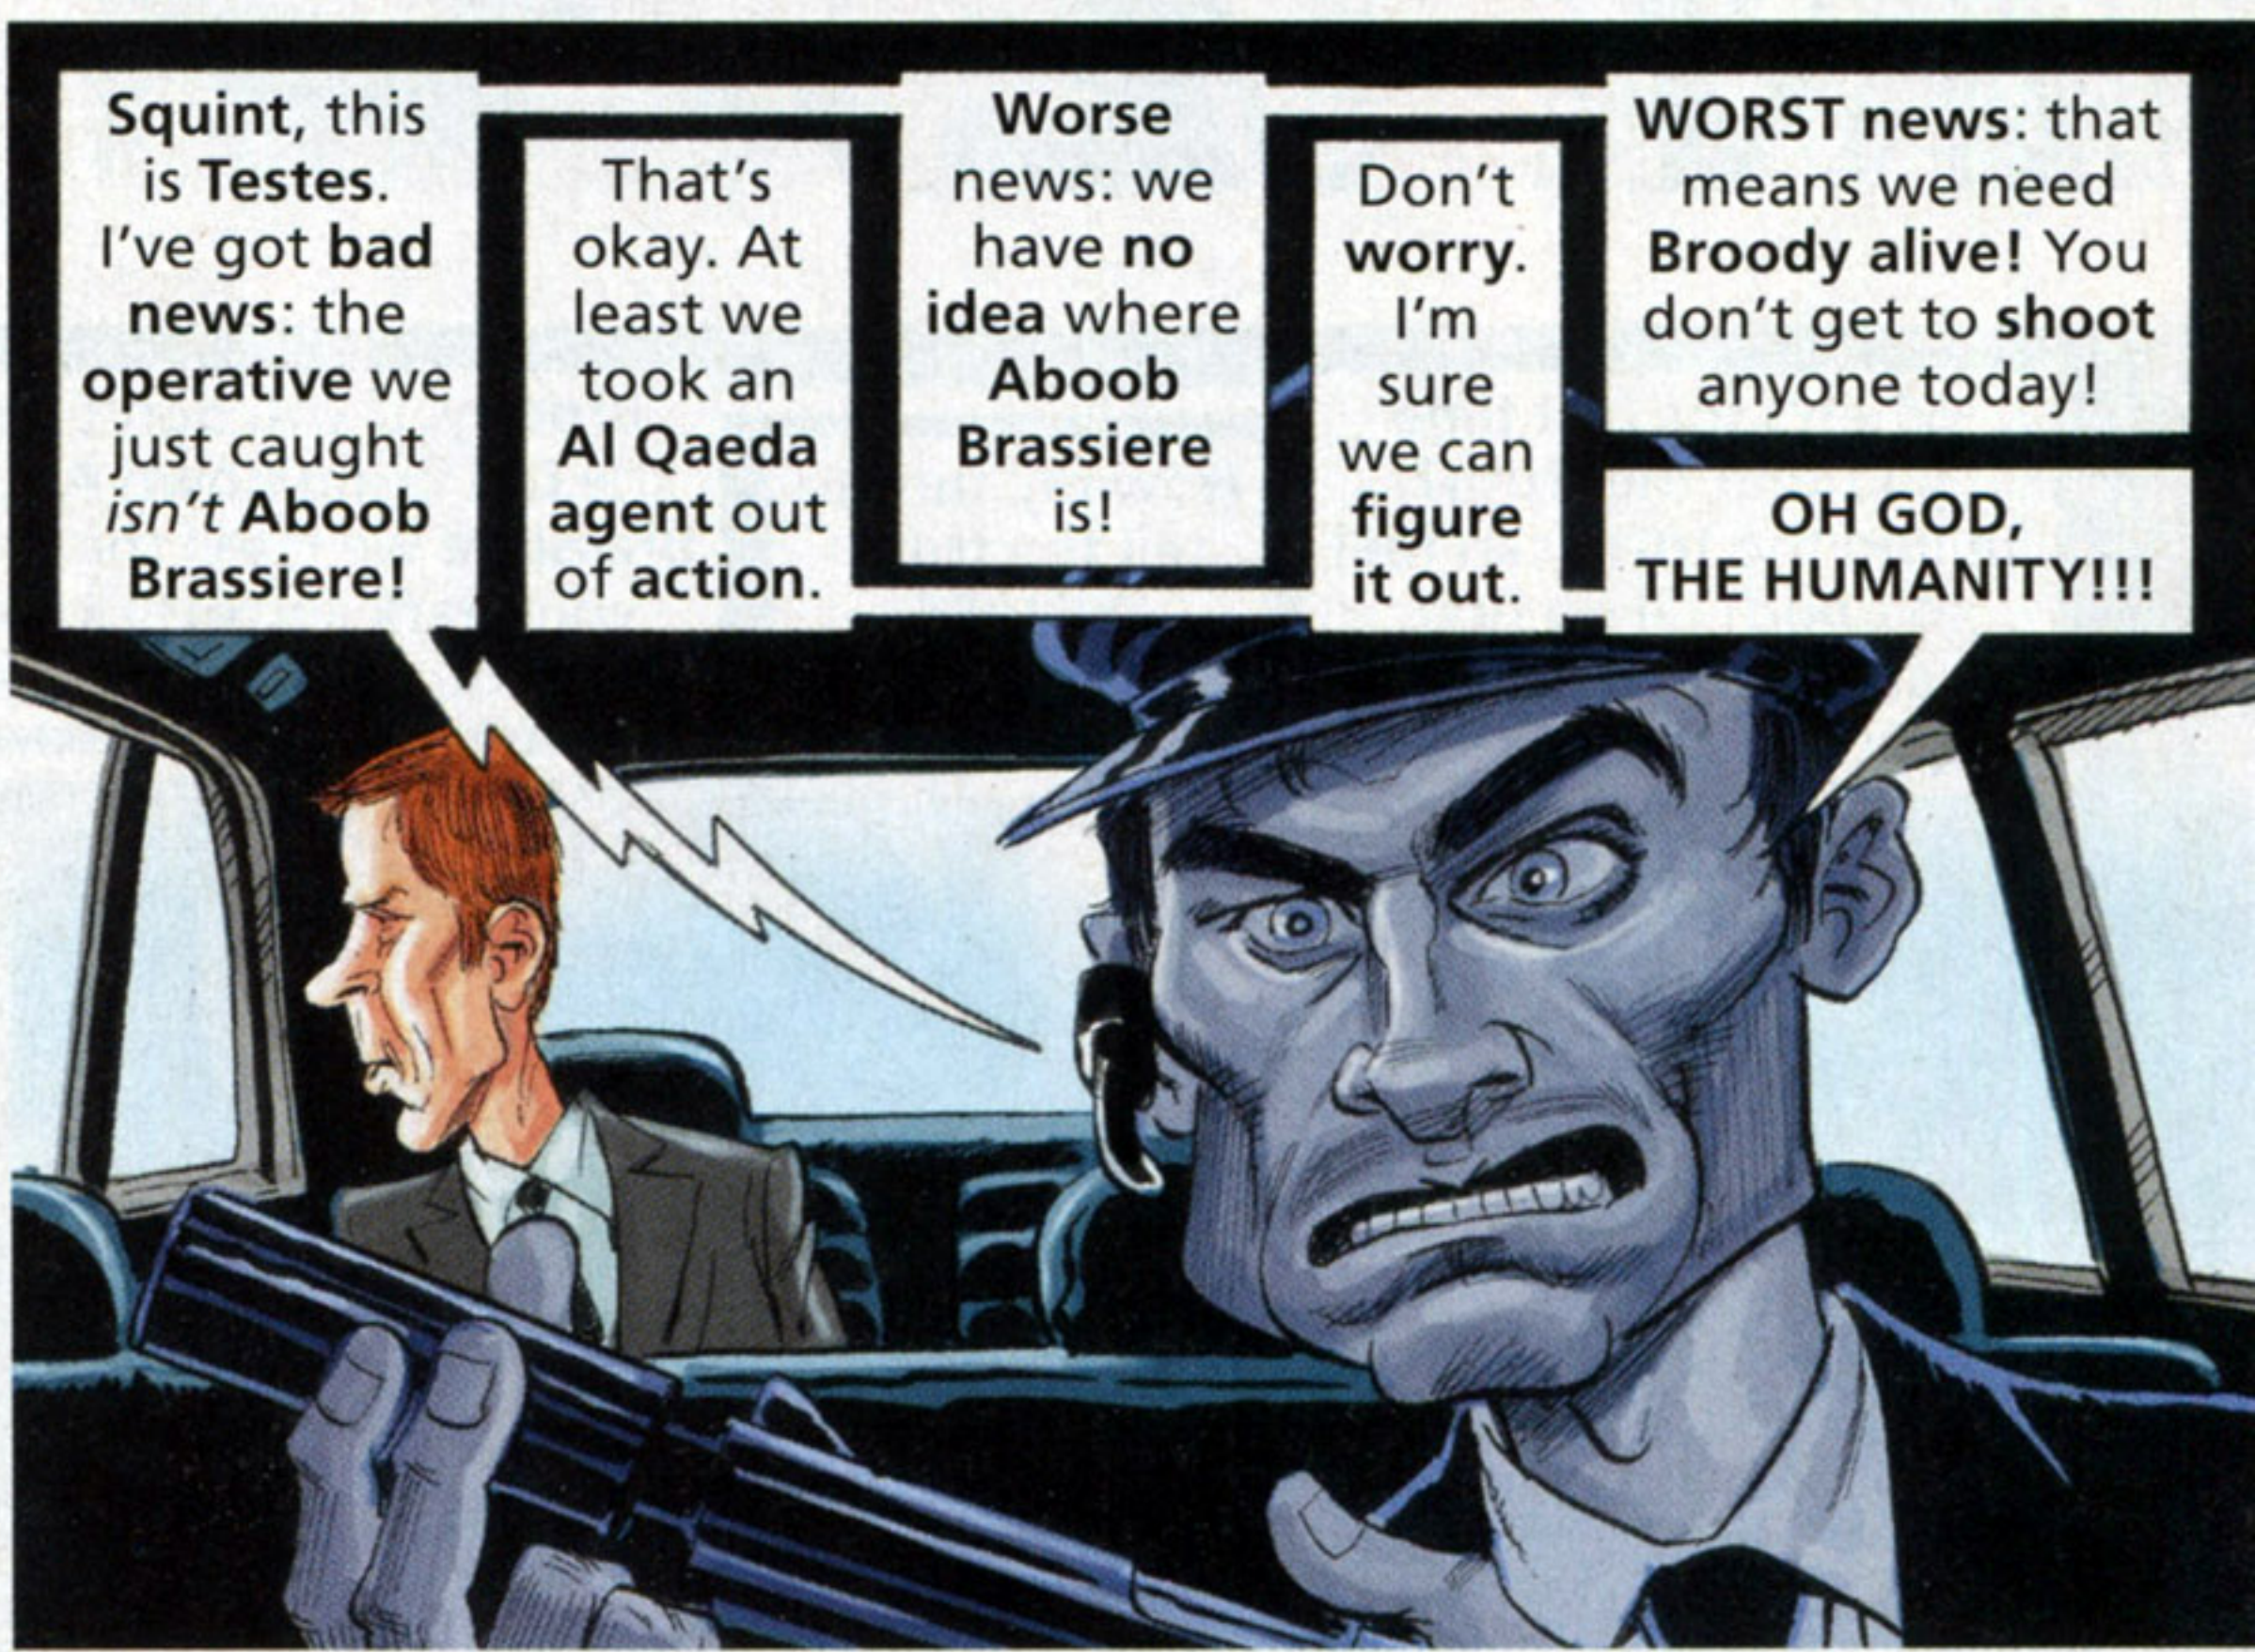

Whoa, Mom! Flat-screen TV, video games, fully-stocked fridge — this CIA safehouse has everything!

Not everything...

Hey, look, Mom, here's a spare bedroom where you can have sex with Dad's best friend!

I stand corrected — it DOES have everything!

Squint, this is Testes. I've got bad news: the operative we just caught isn't Aboob Brassiere!

That's okay. At least we took an Al Qaeda agent out of action.

Worse news: we have no idea where Aboob Brassiere is!

Don't worry. I'm sure we can figure it out.

WORST news: that means we need Broody alive! You don't get to shoot anyone today!

OH GOD, THE HUMANITY!!!

Sir, I'm withdrawing as your vice-presidential nominee! You have no morals! You killed Aboob Brassiere's innocent young son in a drone strike! I hate everything you represent! But mostly I'm withdrawing because there's no way you will EVER be president!

Why not?

'Cause dead people can't win elections! I've just remotely shorted out your pacemaker. Enjoy your heart attack!

I found you, Aboob Brassiere! I KNEW the villain would be hiding in the old abandoned mill!

How'd you figure it out? Interrogating prisoners? Using advanced surveillance?

Watching Scooby-Doo!

POW

I can't believe we're giving a scumbag like Aboob Brassiere a respectful burial at sea!

We're not burying him at sea! We're dumping him on a stranded Carnival cruise ship! The smell of his decaying corpse oughta fit in nicely with the odor of backed-up toilets and rotting food!

Vice-President Wal-Mart did not die in vain! He showed that national security is important! That we will stop at nothing to end terrorism! That any character on this show can get killed off without warn——ing!

KA-BOOM!

Now you're accused of blowing up CIA headquarters! But don't worry, I have a plan! You'll just live in Canada until I can clear your name!

Have you gone off your meds?! I'm a famous war hero and sitting congressman! They're showing my confession video on TV around the world 24/7! There's nowhere I can go where I won't be recognized!

I didn't say it was a GOOD plan!

200 killed! CIA headquarters destroyed! You and I have an important job to do!

Find the high-level Al Qaeda terrorists responsible for this horrible act?

Find the low-level CIA guys we can pin this intelligence failure on! Jeez, did you learn nothing from what I taught you about Abu Ghraib? At the CIA we just push the blame downwards! C'mon, I know a couple of file clerks we can set up...

THINKING INSIDE THE BOX DEPT.

The Bible says "Love thy neighbor as thyself." But whoever wrote that pap never worked in a depressing, crammed 6' x 6' box, surrounded by others working in depressing, crammed 6' x 6' boxes of their own. It's enough to bring out the absolute worst behavior in everyone. So before you make all of your co-workers hate you, consider these...

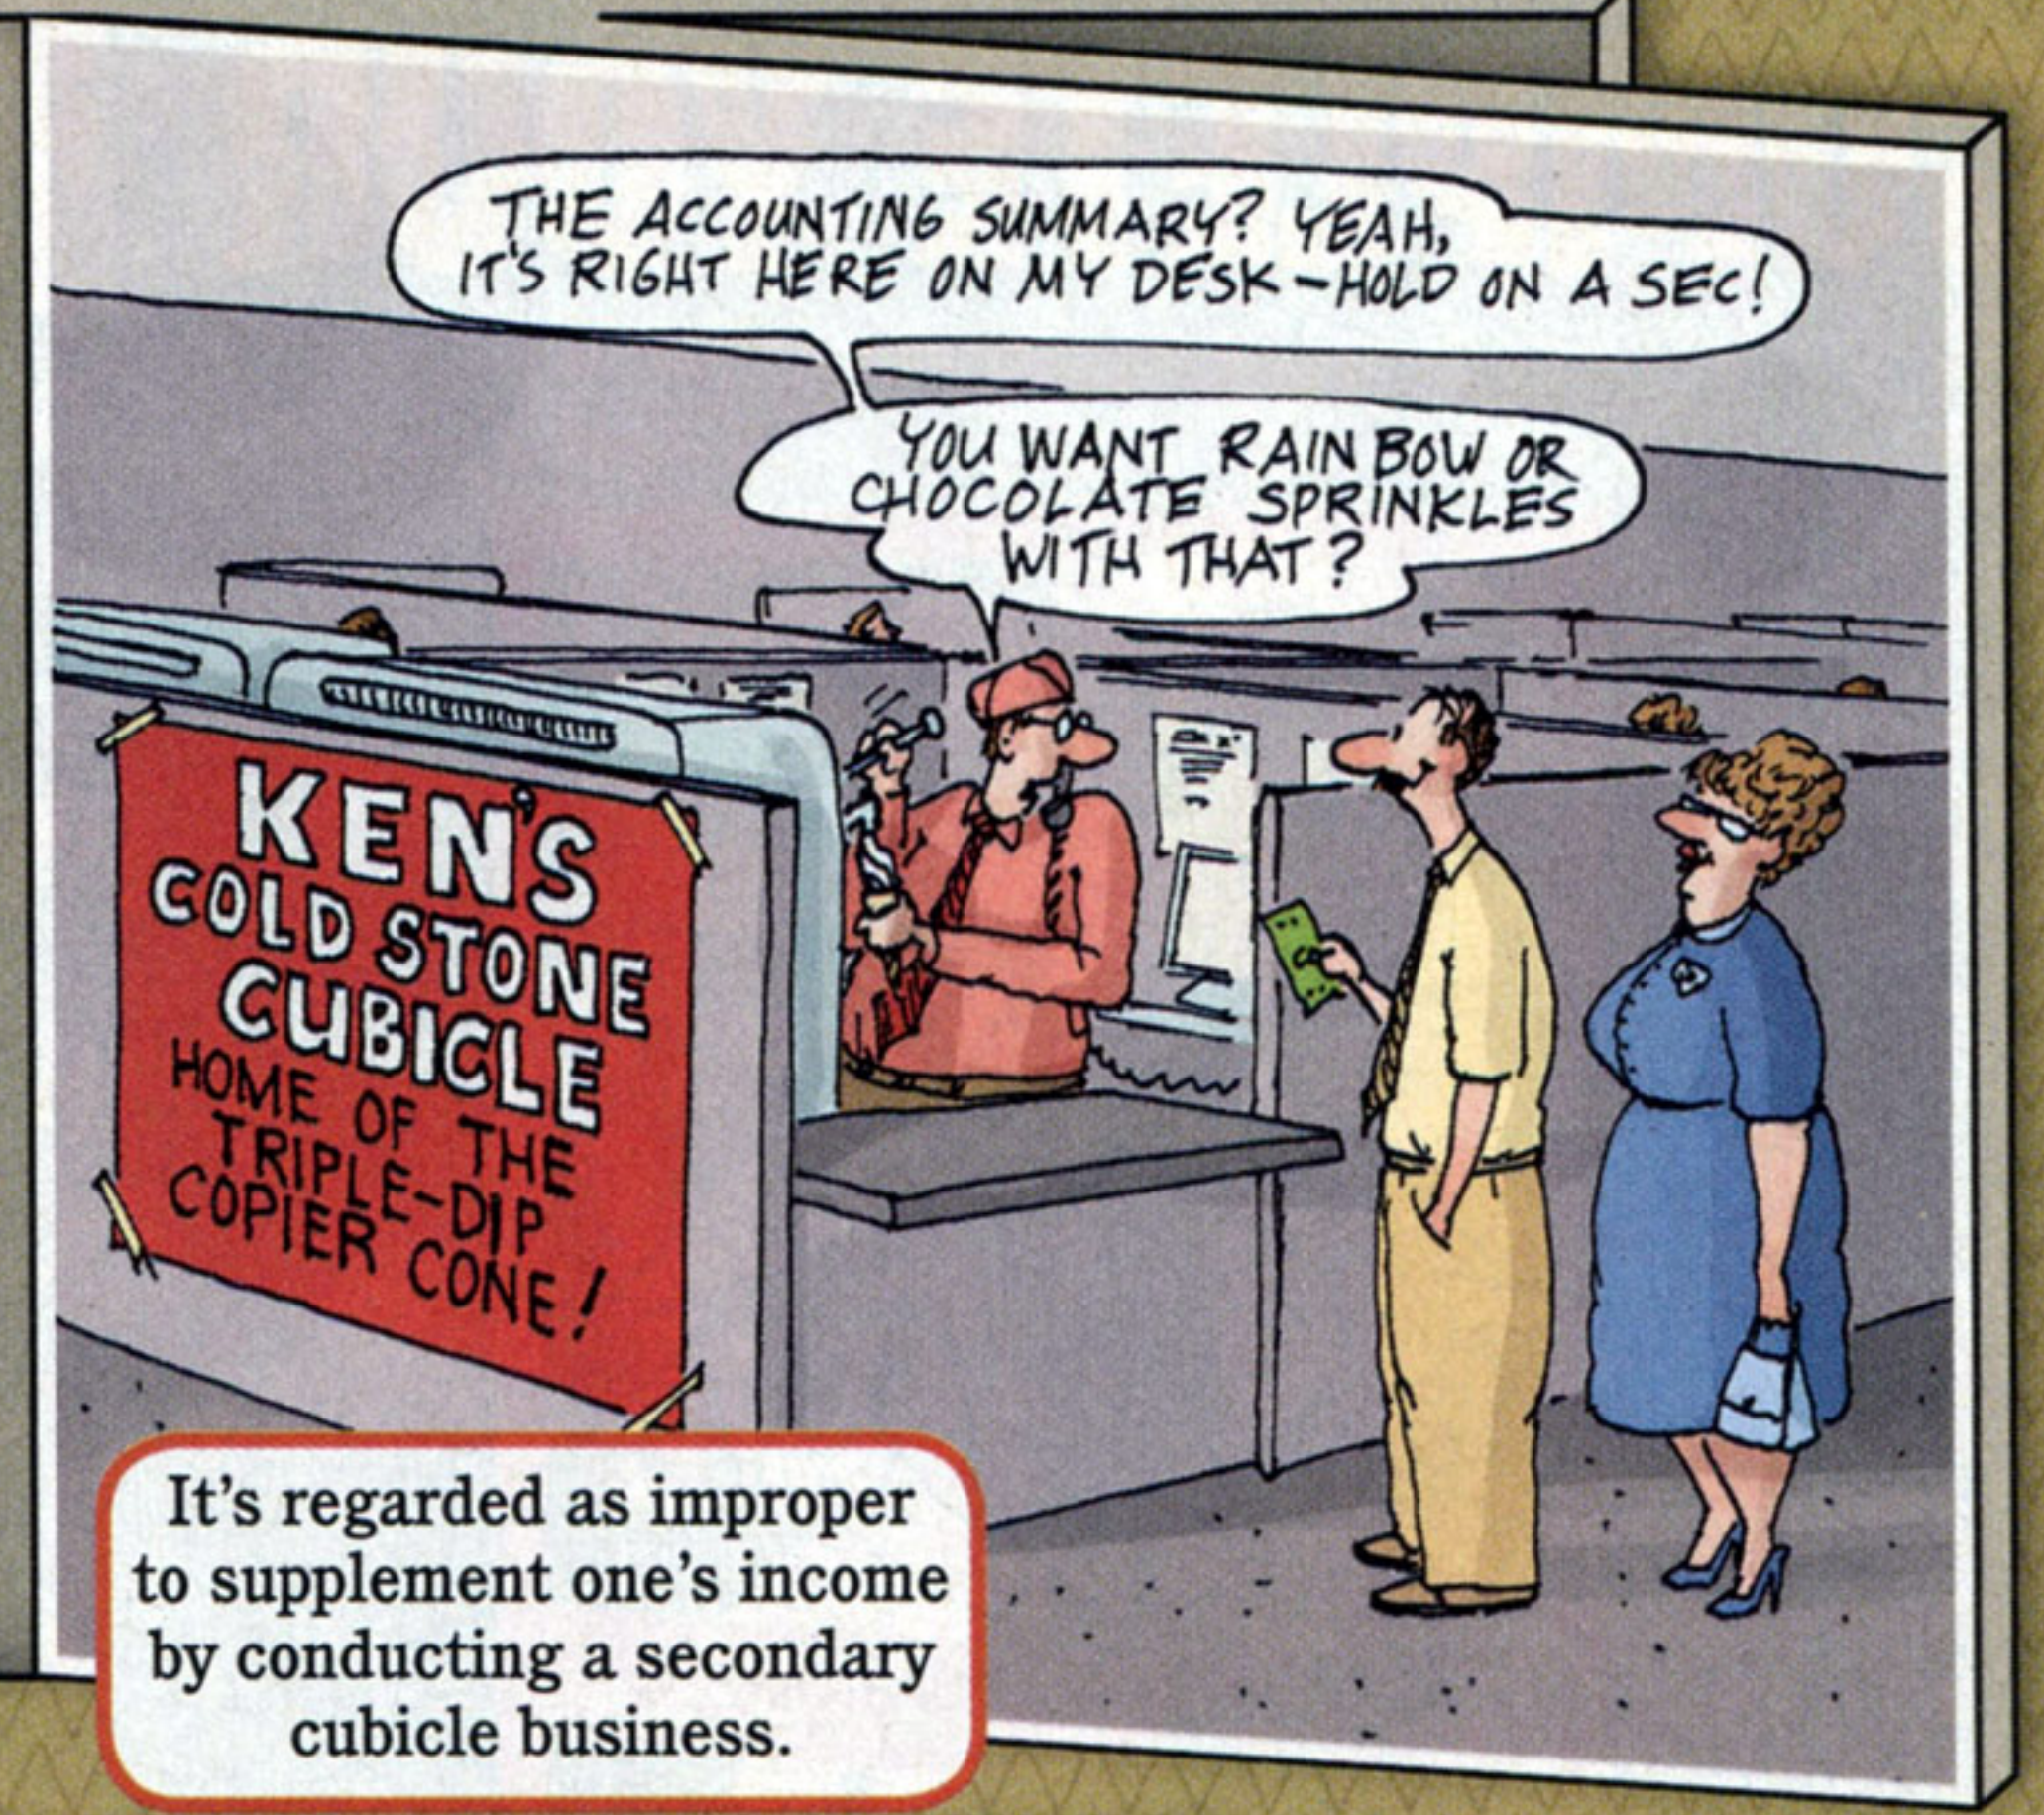

Rules of Office Cubicle Etiquette

It's a matter of common courtesy to check on the welfare of a fellow employee who hasn't left his cubicle in over a week.

It's considered impolite and dangerous to remodel one's cubicle without first alerting the occupant of your neighboring cubicle.

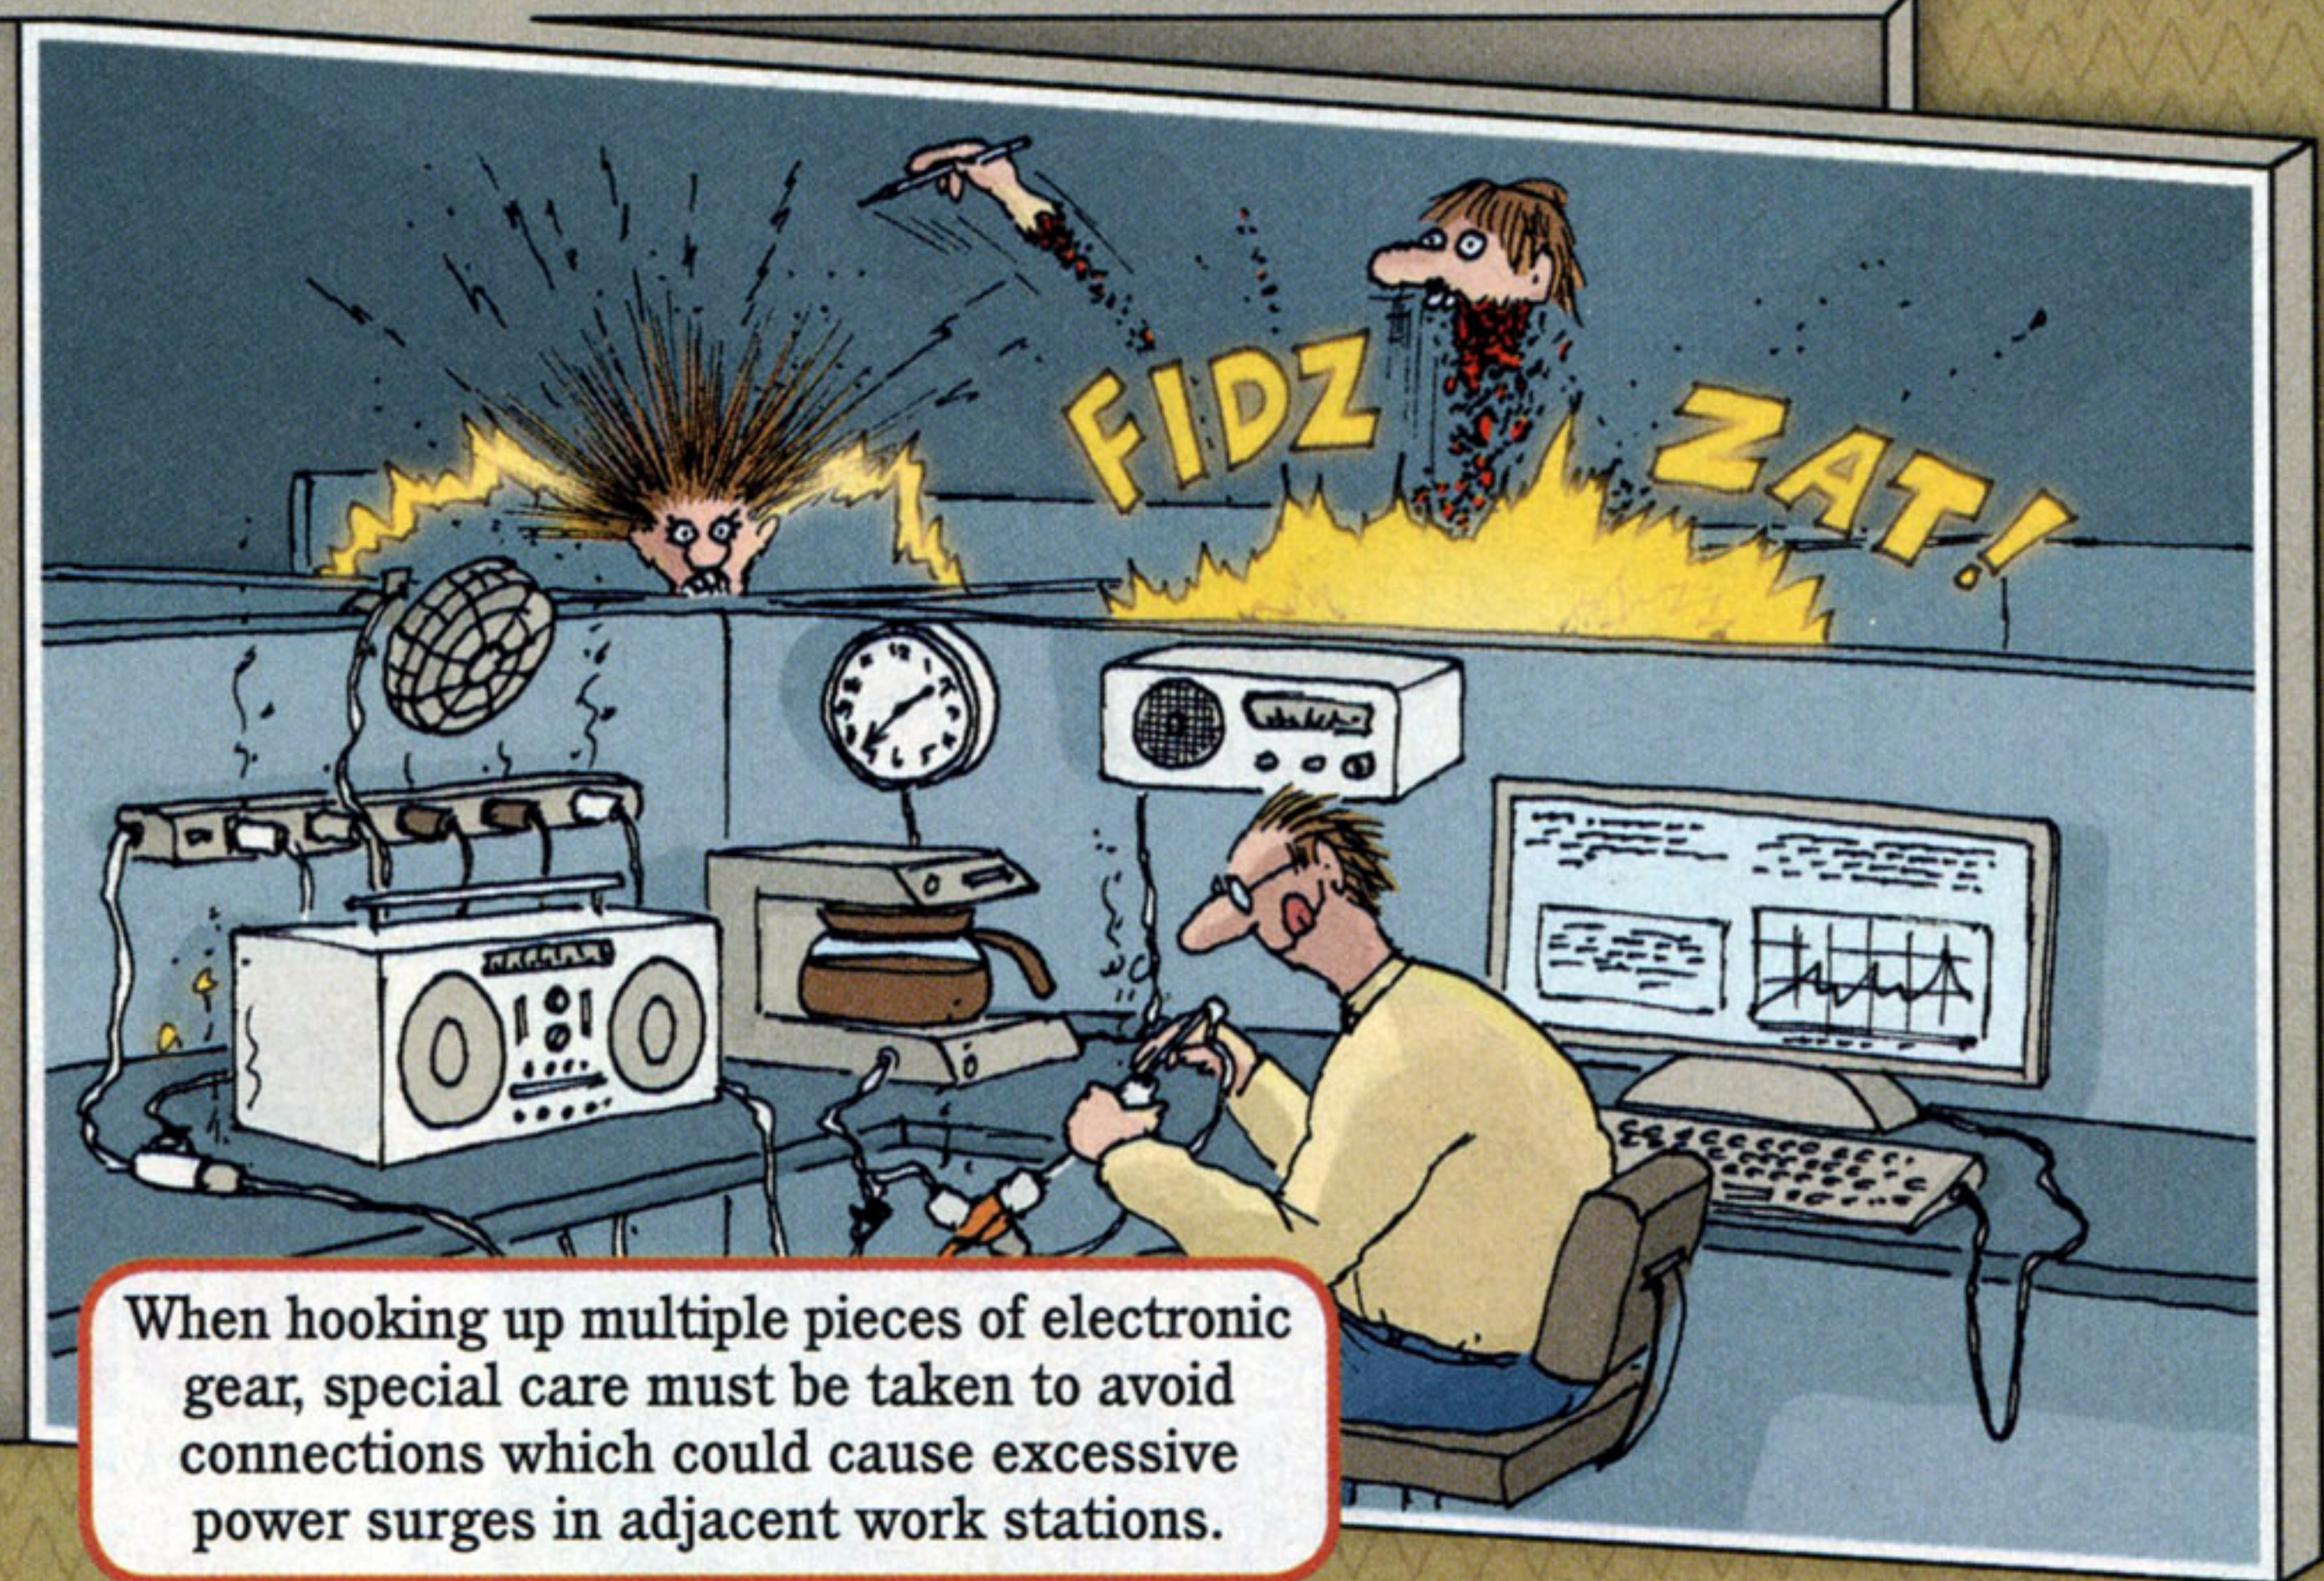

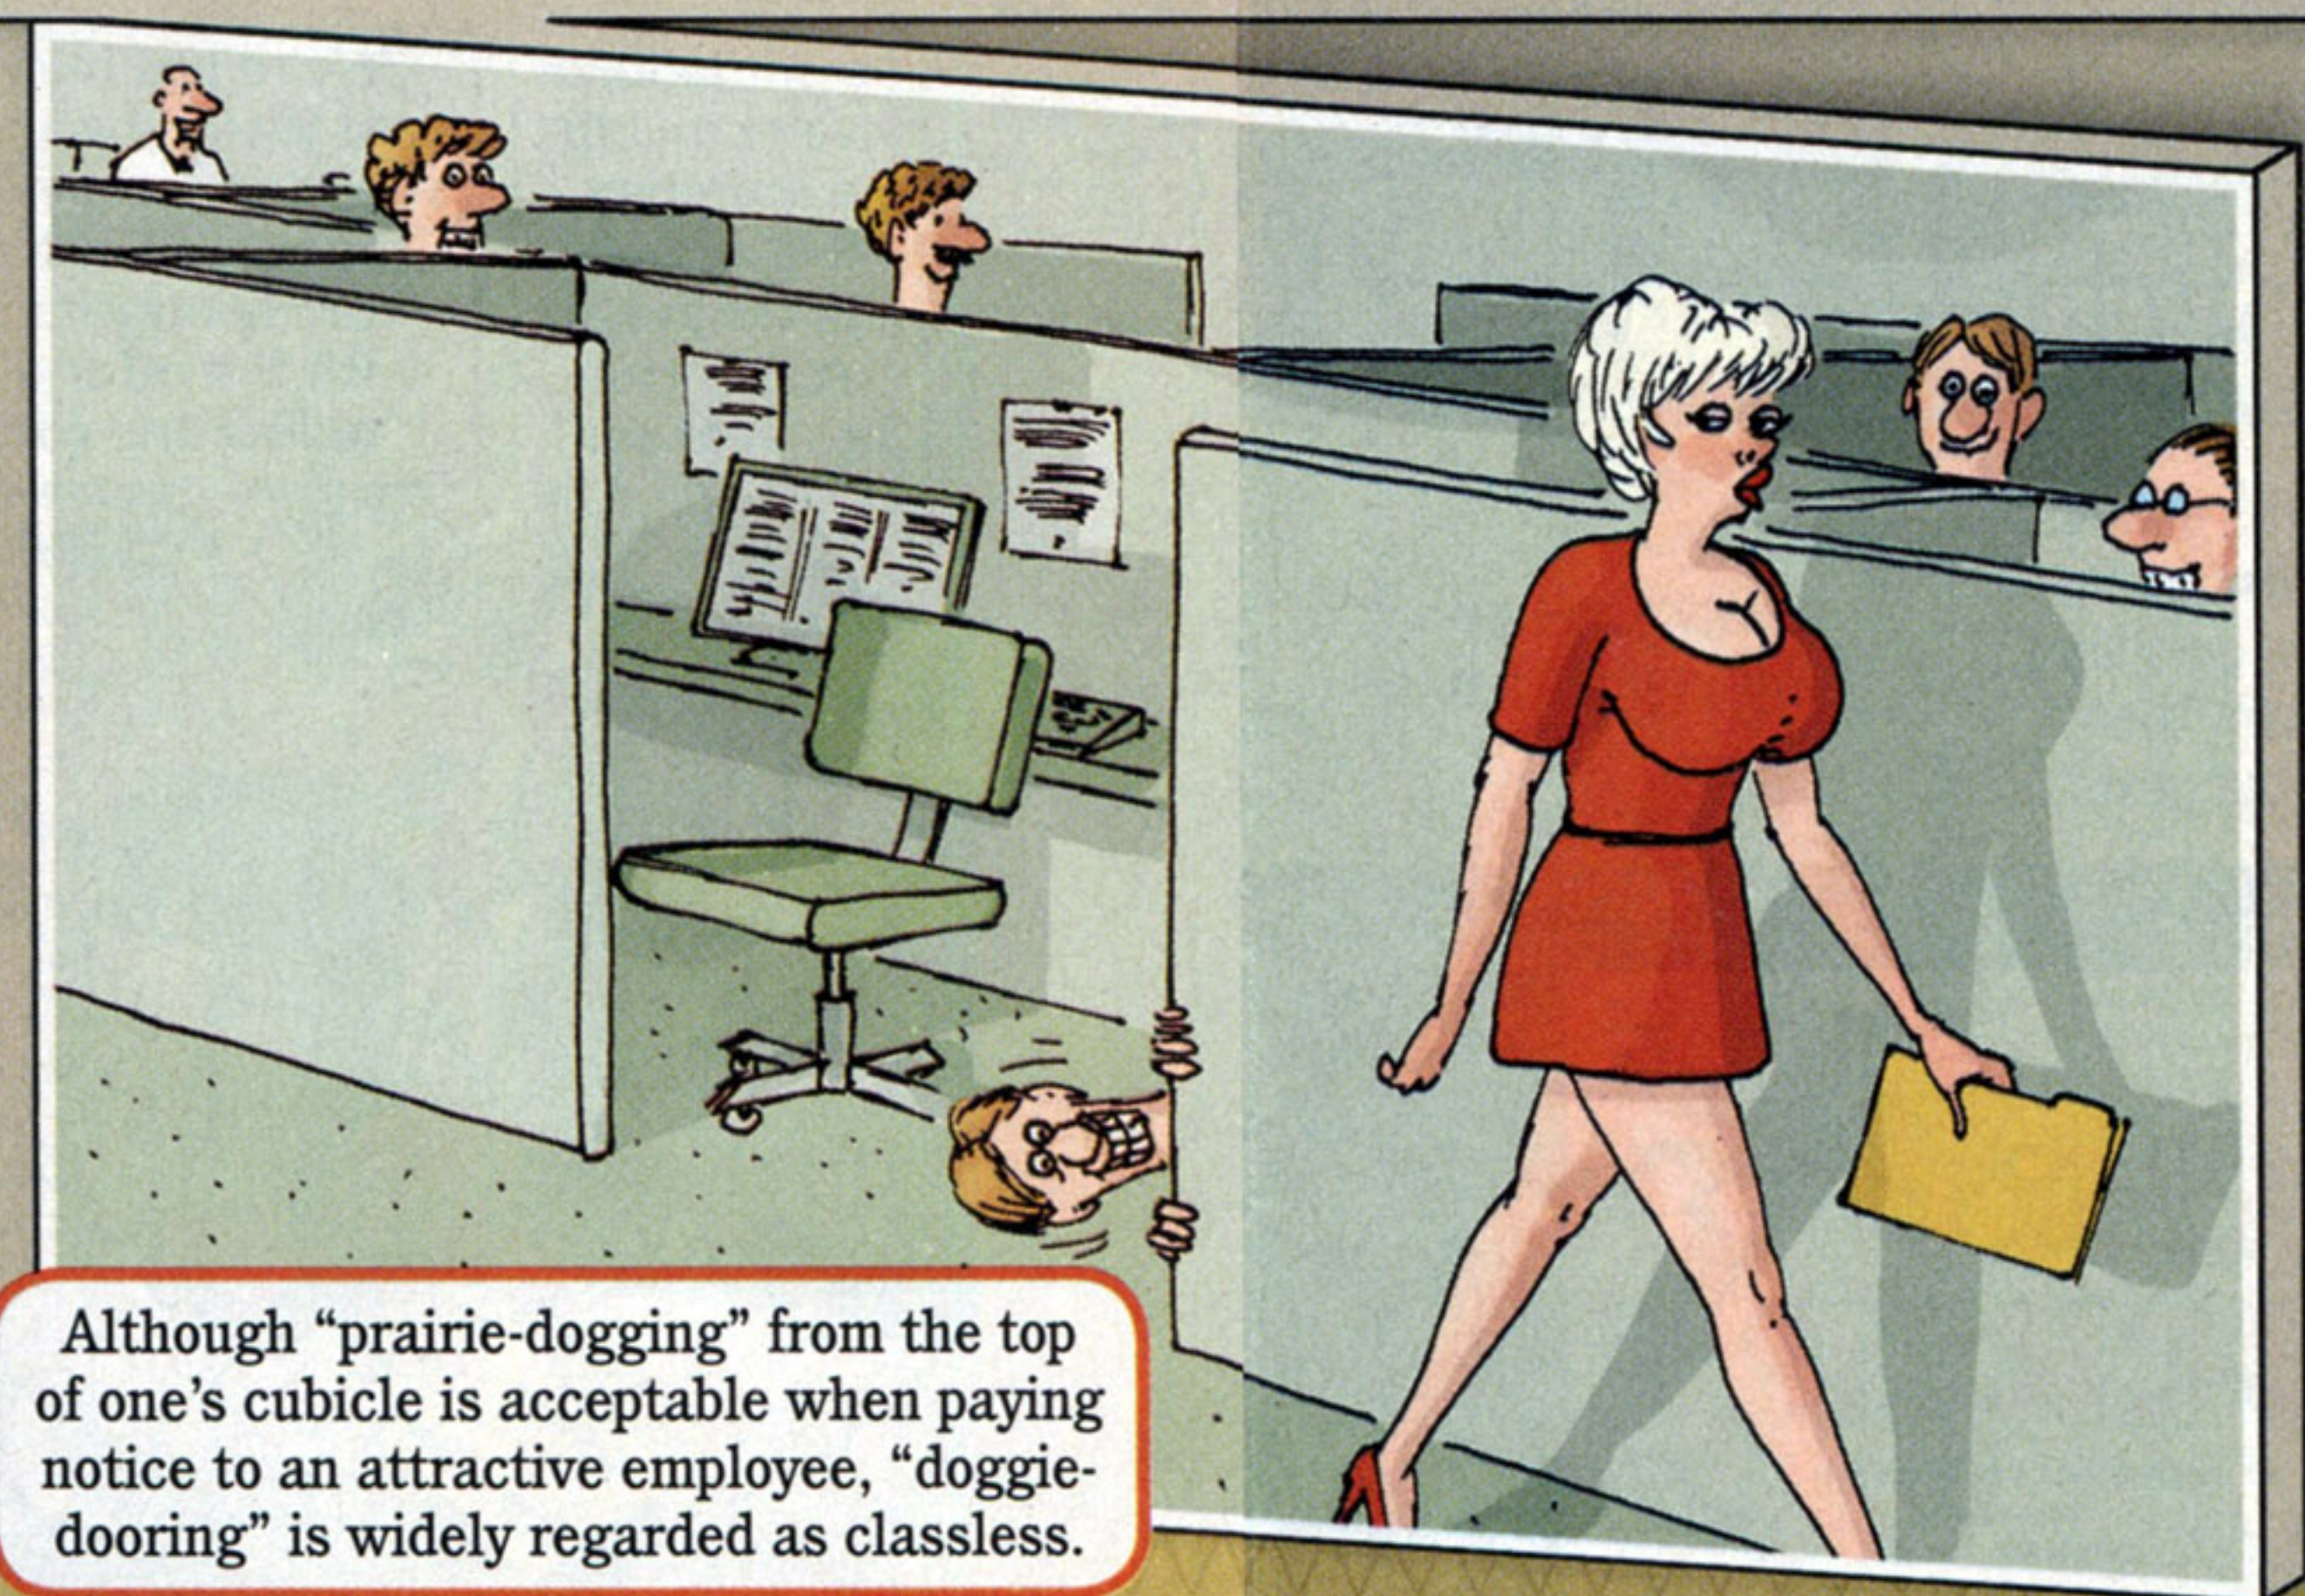

It's regarded as improper to supplement one's income by conducting a secondary cubicle business.

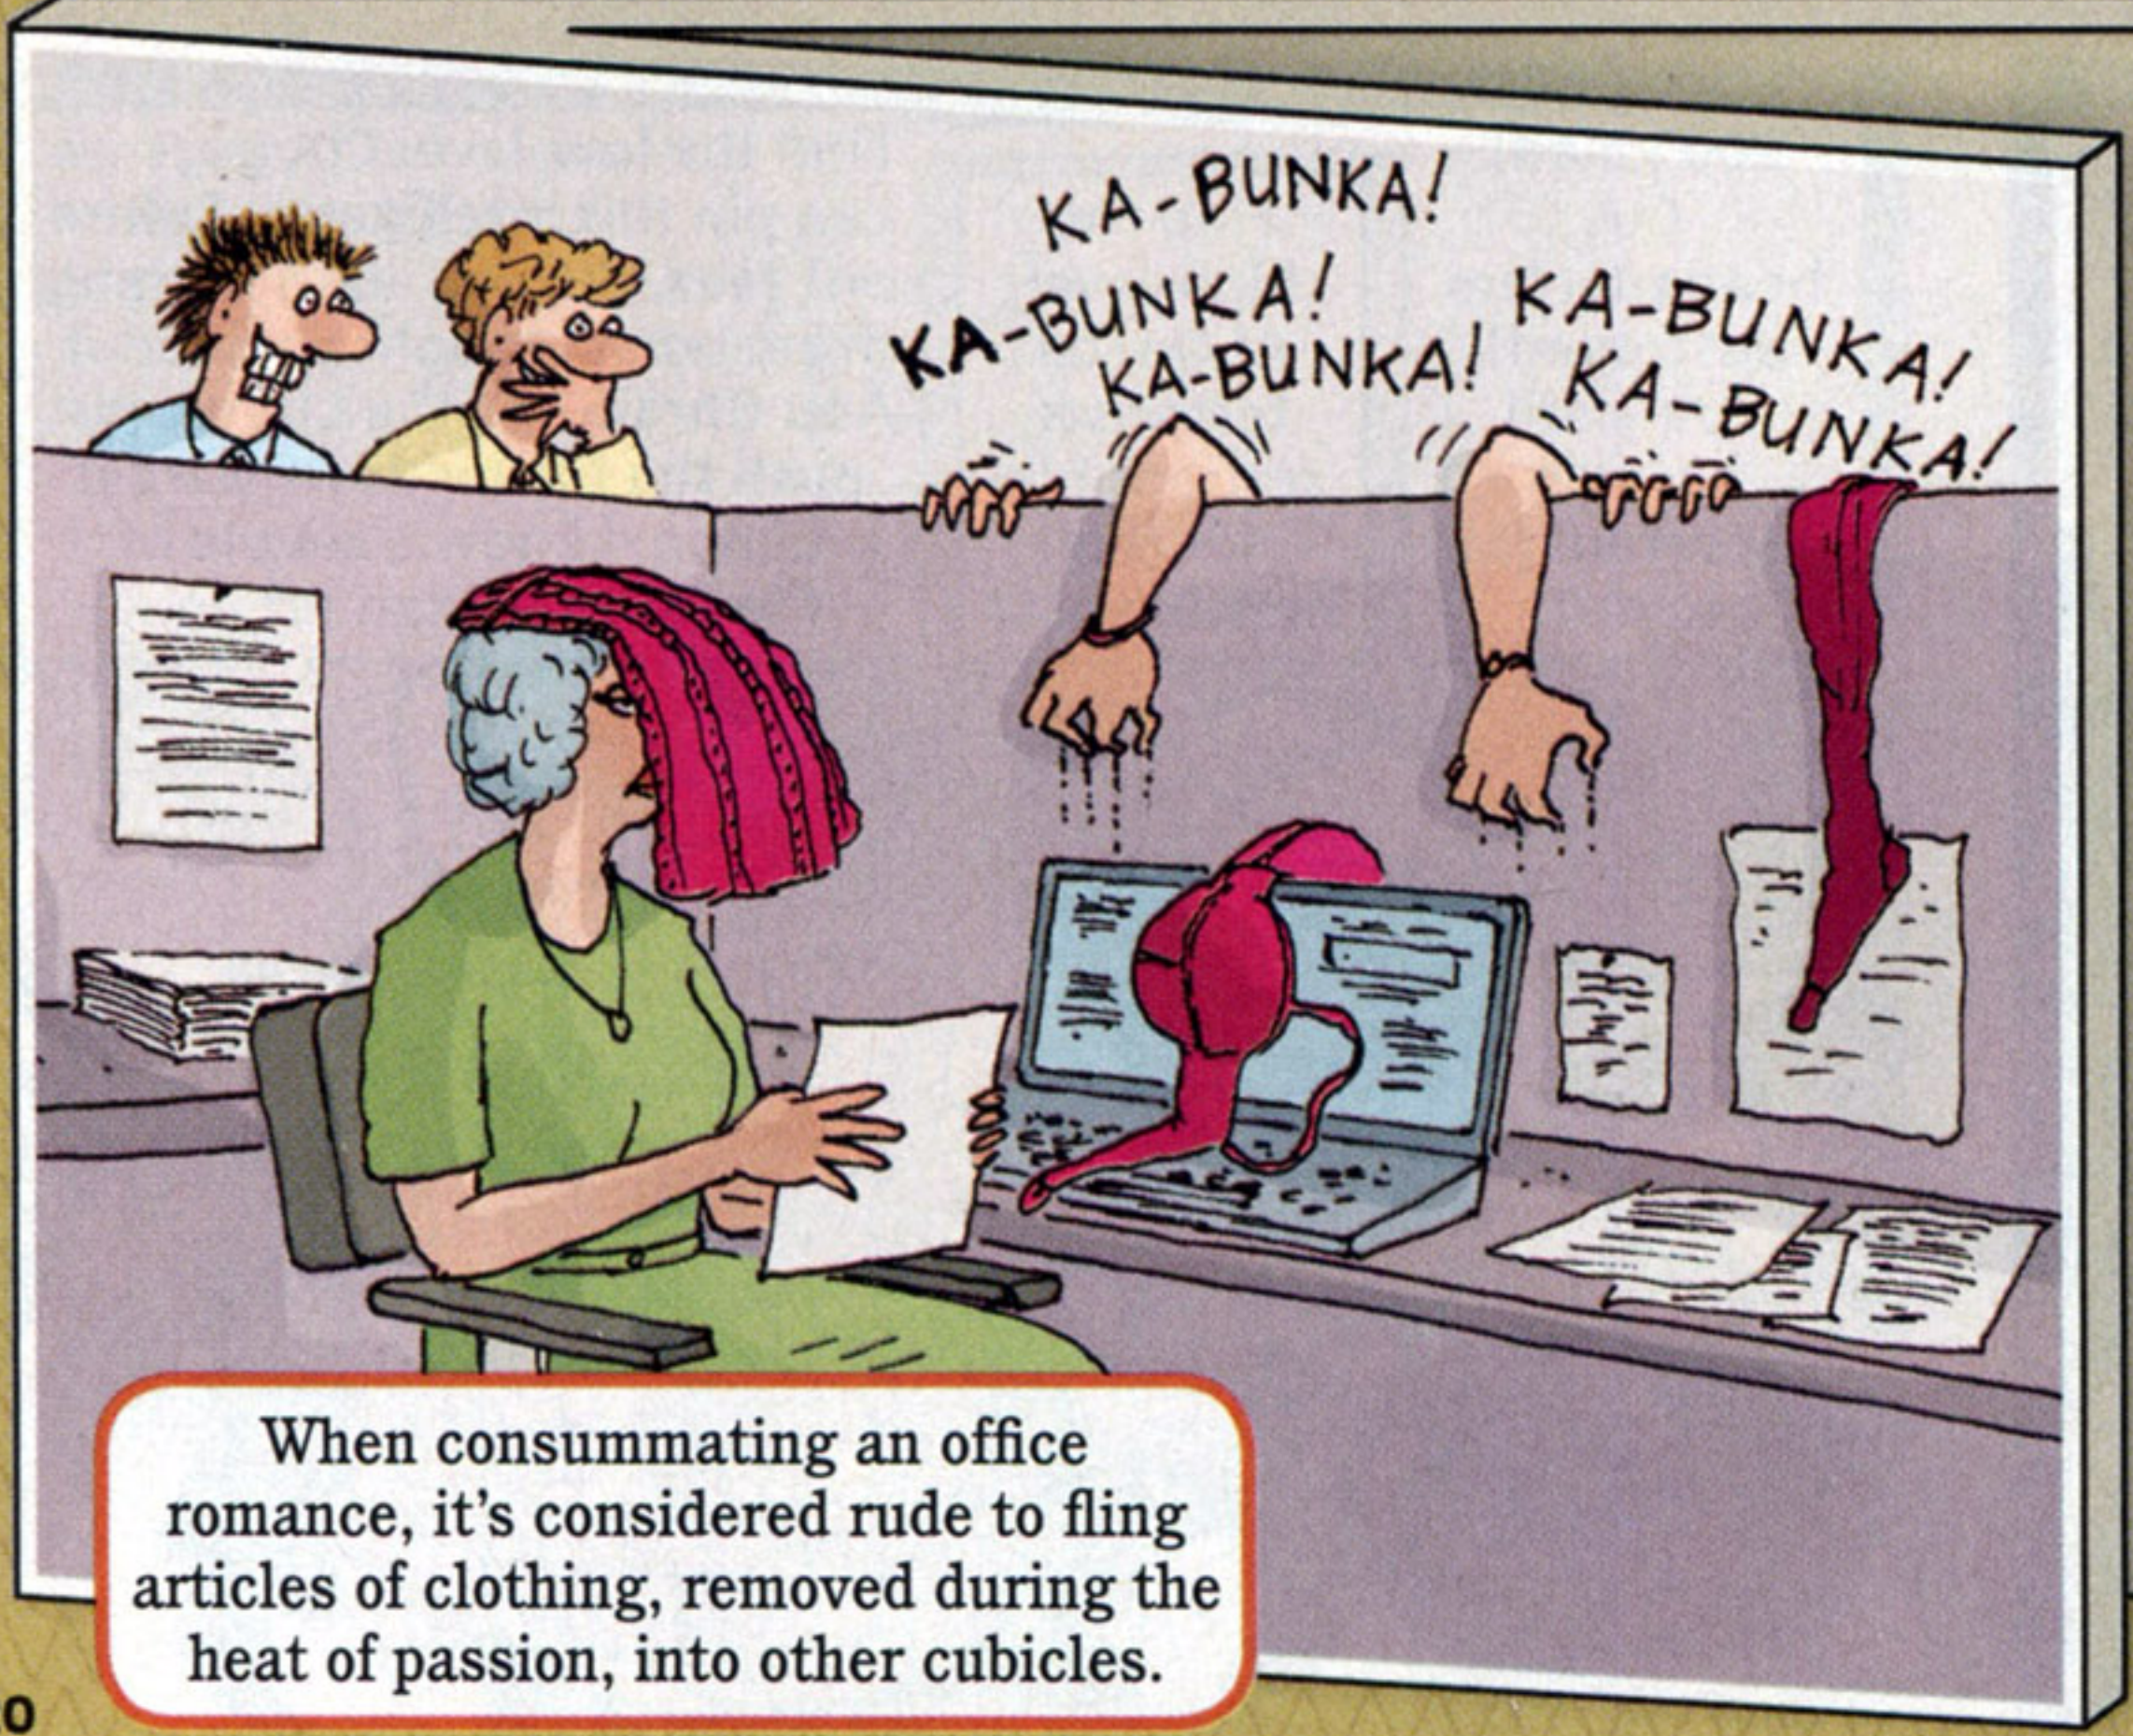

WRITER AND ARTIST: TOM CHENEY
COLORIST: CARL PETERSON

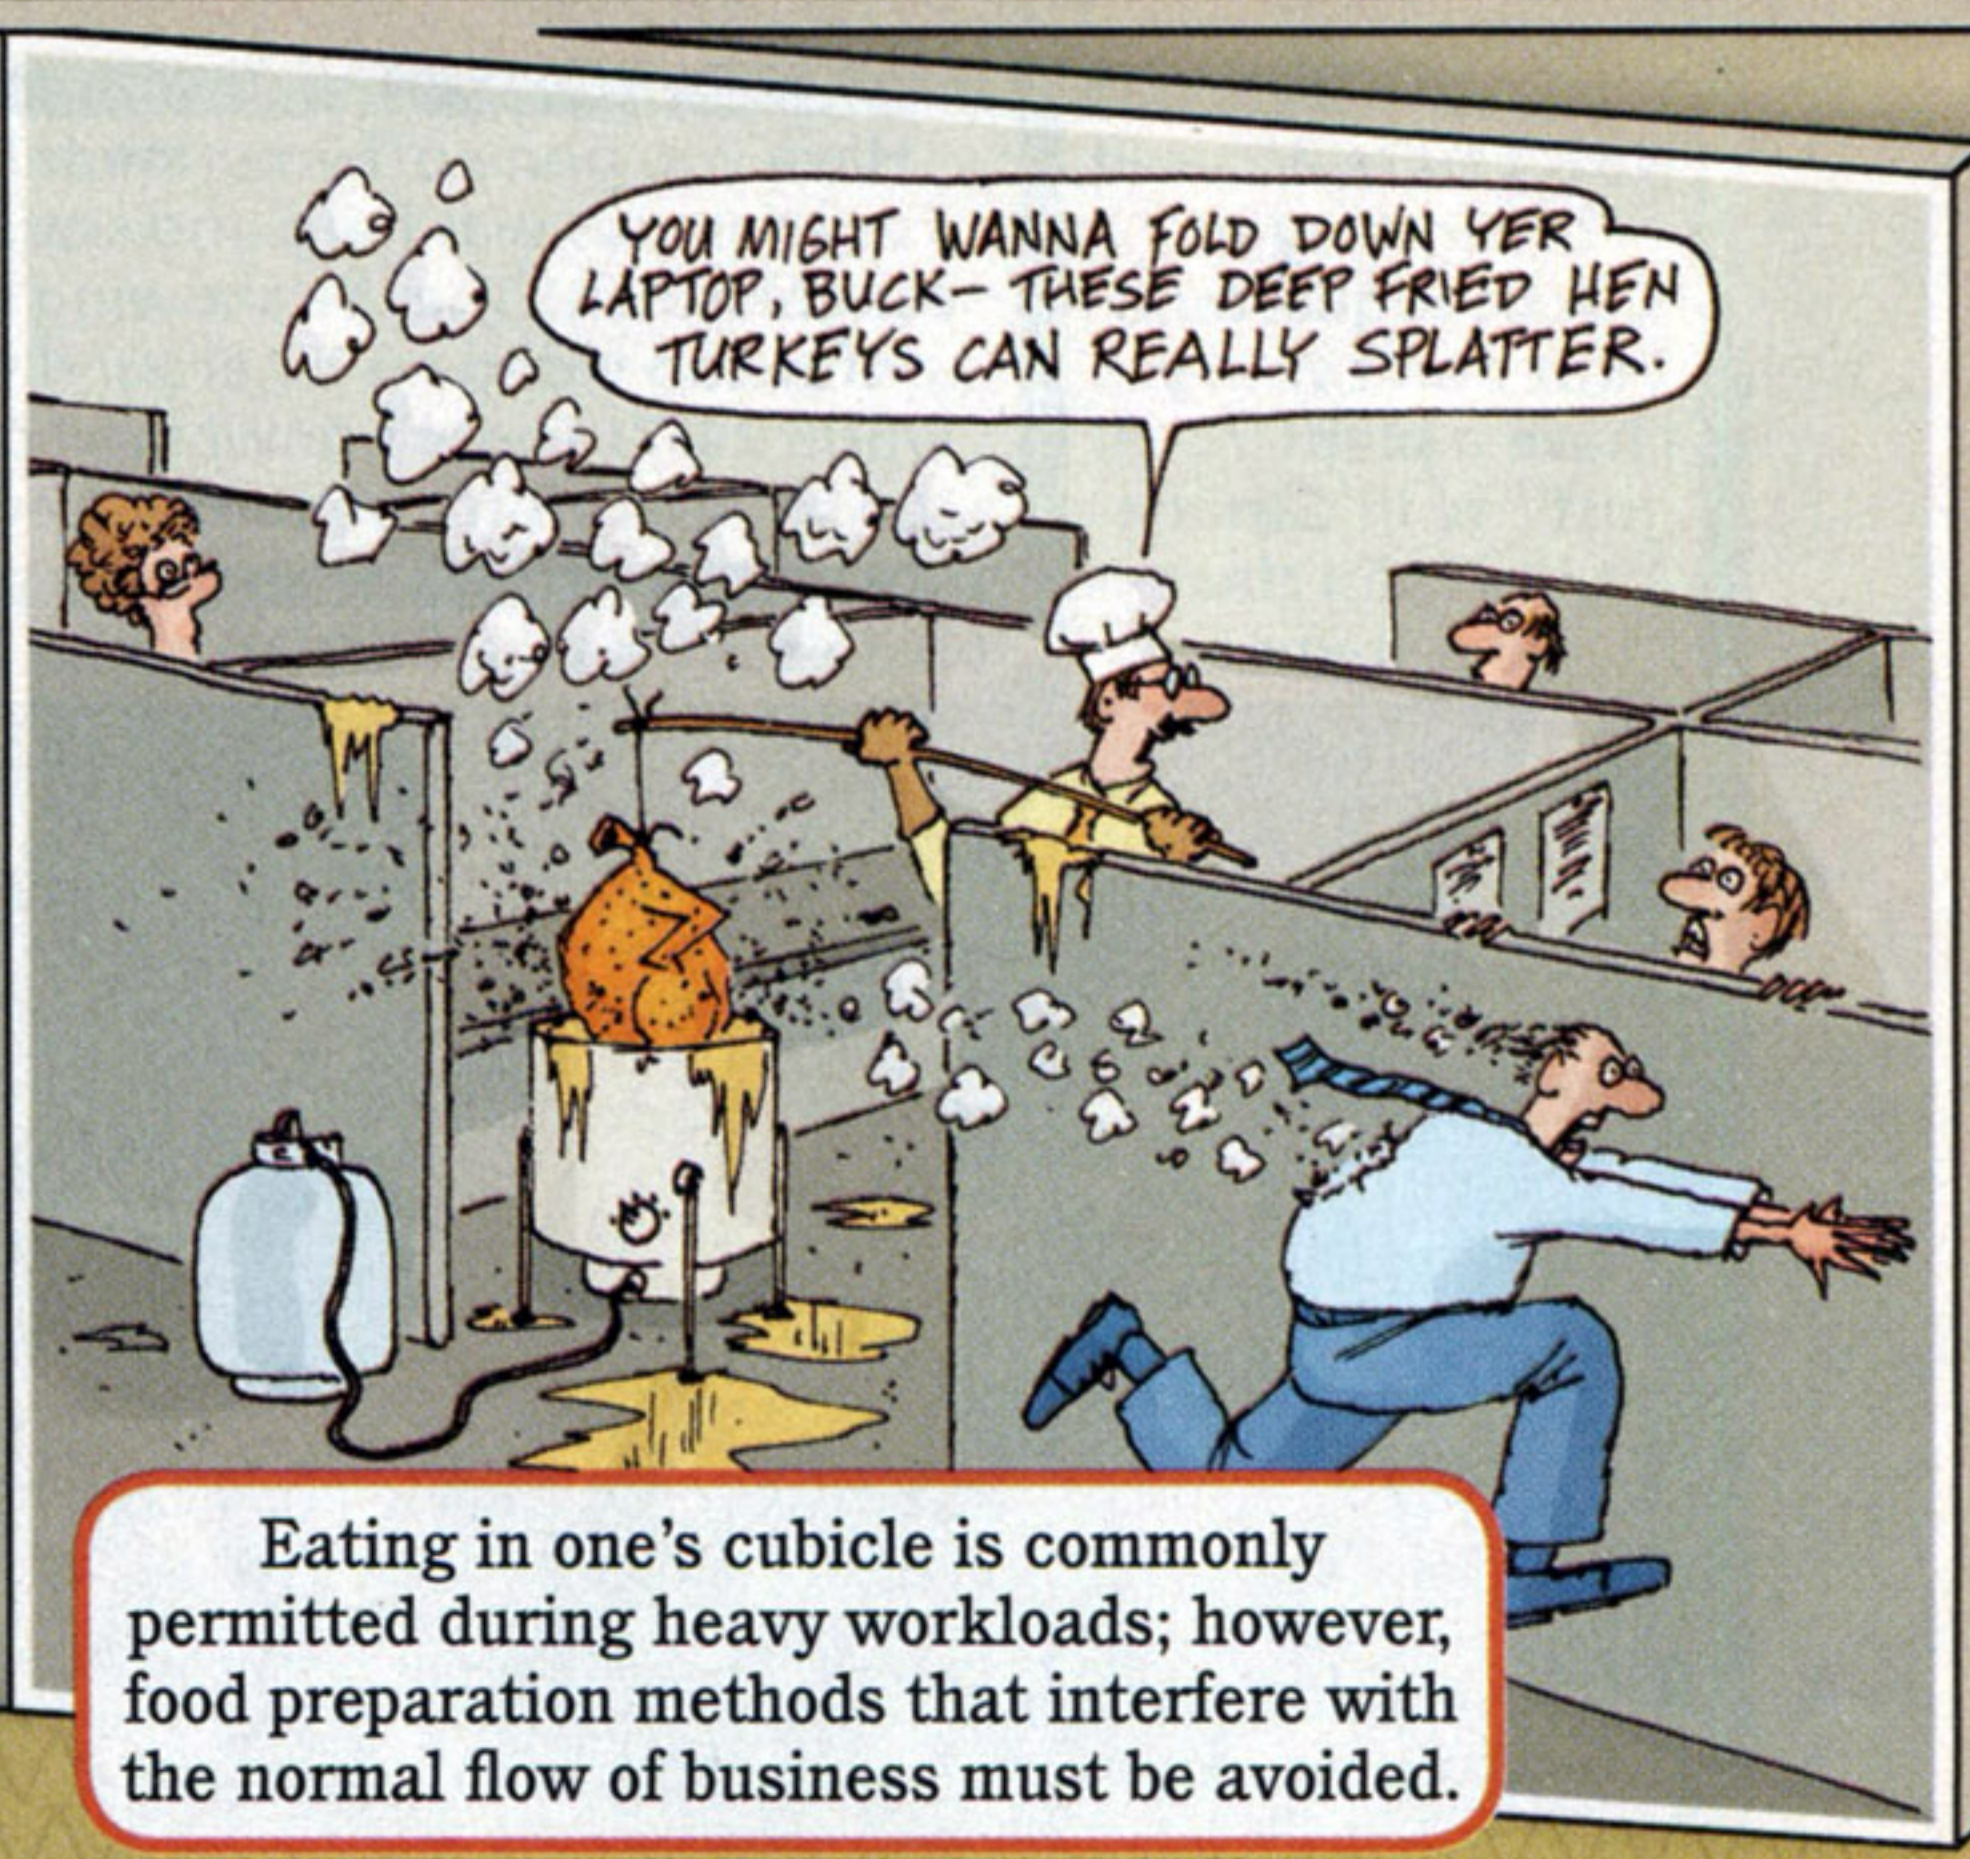

The task of keeping one's work space neat and tidy should never be accomplished by "dumpstering" into an absent or vacationing employee's area.

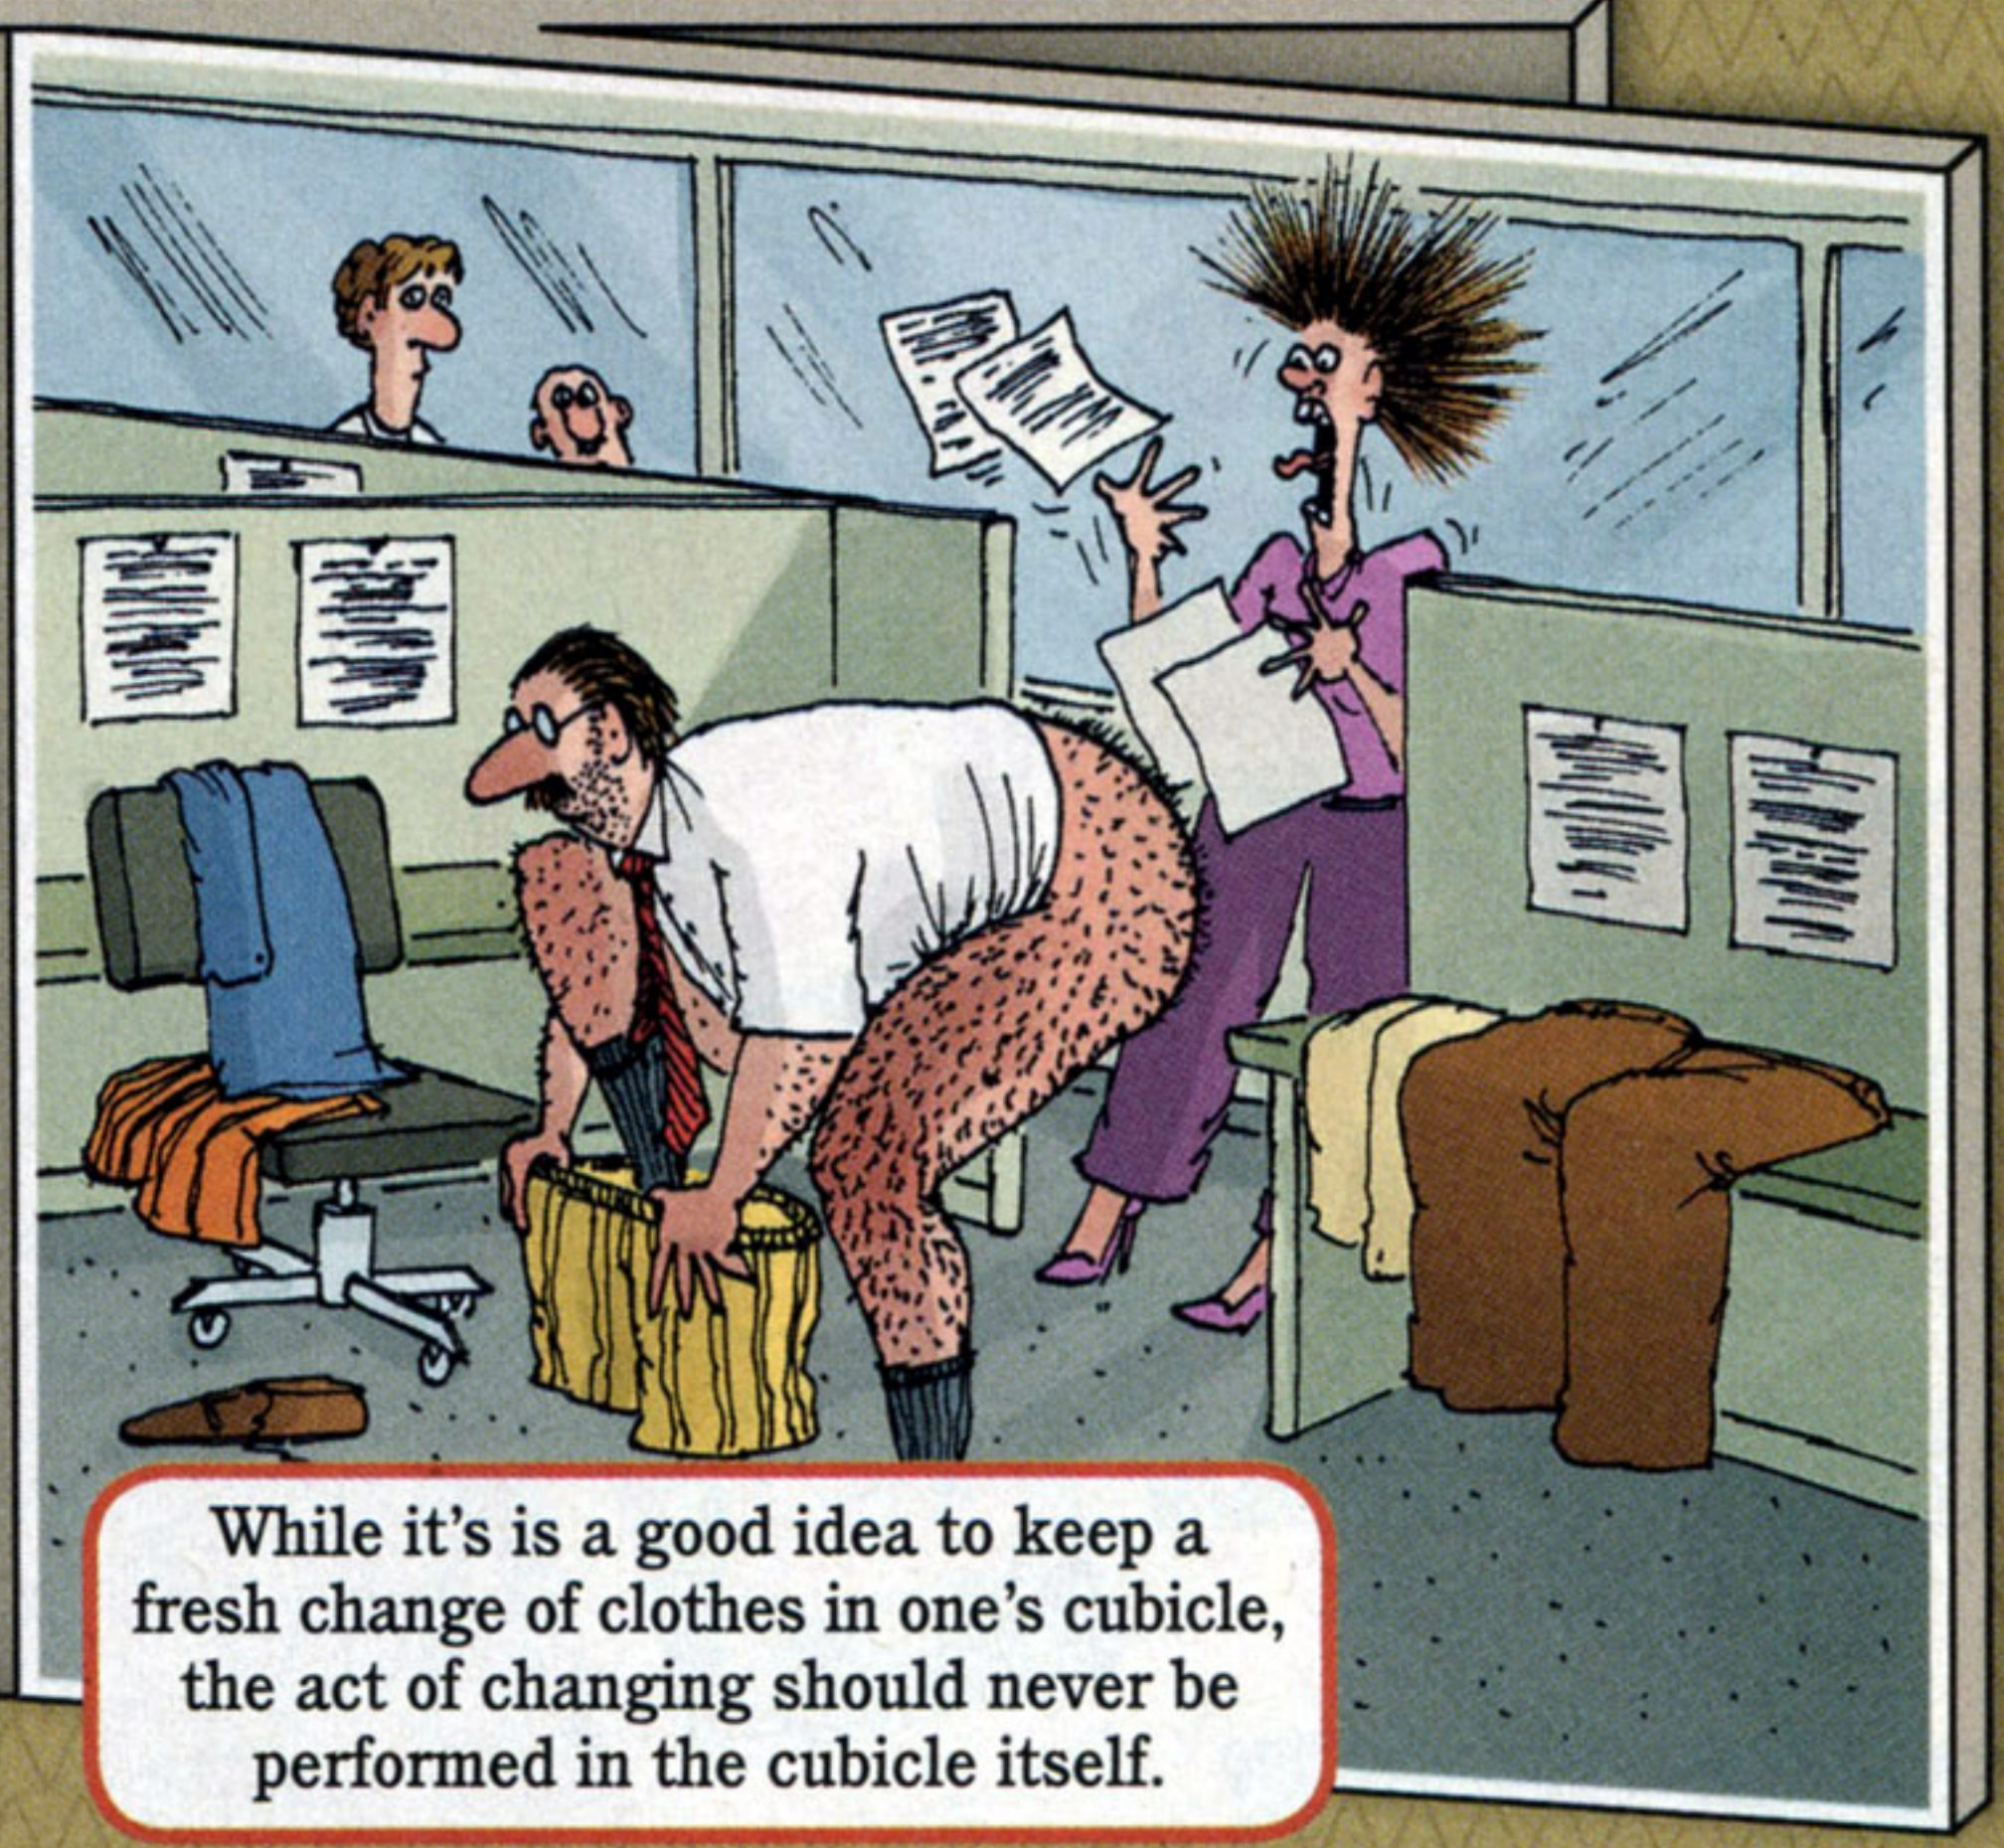

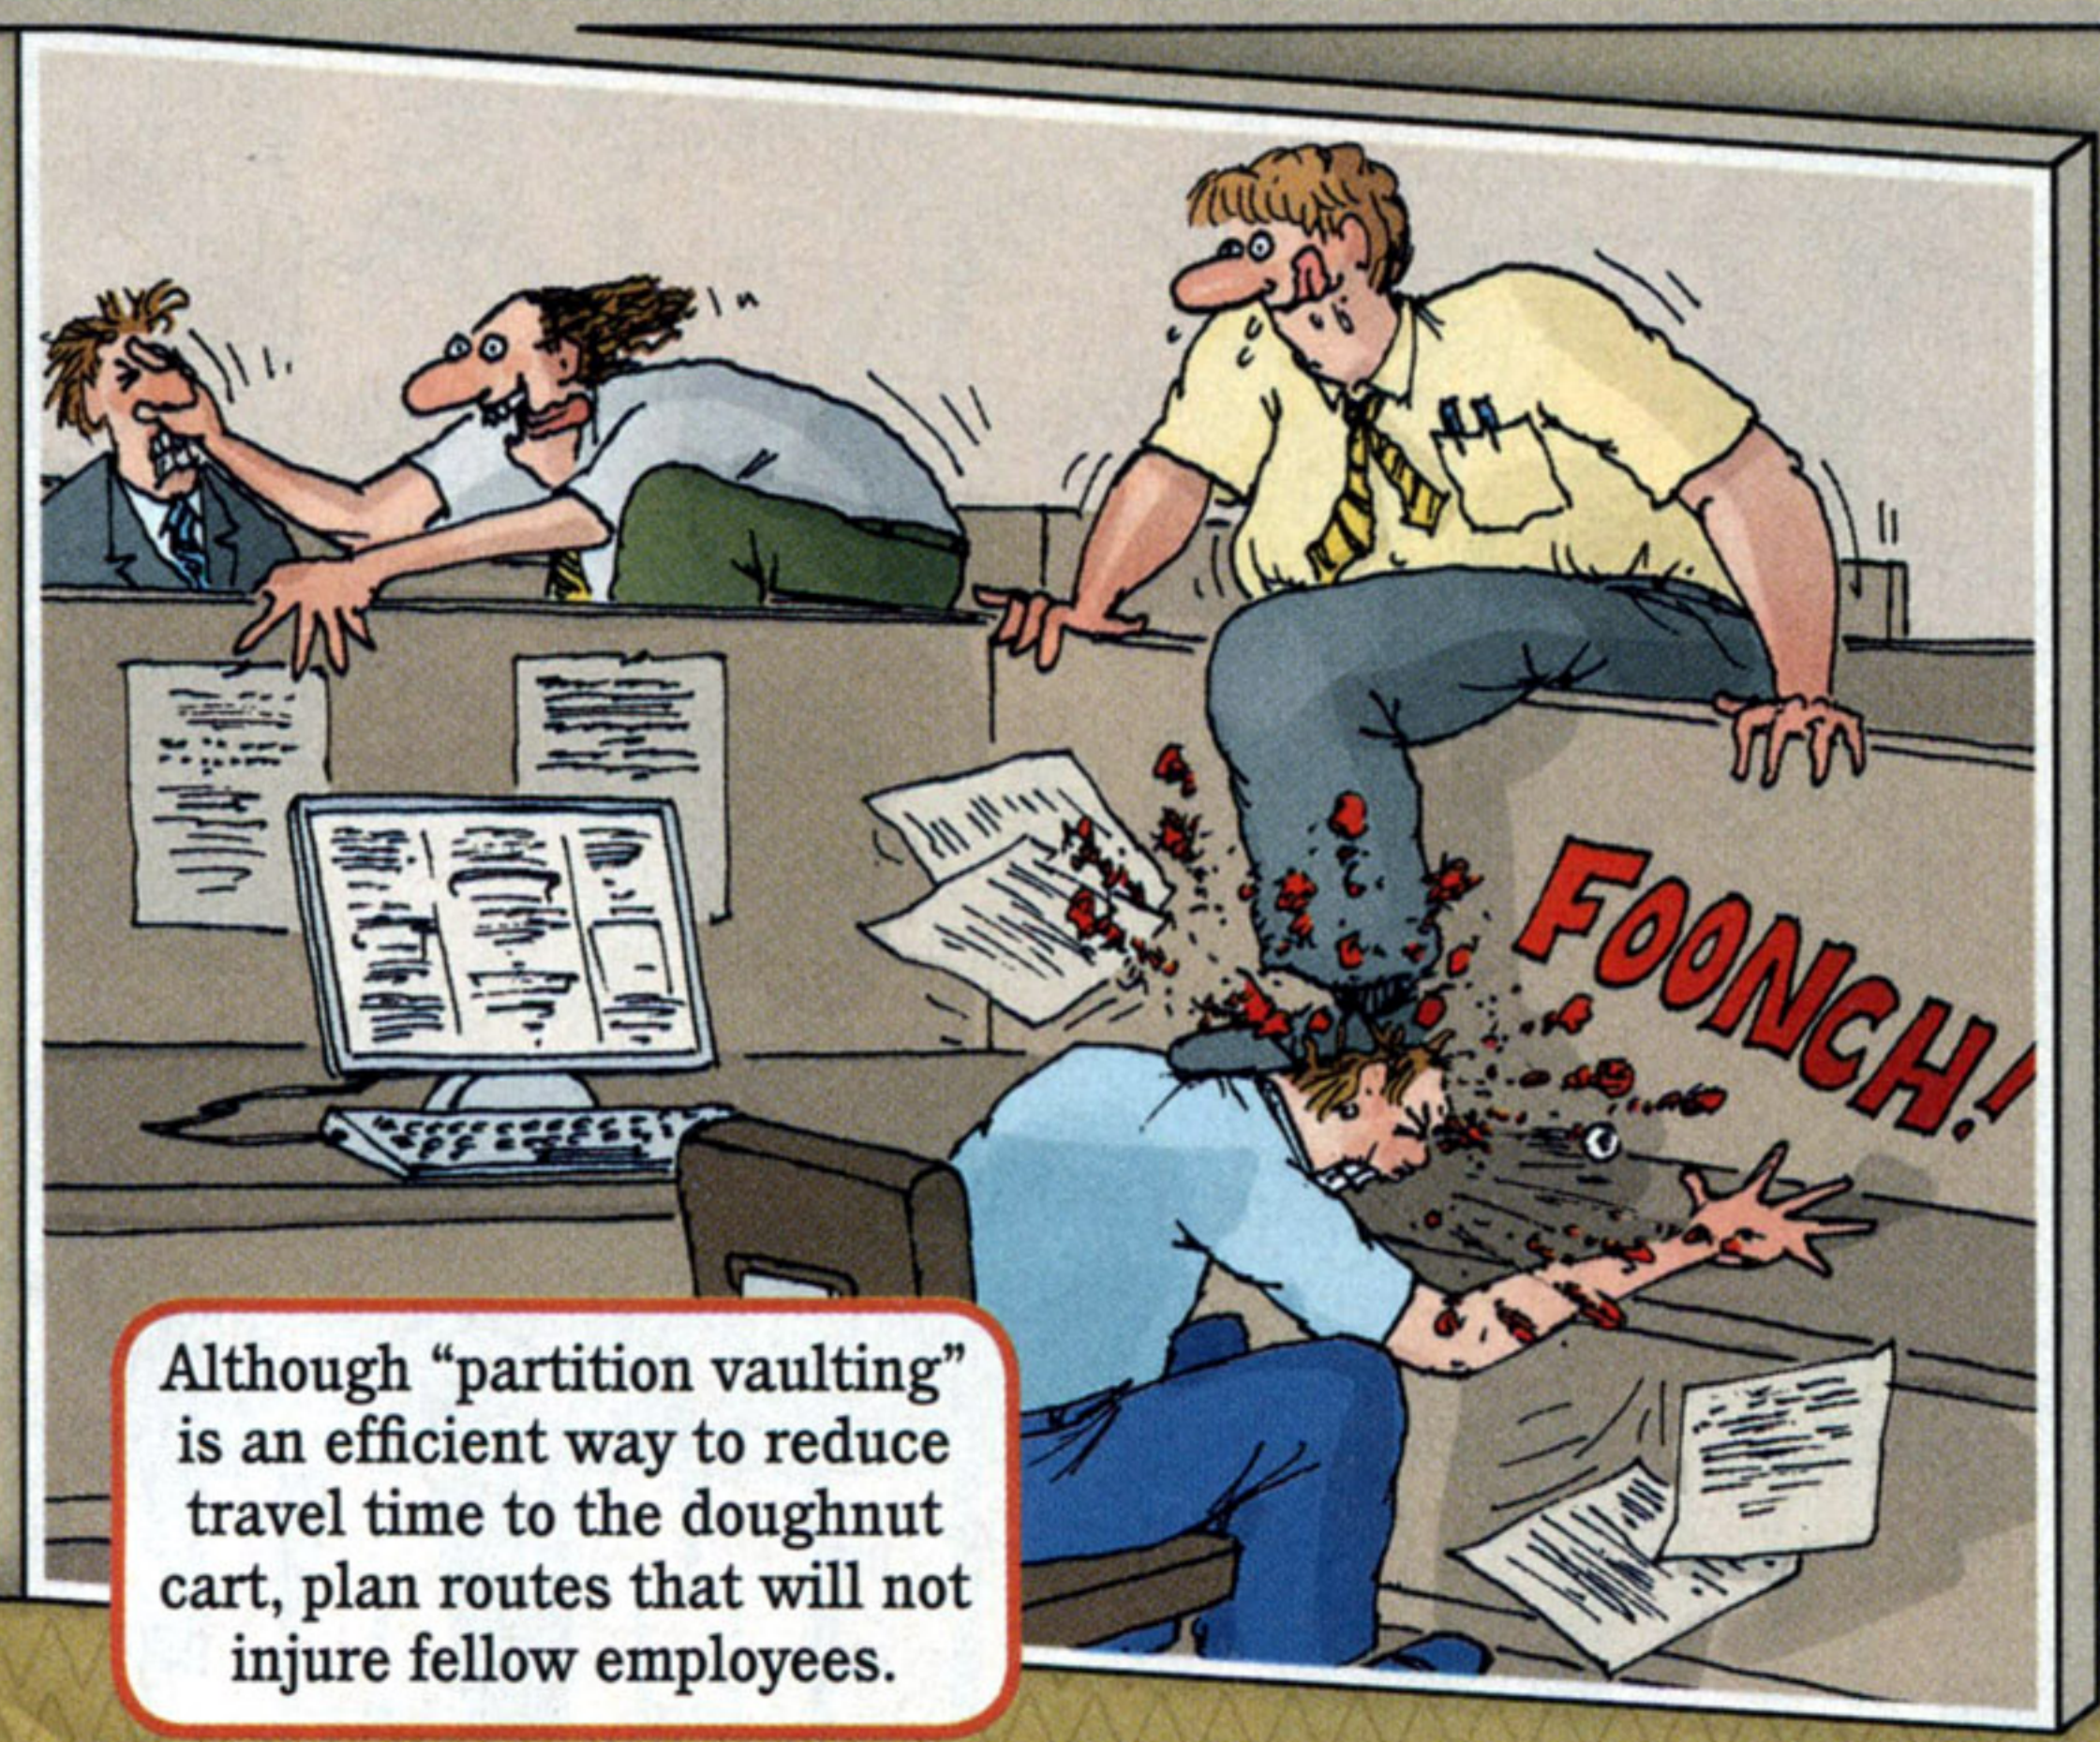

When hooking up multiple pieces of electronic gear, special care must be taken to avoid connections which could cause excessive power surges in adjacent work stations.

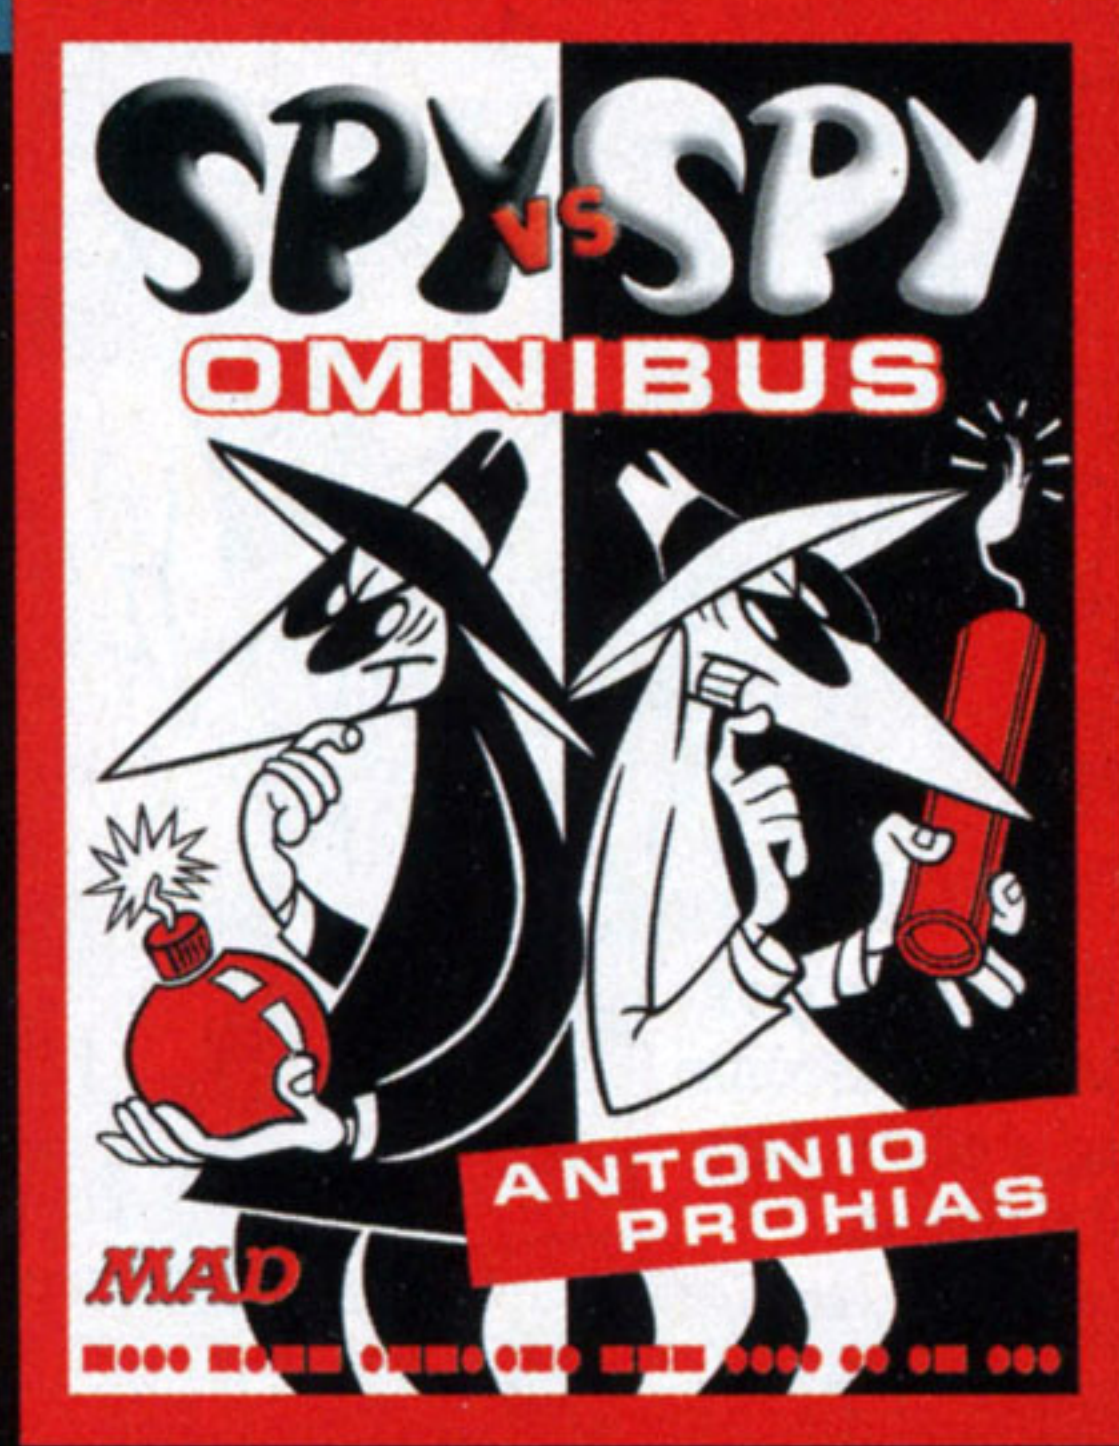

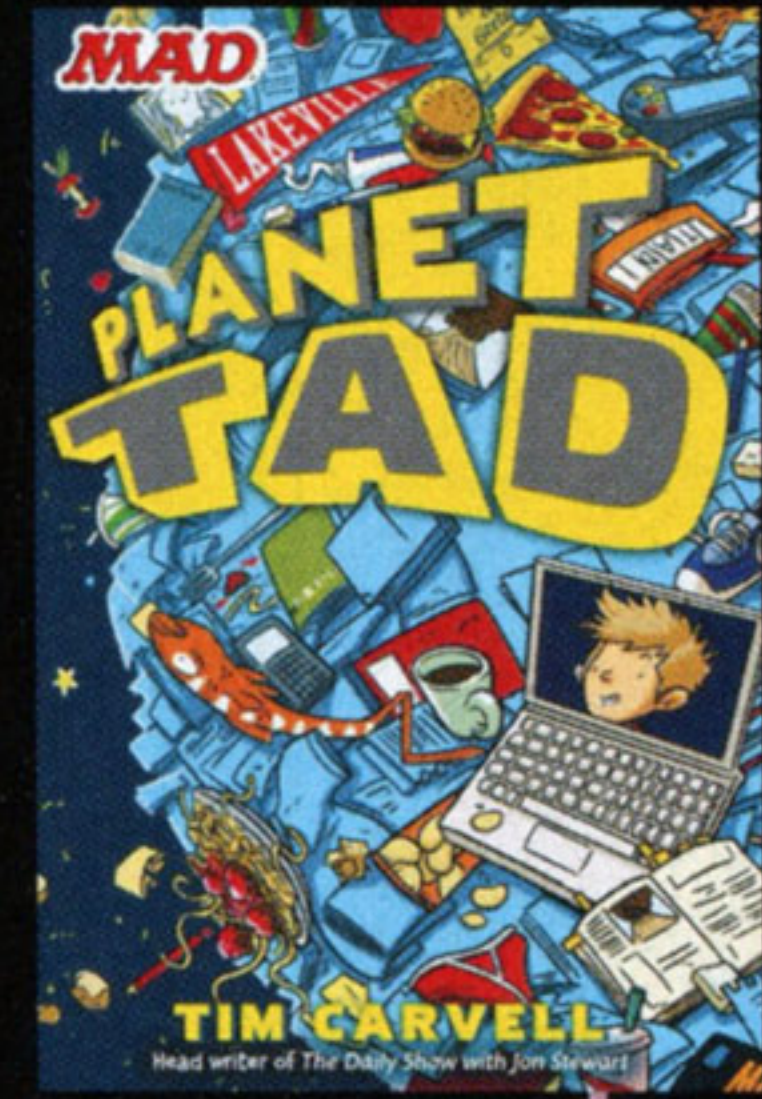

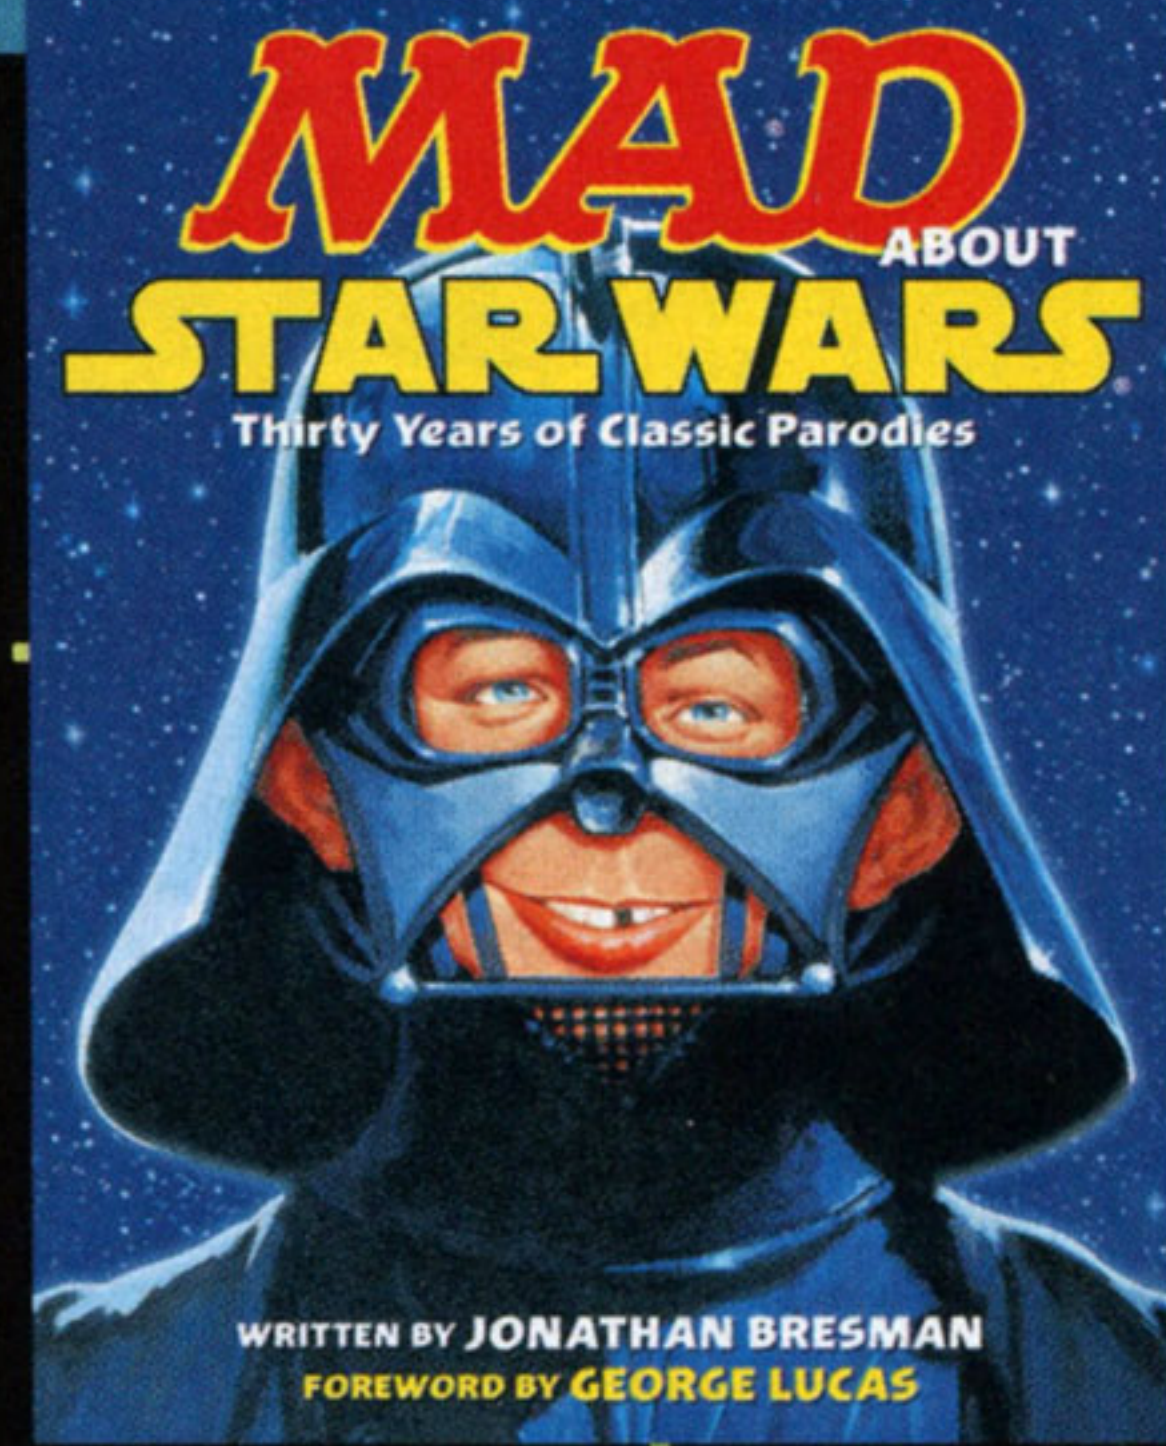

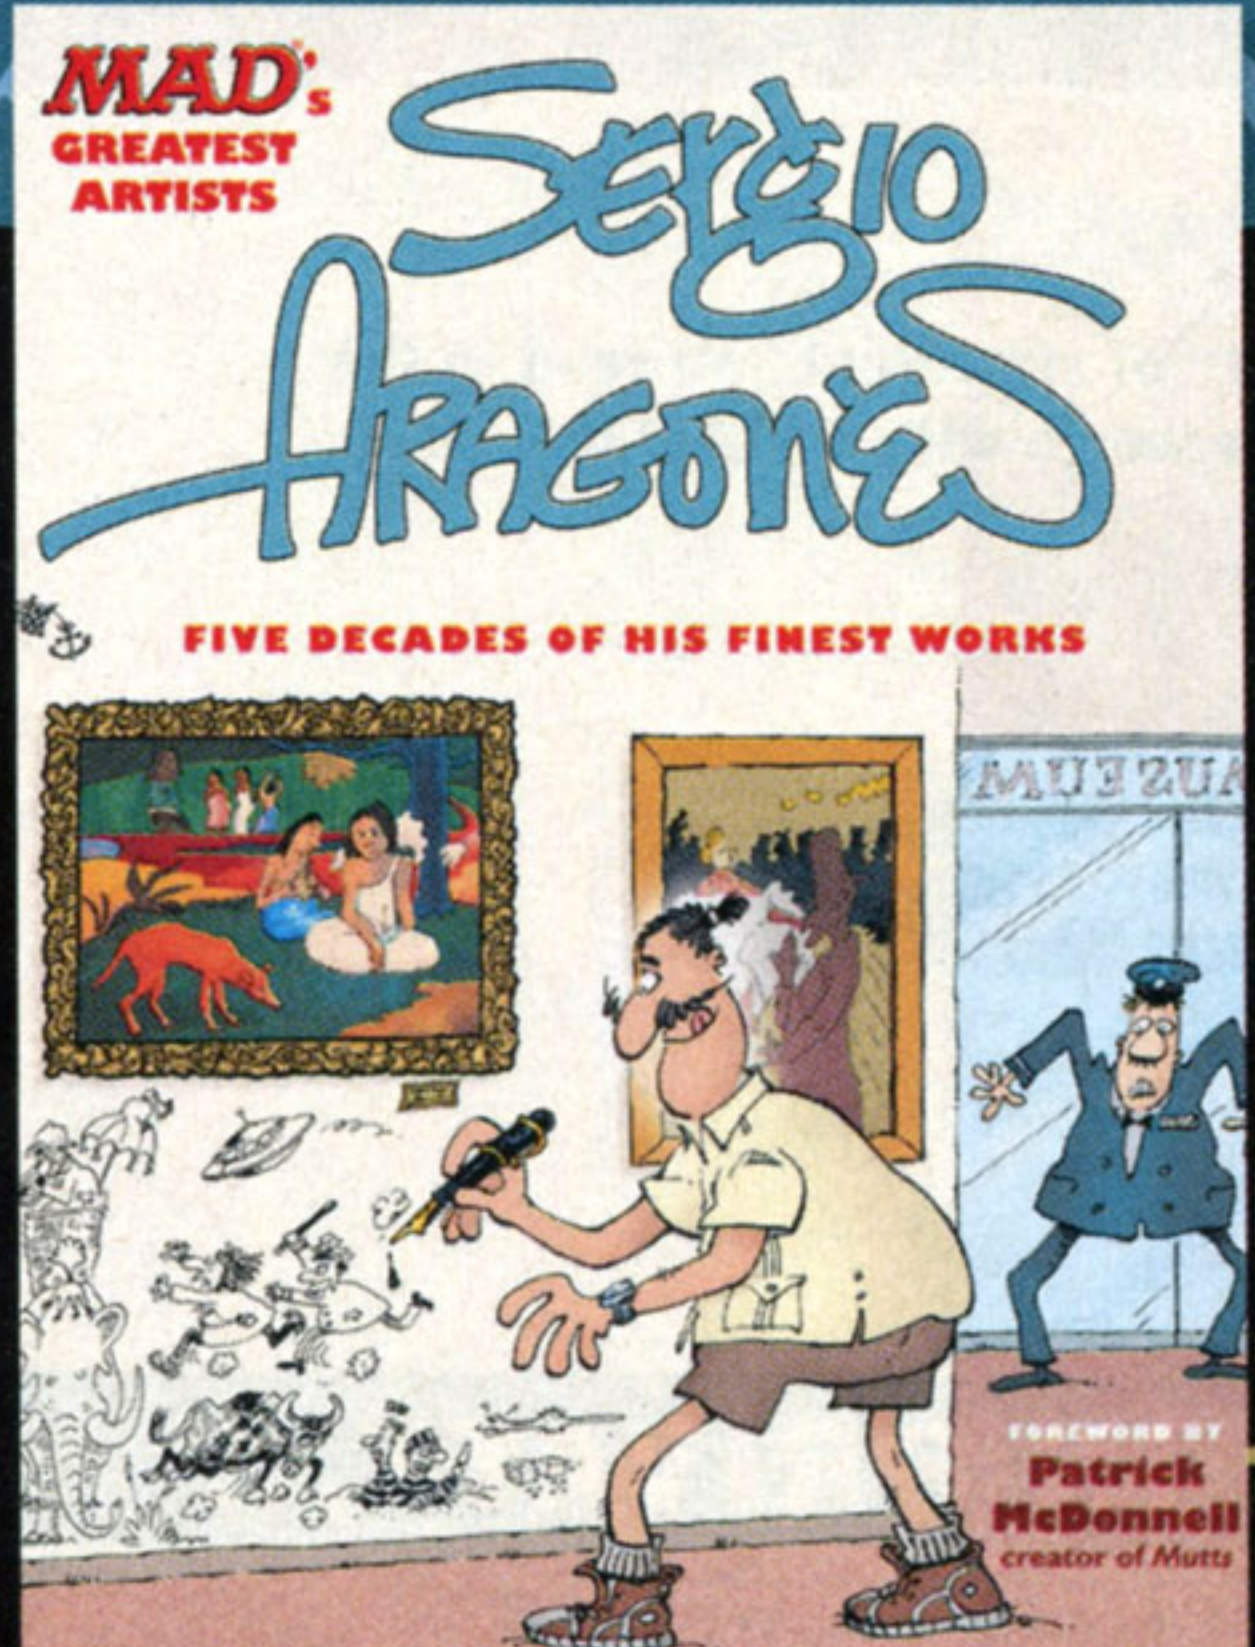

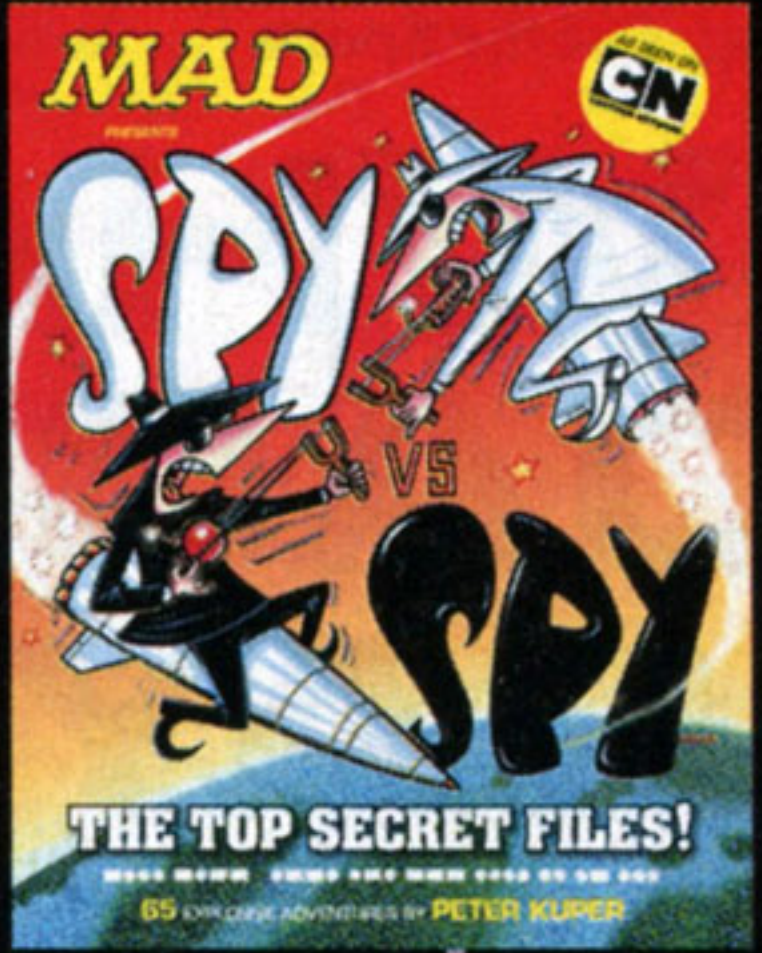

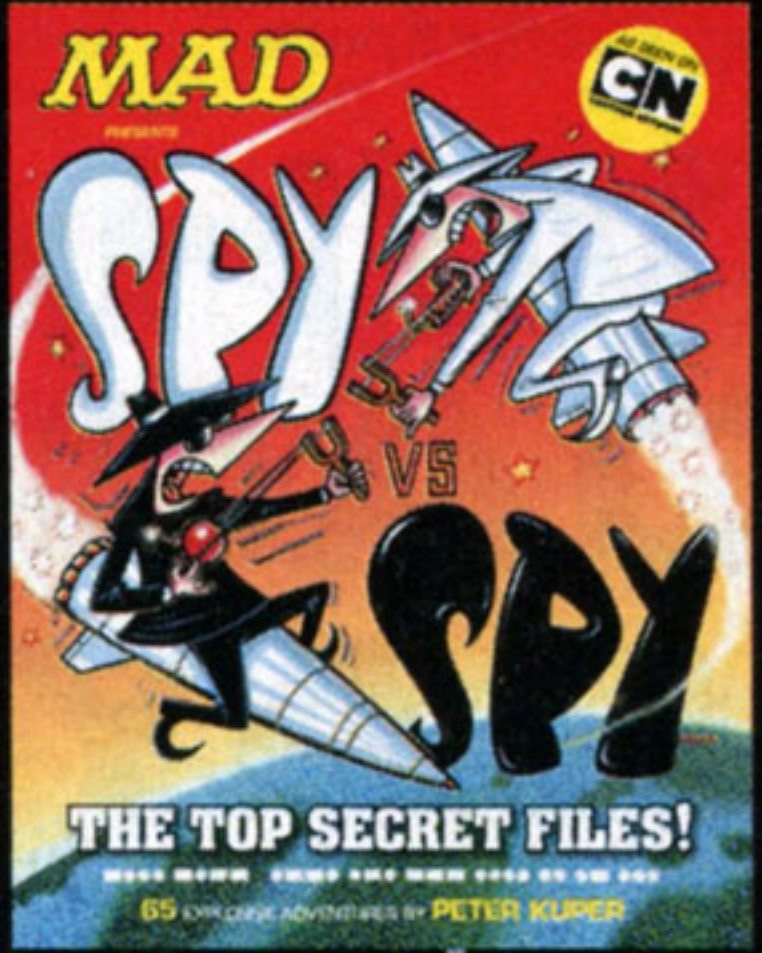

When consummating an office romance, it's considered rude to fling articles of clothing, removed during the heat of passion, into other cubicles.

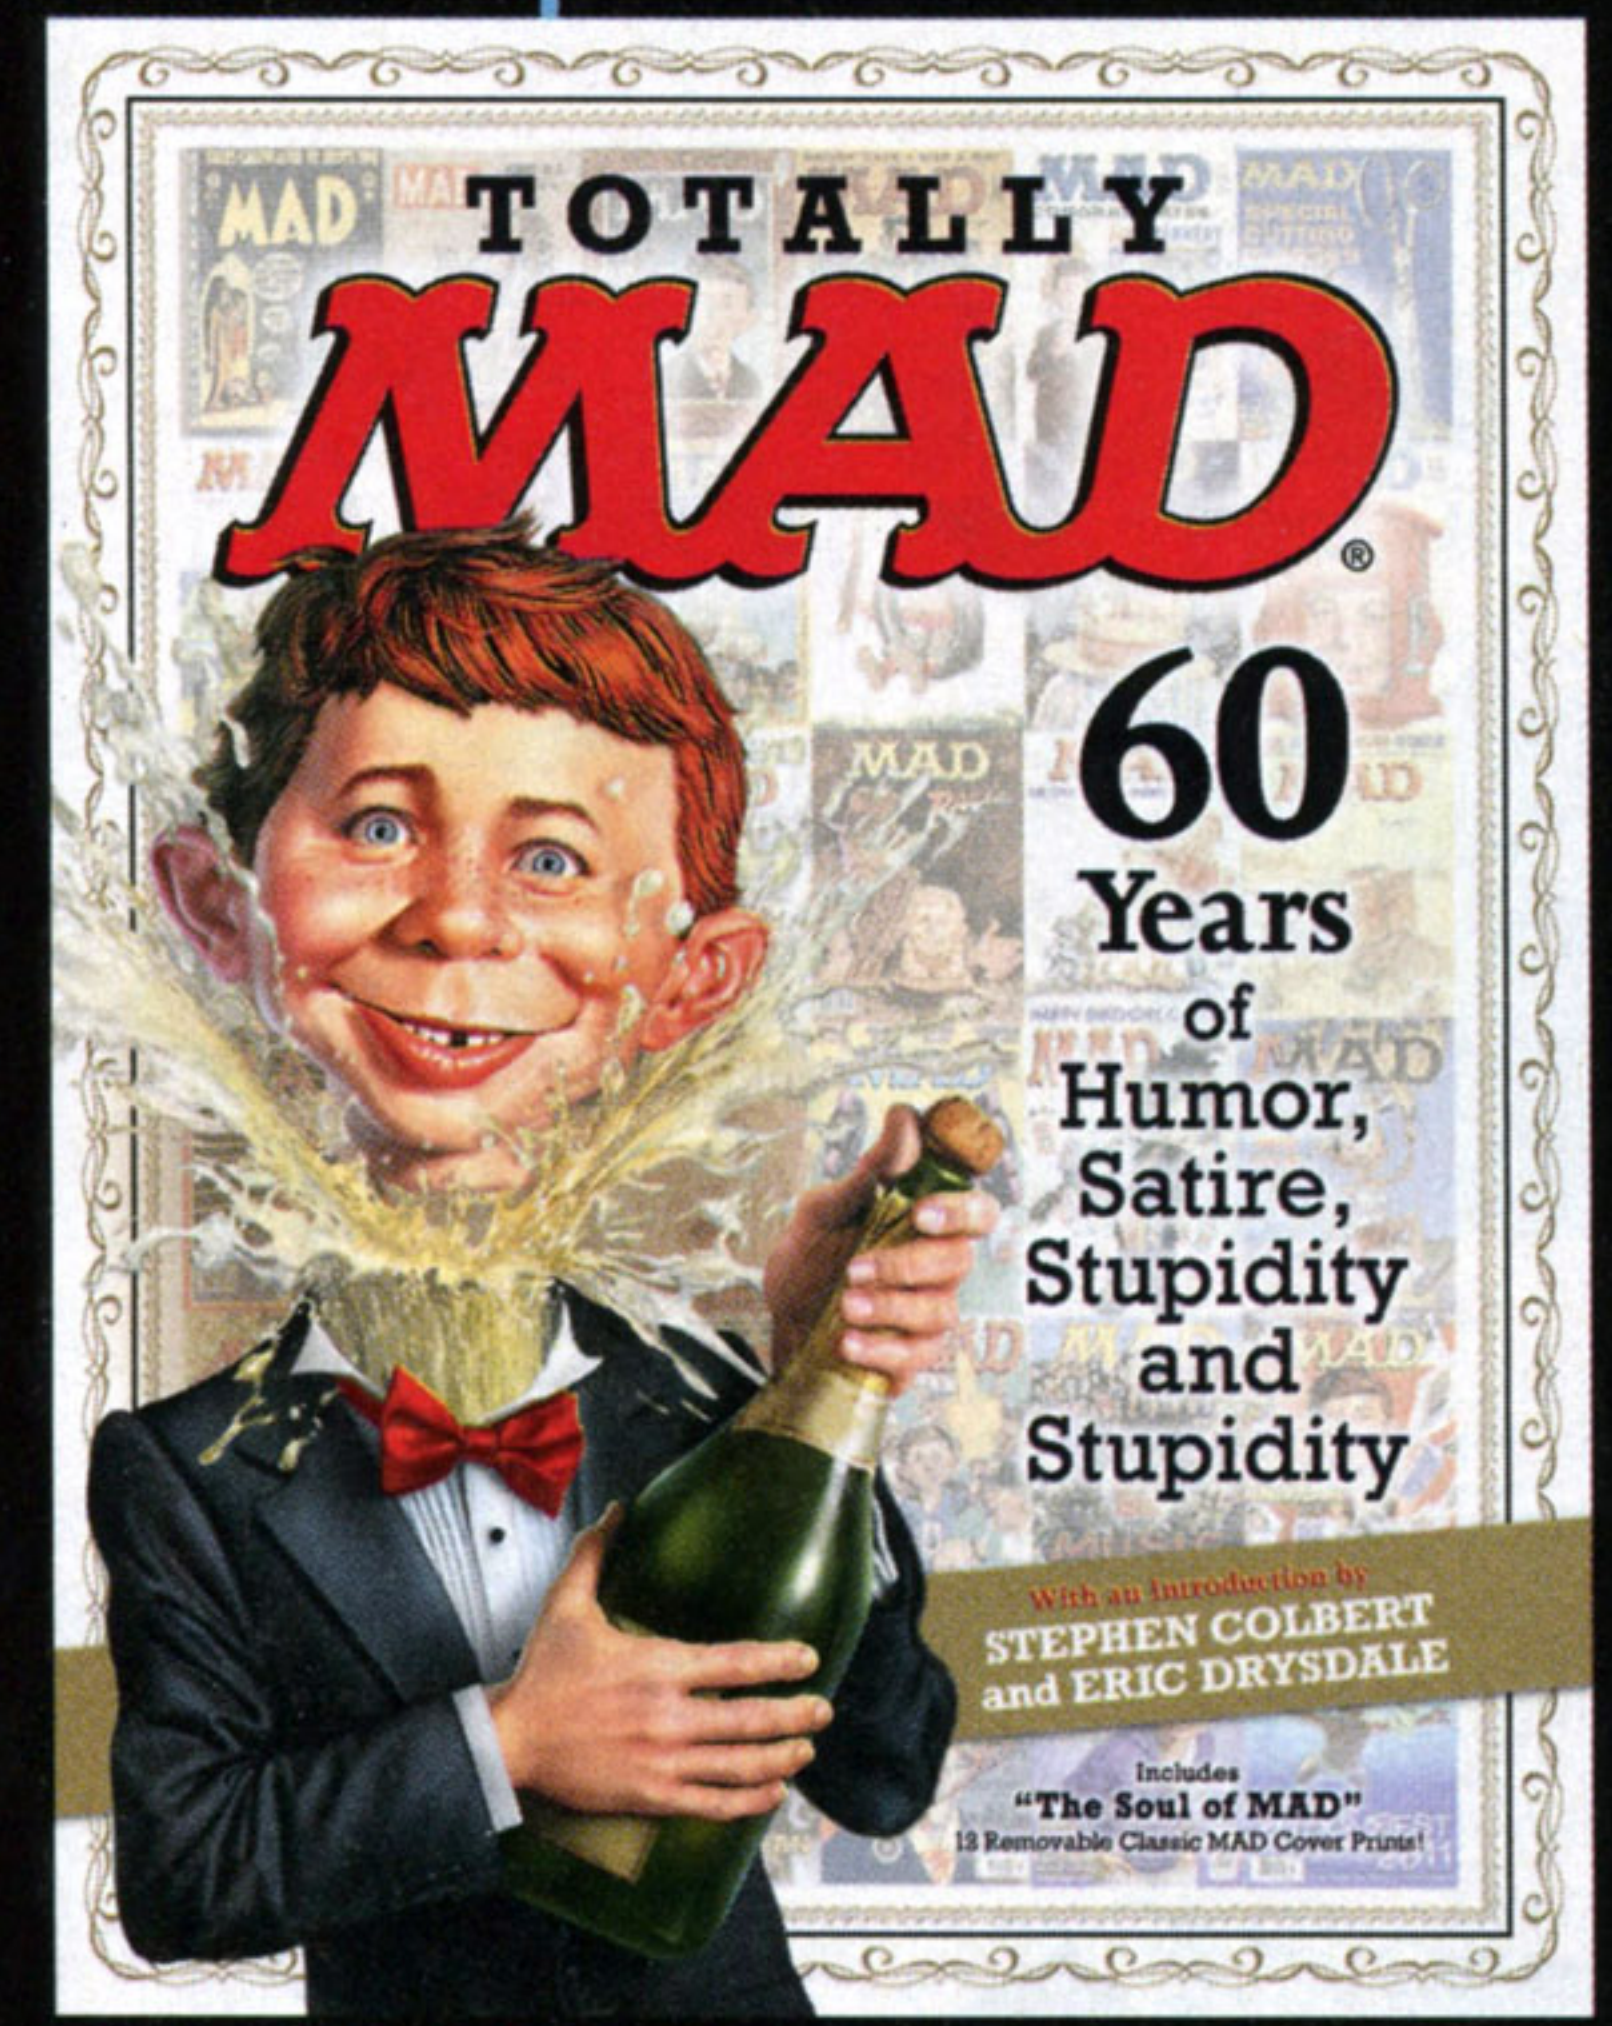

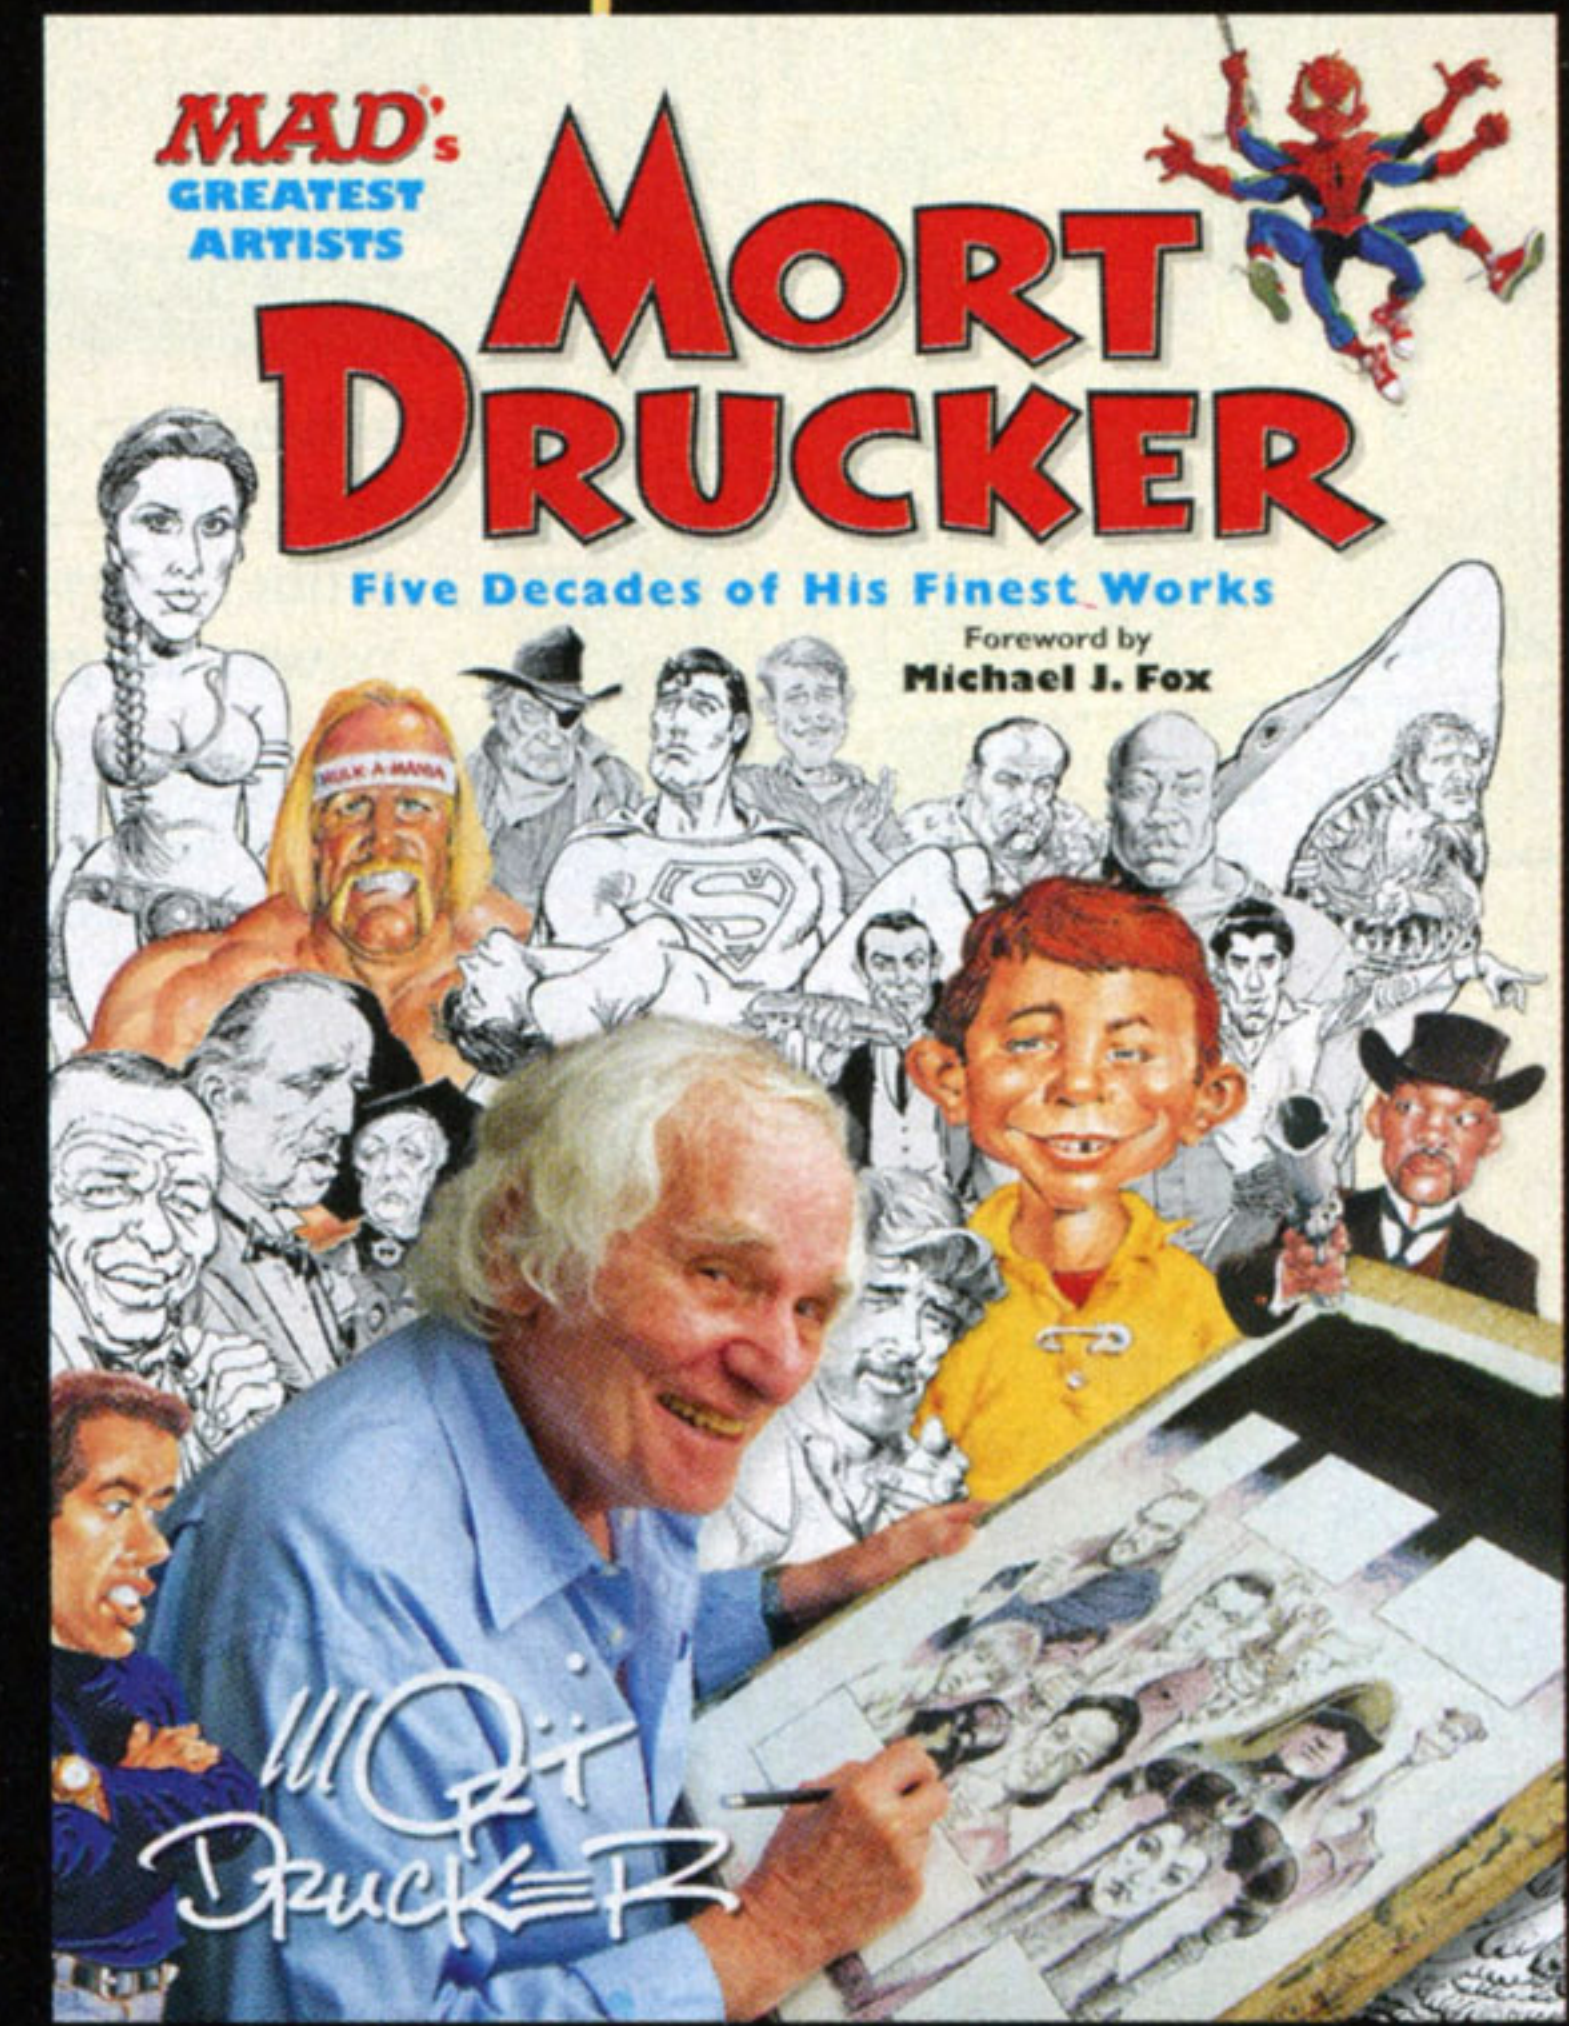

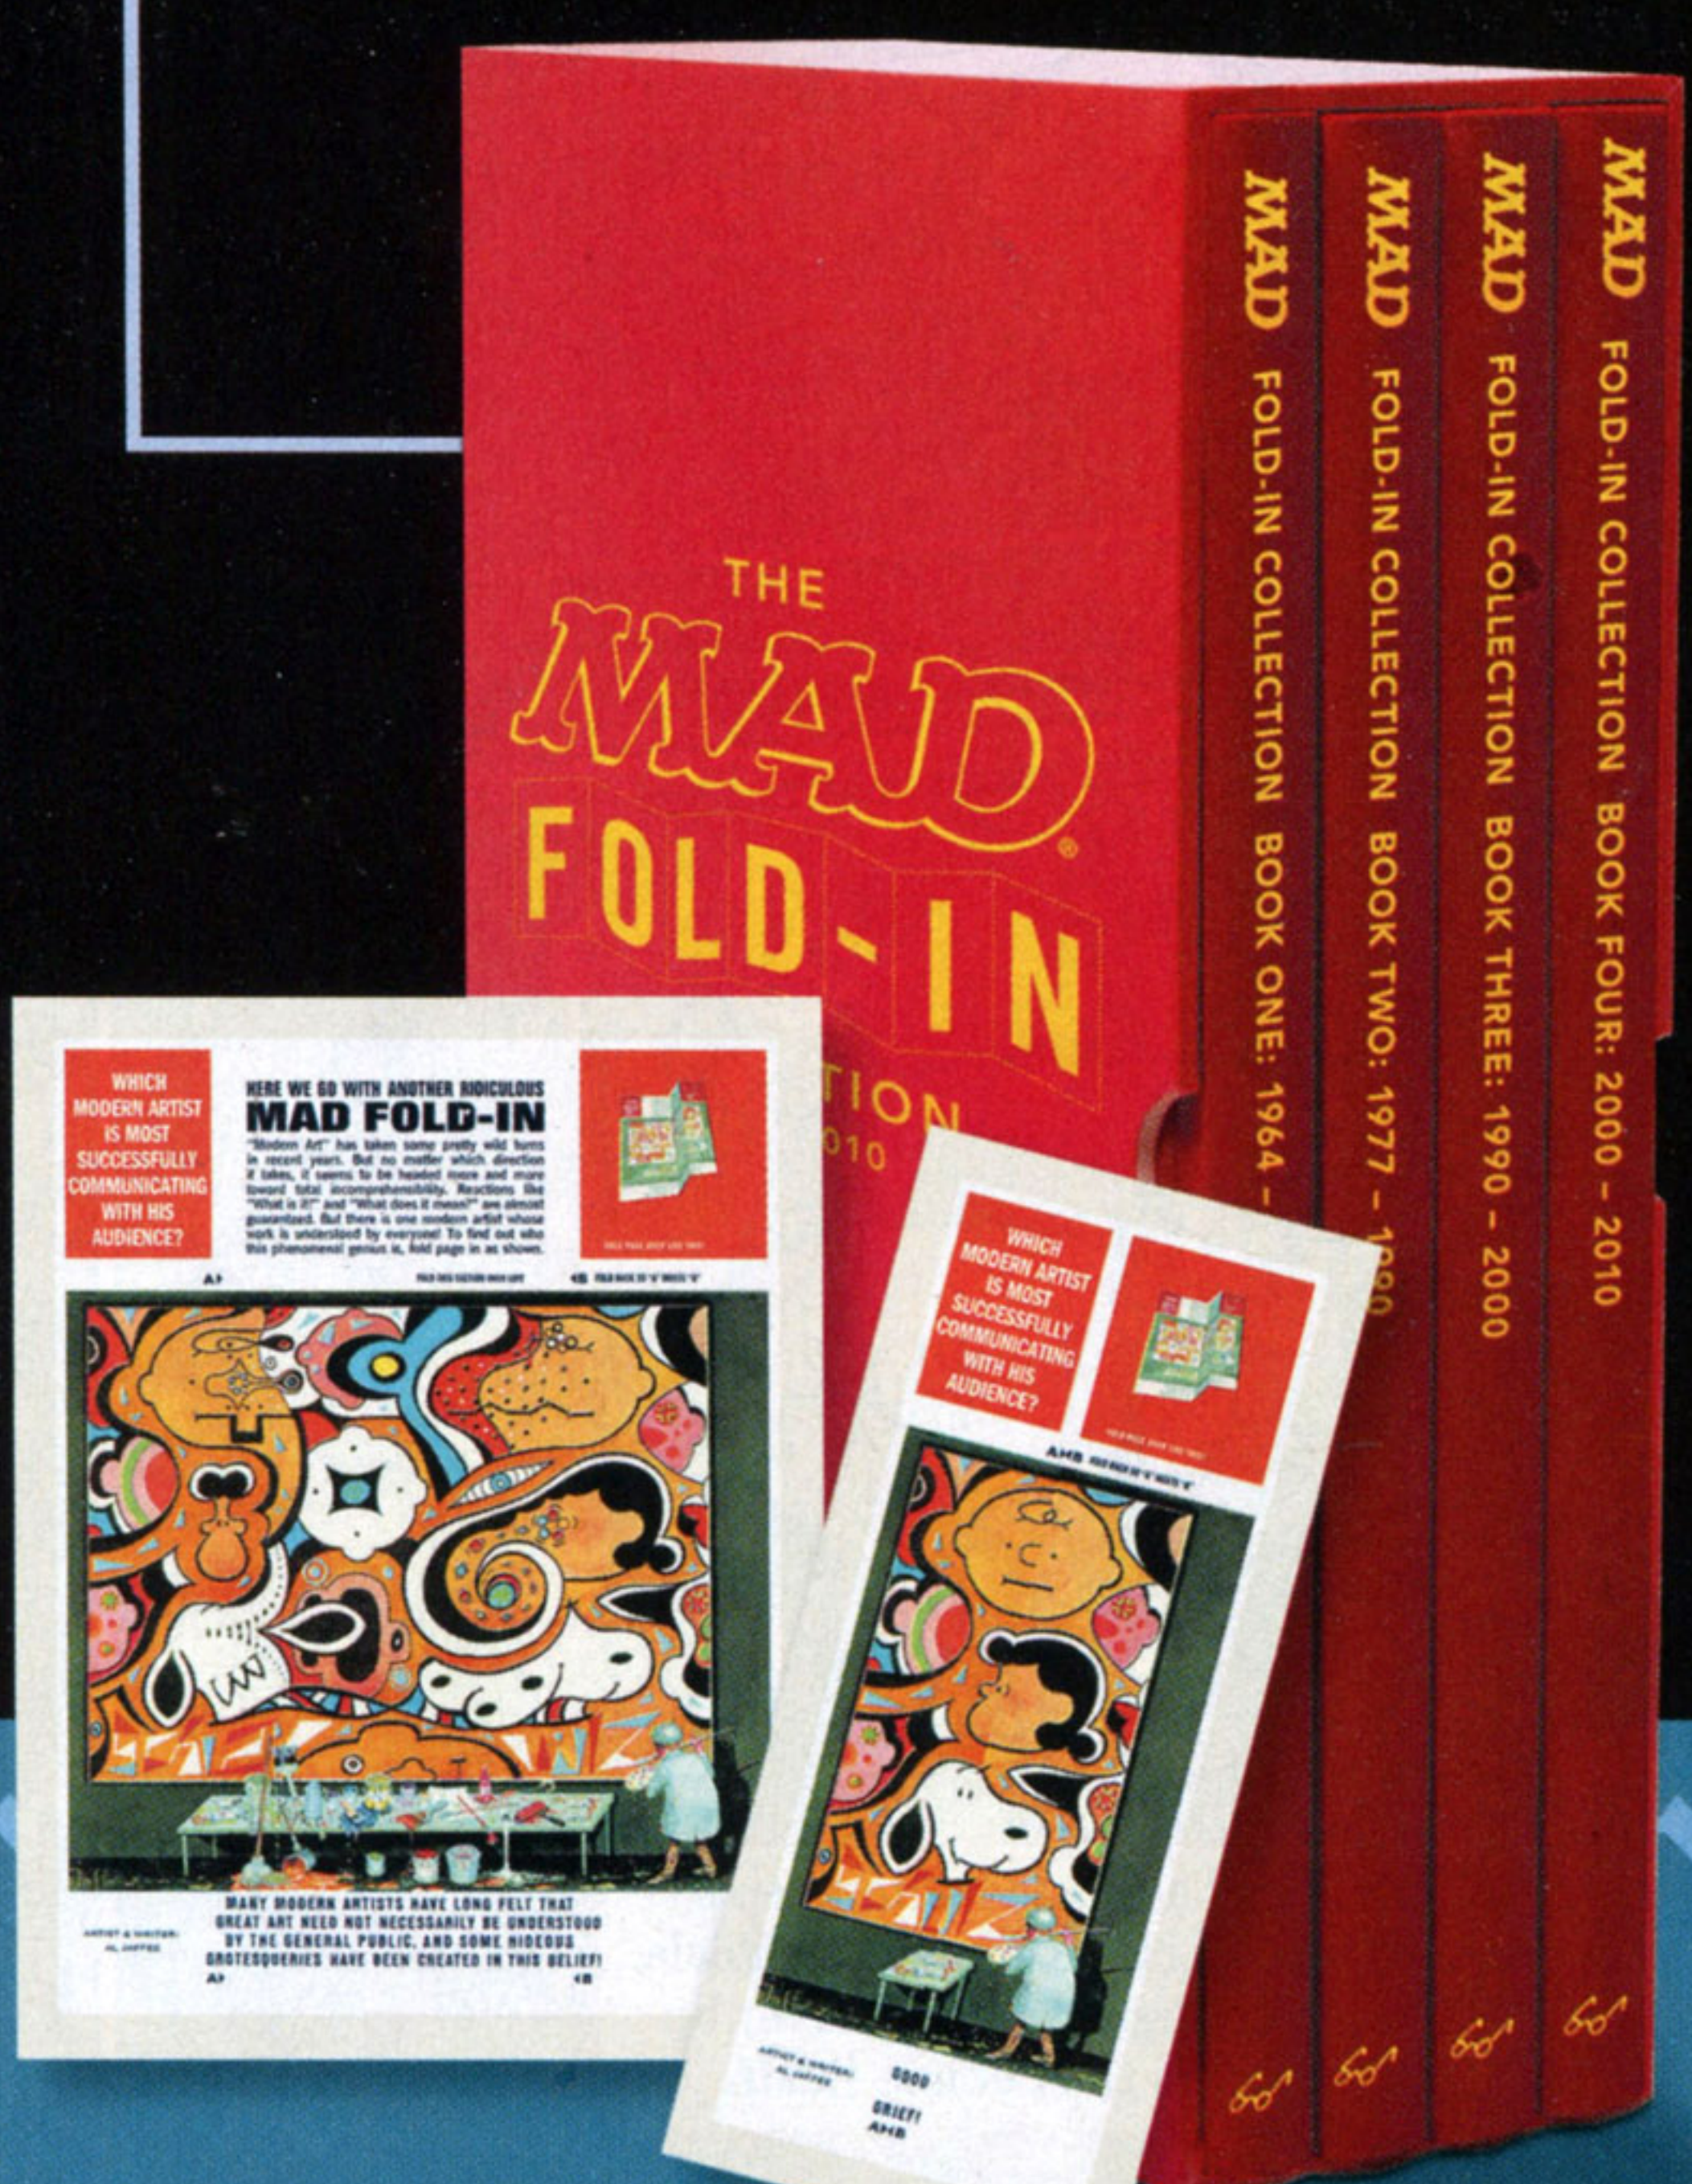

Eating in one's cubicle is commonly permitted during heavy workloads; however, food preparation methods that interfere with the normal flow of business must be avoided.

SEPTEMBER 8, 2013

So today, Chuck and I went over to my friend Kevin's house. Kevin's older brother Todd was there, doing target practice with his paintball gun. He let each of us fire off a few practice shots. It was fun right up until Chuck aimed too high and accidentally hit Kevin's mom's car.

Chuck said, "Maybe she'll think a bird pooped on it?" And Kevin said, "There'd have to be something really wrong with that bird."

SEPTEMBER 19, 2013

If anyone from my geometry class is reading this: For the last time, I swear I wasn't picking my nose! I was just scratching it from the inside!

SEPTEMBER 9, 2013

In history, we were learning about how the ancient Egyptians invented sundials to tell time. I bet they were really impressed with how clever they were, right up until the first cloudy day.

SEPTEMBER 18, 2013

I don't understand those Mickey Mouse ears that you get at Disneyland. They don't make you look like Mickey Mouse. They make you look like you scalped Mickey Mouse and are wearing his ears as a trophy.

SEPTEMBER 17, 2013

Good news! This weekend, Kevin's brother Todd is going paintballing with his friends, and they invited Kevin, me and Chuck along! Todd must've been really impressed by our shooting last weekend! Hooray!

SEPTEMBER 17, 2013

My dad is watching a football game downstairs right now. The New York Jets are playing. I'm not sure I understand why you'd ever pick the name "Jets" for your team. I mean, I can understand calling your team the Bears, or the Lions, or the Jaguars, because that seems sort of menacing — "I'm going to tear you apart like a jaguar!" But what's so menacing about a jet? "I'm going to safely transport you somewhere really fast"?

SEPTEMBER 20, 2013

Going paintballing tomorrow. I asked Kevin what I need to bring, and he said, "Nothing much — Todd even said he'd bring lunch for us, so all you need to do is wear some clothes you don't mind getting paint on." So I went through my closet and found an old pair of jeans, and a ratty old sweatshirt with Pikachu on it from when I was ten. It's a little tight, but it still fits.

I'm psyched, and really glad Todd thought to invite us. It's funny: I always used to think he was kind of a jerk, but it turns out, he's actually pretty cool.

SEPTEMBER 20, 2013

I saw someone on TV today bragging that they had the world's largest rock collection, but I'm not sure how impressive that is. What if each rock is really tiny? What if his rock collection is just a bucket of sand?

SEPTEMBER 21, 2013

Ugh. Just got back from paintballing. I don't even want to talk about it.

SEPTEMBER 22, 2013

OK, I guess I'm recovered enough to talk about how paintballing went. In a word, it suuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuucked.

It started off fine — we drove way out into the woods to the paintball course, and Todd gave Kevin, Chuck and me paintball rifles, and we were all excited. Then Todd took out a couple of massive paintball guns, gave them out to his friends, and announced, "Let's give these guys a thirty-second head start."

That's when we realized: We hadn't been invited to play alongside Todd and his friends. We were invited as target practice.

It wasn't even close to a fair fight. We got totally creamed with paintballs. (It probably didn't help that I was wearing a shirt with a big, bright yellow target on it.)

And here's a thing I learned: Paintballs sting when they hit you. A lot. Getting hit with paintballs is sort of like having someone throw a fistful of nickels at you as hard as they possibly can. Here's what my outfit looks like now:

Making things even worse: The lunch that Todd brought for us was a can of sardines for each of us, and a few Saltines. (Is there any good food that ends in -ine? Sardines, Saltines, margarine, Ovaltine — none of them are good.)

Chuck, Kevin and I were all exhausted and covered in welts and paint, and none of us could stomach the thought of eating sardines.

(Wait: I just thought of a good food that ends in -ine: Tangerine. Tangerines are good.)

Anyway, the only good part of the day was when we realized what we could do with the sardines: When Todd and his friends went off to clean their massive paintball guns, we went into his car and hid sardines everywhere in it — the ashtrays, the glovebox, inside the air-conditioning vents, under the floor mats. Everywhere. They don't smell too bad now. But it's supposed to be super-hot for the next couple of days. And I'm sure he'll find where we hid all of them...eventually.

Imitation old-fashioned canning jars make a bold, rustic statement when used as drinking glasses. Permanently affixed wire latches clattering to and fro with every tilt of one's hand make getting even the smallest sip an awkward, blundering affair. A perfect complement to every other piece of glassware or crockware that we inexplicably outfit with late-19th-century swing tops, rubber gaskets and ceramic stoppers that have served no purpose since advances in modern bottling gave us screw tops in 1909.

OVERPRICED, ESOTERIC KITCHEN ITEMS

A Silliams-Wonoma House Olive Oil
Grown from 100% Nevada-grown, early-season Cerignola olives, we chose this as our house olive oil because we got a good deal on a tanker truck of it. Plus, we knew that describing it with terms like "100% Nevada-grown," "early-season" and "Cerignola" would guarantee us big sales. But just to be sure, each bottle is sealed with red wax, melted down from a bunch of candles from last year's catalog that didn't sell.

$29.95

B Swiss-Made Olive Speculum
Between removing the olive pit with our French olive pit remover and stuffing the olive with our Japanese olive stuffer, you'll want to inspect the olive's cavity for any irregularities. Our high-quality brushed steel olive speculum makes it easy.

$17.95

C Whistling Tea Kettle
Handsome stainless steel tea kettle plays Roger Whittaker's "Mexican Whistler" via steam escaping through miniature calliope pipes when water inside reaches a boil. Also available in "Andy Griffith Show Theme" and "Folsom Prison Blues."

$62.95

D Pancake Compass
No more amoeba-shaped, amorphous blobs at breakfast with our precision griddle compass. Create a stack of perfectly round, uniform pancakes that Archimedes himself would be proud to chow down on. Also great for crêpes, blintzes and picking at toenails while on the phone.

$12.95

Note: Use on Silliams-Wonoma cookware may damage cooking surface/void warranty.

E Illuminated Manuscript Parchment Muffin Cups
We've literally taken a page right out of history with these muffin/cupcake liners made from upcycled 11th-century religious texts from various monasteries across the British Isles.

$1,795.95

F Sheep Balls Cookbook
The classic cookbook now celebrating its 60th anniversary is a must-have for every kitchen. 227 tasty recipes, including such perennial favorites as Roasted Sheep Balls with Honey, Thyme, Jalapeño & Sheep Ball Poppers and Sheep-and-Matzoh-Ball Soup.

$40

G Spaghetti Wall
Perfect al dente spaghetti demands a smooth, painted wall for a test strand to be tossed at, leaving those with mere tile or exposed brickwork at a culinary disadvantage. Portable 4' x 8' vertical surface can be rolled out, pelted with pasta, and then tucked away in a large storage closet, extra bedroom or garage when cooking is complete. Glossy white enamel finish on drywall, mounted on standard 2x4 studs.

$675.00

H Herculean Salt and Pepper Grinders
Applying the two most basic seasonings to your meal becomes a sciatica-inducing event with these unwieldy salt and pepper grinders, romantically hearkening back to some imagined time when food presumably tasted better if one really had to work for that little bit of extra flavor. Designed for everyday use, but sure to be quickly put away in a cupboard and replaced on the table with standard shakers, each grinder accommodates six ounces of weevil-prone peppercorns and salt crystals that will fuse into a solid mass with just the slightest change in humidity.

$110.00

I Antique Stew Pot — Exclusive!
Originally from a 19th-century Belfast insane asylum, these large enamel metal chamber pots have been repurposed as charming cooking vessels, perfect for brewing up a steaming load of Irish stew. Quantities are limited.

$129.95

J African Warlord Pizza Machete
Quickly cut pizza into uniform slices and then chop off the hand of anyone who dares to reach for seconds. Warped, rusty steel.

$37.95

K Industrial Institution 12-Gallon Floor Mixer
This 12-gallon floor mixer was designed for use in hospitals, prisons and school cafeterias to prepare enormous quantities of bland food, but is now available to us through special consideration from the manufacturer. Over five feet tall and weighing more than 600 pounds, its sheer size makes a definite statement — and then there's the noise and vibration from its 18-horsepower motor. We anticipate this will be our most popular mixer yet, given that our customers show as much fondness for oversized, unwieldy, utilitarian appliances as they do for tiny, unnecessary, ridiculously specific one-purpose gewgaws. Can also be used to mix cement for that kitchen expansion you'll need to store it.
